ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE DECISION

OC: 03/03/24
Claimant: Respondent (2)

Iowa Code § 96.5(2)a – Discharge for Misconduct
Iowa Code § 96.3(7) – Overpayment of Benefits
Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.10 – Employer Participation in Fact-finding Interview

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

The employer, KE Brands LLC, filed an appeal from a decision of a representative dated April 5, 2024, (reference 04) that held the claimant eligible for unemployment insurance benefits after a separation from employment. After due notice, a telephone hearing was held on April 29, 2024. The claimant, Christian Taff, did not participate. The employer participated through President Michael Kazma. The administrative law judge took official notice of the administrative record.

ISSUES:

Whether the claimant was discharged for disqualifying, job-related misconduct.
Whether the claimant has been overpaid any unemployment insurance benefits, and if so, whether the repayment of those benefits to the agency can be waived.
Whether any charges to the employer's account can be waived.

FINDINGS OF FACT:

The administrative law judge, having heard the testimony and considered all of the evidence in the record, finds: The claimant worked as a full-time general manager for KE Brands LLC from May 2023 to March 9, 2024, when he was discharged. As a general manager, the claimant was responsible for overseeing sales, the production of products, and supervising one employee.

In his position, the claimant was given a company credit card. When the claimant was given the credit card, he was instructed that the card was only to be used to purchase necessary items for the store or, with prior approval from the president, to take potential clients to lunch or reward employees for their work. Employees were warned that misuse of company property could result in discipline up to and including termination of employment. The claimant was familiar with the employer's work rules.

In late-January 2024, the employer noticed a charge on the company credit card from January 24, 2024, for $18.00 from a bar/restaurant located in the same mall as the store. The employer had not approved the expenditure, so the employer called the claimant into a meeting and asked the claimant about the charge. The claimant told the employer that he had taken an employee out to lunch to reward the employee for having done good work and that he had marked the expenditure in the system as an “employee incentive.”

The employer was suspicious of the claimant’s explanation, because the expenditure required prior approval and, if the purchase involved alcohol, it violated the employer’s alcohol policy. For this reason, the employer continued investigating and found the itemized receipt from the purchase, which reflected that the claimant had purchased a beer and a cheeseburger. The purchase had been made during work hours outside of the claimant’s scheduled lunch break. The employer then went to the bar and asked to review surveillance footage during the time of the transaction. The surveillance footage showed the claimant purchase the beer and food with the company credit card, then consume the food and beer himself alone at the bar.

On March 9, 2024, the employer called the claimant into a meeting and again questioned the claimant about the January 24 purchase with the company card. The claimant again told the employer that he had used the card to purchase lunch for another employee. At the end of the meeting, the employer informed the claimant that his employment was being terminated effective immediately due to dishonesty and misuse of company property in violation of the employer’s work rules.

The claimant’s administrative records indicate that the claimant filed his original claim for benefits with an effective date of March 3, 2024. The claimant has filed weekly claims for benefits for two weeks between March 3 and March 16, 2024, and has received total unemployment insurance benefits of $451.00.

The employer did not substantially participate in fact finding in this matter by not answering when called twice at the phone number listed on KFFD. Both times the calls went to voicemail. The investigator left two voicemails instructing the employer to call back or send a written statement by 4:00 p.m. The employer stated that it did not receive a call from an investigator at the time the interview was scheduled to take place.

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

For the reasons that follow, the administrative law judge concludes the claimant was discharged from employment due to disqualifying, job-related misconduct.

Iowa Code section 96.5(2)a provides:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits:

2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual’s employment:

a. The individual shall be disqualified for benefits until the individual has worked in and has been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times the individual’s weekly benefit amount, provided the individual is otherwise eligible.

Iowa Code section 96.5(2)d(2) and (14) provide:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits, regardless of the source of the individual’s wage credits:

2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:

d. For the purposes of this subsection, "misconduct" means a deliberate act or omission by an employee that constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of the employee's contract of employment. Misconduct is limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or evil design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer. Misconduct by an individual includes but is not limited to all of the following:

(2) Knowing violation of a reasonable and uniformly enforced rule of an employer.

