ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE DECISION

OC: 04/07/24
Claimant: Appellant (2)

Iowa Code § 96.5(2)a – Discharge for Misconduct

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

On May 14, 2024, the claimant filed an appeal from the May 6, 2024, (reference 05) unemployment insurance decision that denied benefits based upon a determination that claimant was discharged due to wanton carelessness. The parties were properly notified of the hearing. A telephone hearing was held on May 31, 2024. Claimant Henry Knapp participated. Attorney Phil Watson represented claimant. Employer Nagle Signs, Inc. participated through vice president of finance Jessica Fasselius and lead fabricator Matt Reis. Attorney Clark Butler represented employer. Claimant's Exhibit A was received. Employer's Exhibits 1 - 10 were received.

ISSUE:

Was the claimant discharged for disqualifying job-related misconduct?

FINDINGS OF FACT:

Having reviewed all of the evidence in the record, the administrative law judge finds: Claimant was employed full time as a fabricator from July 17, 2023, until April 8, 2024, when he was discharged.

On February 9 and February 29, 2024, claimant was assigned the task of assembling LED conversion kits for CAT Scales, employer's largest customer. Claimant completed the task of assembling LED conversion