(13) Theft of an employer or coworker's funds or property.

The employer has the burden of proof in establishing disqualifying job misconduct. Cosper v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 321 N.W.2d 6 (Iowa 1982).

The issue is not whether the employer made a correct decision in separating the claimant, but whether the claimant is entitled to unemployment insurance benefits. Infante v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 364 N.W.2d 262 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984). Misconduct serious enough to warrant discharge is not necessarily serious enough to warrant a denial of job insurance benefits. Such misconduct must be "substantial." Newman v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 351 N.W.2d 806 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984). The law limits disqualifying misconduct to substantial and willful wrongdoing or repeated carelessness or negligence that equals willful misconduct in culpability. Lee v. Employment Appeal Bd., 616 N.W.2d 661 (Iowa 2000).

The employer has presented substantial and credible evidence that on January 24, 2024, the claimant purchased a cheeseburger and a beer for himself and knowingly charged the purchase to the company credit card. The purchase was not approved by the employer, the purchase of alcohol violated the employer's work rules, and the claimant consumed the products while clocked-in for work. Finally, the claimant lied to the employer on two separate occasions when questioned about the purchase.

A company policy against theft is not necessary; honesty is a reasonable, commonly accepted duty owed to the employer. The claimant's purchase was a misappropriation of the employer's funds and constitutes theft from the employer. Theft from an employer is generally disqualifying misconduct. Ringland Johnson, Inc. v. Hunecke, 585 N.W.2d 269, 272 (Iowa 1998). In Ringland, the Court found a single attempted theft to be misconduct as a matter of law. In this case, the claimant deliberately disregarded the employer's interest. The claimant engaged in disqualifying misconduct even without prior warning. Benefits are denied.

The next issues to be determined are whether the claimant has been overpaid benefits, whether the claimant must repay those benefits, and whether the employer's account will be charged. For the reasons that follow, the administrative law judge concludes:

Iowa Code section 96.3(7)a, b, as amended in 2008, provides:

Payment – determination – duration – child support intercept.

7. Recovery of overpayment of benefits.

a. If an individual receives benefits for which the individual is subsequently determined to be ineligible, even though the individual acts in good faith and is not otherwise at fault, the benefits shall be recovered. The department in its discretion may recover the overpayment of benefits either by having a sum equal to the overpayment deducted from any future benefits payable to the individual or by having the individual pay to the department a sum equal to the overpayment.

b. (1) (a) If the department determines that an overpayment has been made, the charge for the overpayment against the employer's account shall be removed and the account shall be credited with an amount equal to the overpayment from the unemployment compensation trust fund and this credit shall include both contributory and reimbursable employers, notwithstanding section 96.8, subsection 5. The employer shall not be relieved of charges if benefits are paid because the employer or an agent of the employer failed to respond timely or adequately to the department's request for information relating to the payment of benefits. This prohibition against relief of charges shall apply to both contributory and reimbursable employers.

(b) However, provided the benefits were not received as the result of fraud or willful misrepresentation by the individual, benefits shall not be recovered from an individual if the employer did not participate in the initial determination to award benefits pursuant to section 96.6, subsection 2, and an overpayment occurred because of a subsequent reversal on appeal regarding the issue of the individual's separation from employment.

(2) An accounting firm, agent, unemployment insurance accounting firm, or other entity that represents an employer in unemployment claim matters and demonstrates a continuous pattern of failing to participate in the initial determinations to award benefits, as determined and defined by rule by the department, shall be denied permission by the department to represent any employers in unemployment insurance matters. This subparagraph does not apply to attorneys or counselors admitted to practice in the courts of this state pursuant to section 602.10101.

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.10 provides:

Employer and employer representative participation in fact-finding interviews.

(1) "Participate," as the term is used for employers in the context of the initial determination to award benefits pursuant to Iowa Code section 96.6, subsection 2, means submitting detailed factual information of the quantity and quality that if unrebutted would be sufficient to result in a decision favorable to the employer. The most effective means to participate is to provide live testimony at the interview from a witness with firsthand knowledge of the events leading to the separation. If no live testimony is provided, the employer must provide the name and telephone number of an employee with firsthand information who may be contacted, if necessary, for rebuttal. A party may also participate by providing detailed written statements or documents that provide detailed factual information of the events leading to separation. At a minimum, the information provided by the employer or the employer's representative must identify the dates and particular circumstances of the incident or incidents, including, in the case of discharge, the act or omissions of the claimant or, in the event of a voluntary separation, the stated reason for the quit. The specific rule or policy must be submitted if the claimant was discharged for violating such rule or policy. In the case of discharge for attendance violations, the information must include the circumstances of all incidents the employer or the employer's representative contends meet the definition of unexcused absences as set forth in 871—subrule 24.32(7). On the other hand, written or oral statements or general conclusions without supporting detailed factual information and information submitted after the fact-finding decision has been issued are not considered participation within the meaning of the statute.

(2) "A continuous pattern of nonparticipation in the initial determination to award benefits," pursuant to Iowa Code section 96.6, subsection 2, as the term is used for an entity representing employers, means on 25 or more occasions in a calendar quarter beginning with the first calendar quarter of 2009, the entity files appeals after failing to participate. Appeals filed but withdrawn before the day of the contested case hearing will not be considered in determining if a continuous pattern of nonparticipation exists. The division administrator shall notify the employer's representative in writing after each such appeal.

(3) If the division administrator finds that an entity representing employers as defined in Iowa Code section 96.6, subsection 2, has engaged in a continuous pattern of nonparticipation, the division administrator shall suspend said representative for a period of up to six months on the first occasion, up to one year on the second occasion and up to ten years on the third or subsequent occasion. Suspension by the division administrator constitutes final agency action and may be appealed pursuant to Iowa Code section 17A.19.

(4) "Fraud or willful misrepresentation by the individual," as the term is used for claimants in the context of the initial determination to award benefits pursuant to Iowa Code section 96.6, subsection 2, means providing knowingly false statements or knowingly false denials of material facts for the purpose of obtaining unemployment insurance benefits. Statements or denials may be either oral or written by the claimant. Inadvertent misstatements or mistakes made in good faith are not considered fraud or willful misrepresentation.

This rule is intended to implement Iowa Code section 96.3(7)"b" as amended by 2008 Iowa Acts, Senate File 2160.

The unemployment insurance law provides that benefits must be recovered from a claimant who receives benefits and is later determined to be ineligible for benefits, even though the claimant acted in good faith and was not otherwise at fault. However, the overpayment will not be recovered when it is based on a reversal on appeal of an initial determination to award benefits on an issue regarding the claimant's employment separation if: (1) the benefits were not received due to any fraud or willful misrepresentation by the claimant and (2) the employer did not participate in the initial proceeding to award benefits. The employer will not be charged for benefits if it is determined that they did participate in the fact-finding interview. Iowa Code § 96.3(7), Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.10.

Because the claimant's separation was disqualifying, benefits were paid to which the claimant was not entitled. The administrative law judge concludes that the claimant has been overpaid unemployment insurance benefits in the amount of $451.00 for the one week ending March 16, 2024. There is no evidence that the claimant received these benefits due to fraud or willful misrepresentation. Because the employer did not participate in the fact-finding interview, the claimant is not obligated to repay to the agency the benefits he received and the employer's account shall be charged.

DECISION:

The April 5, 2024, (reference 04) unemployment insurance decision is reversed. The claimant was discharged for substantial job-related misconduct. Unemployment insurance benefits funded by the State of Iowa are denied until the claimant has worked in and been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times his weekly benefit amount after the March 9, 2024, separation date, and provided he is otherwise eligible.

The claimant has been overpaid unemployment insurance benefits in the amount of $451.00, but is not obligated to repay the agency those benefits. The employer did not participate in the fact-finding interview and its account shall be charged.
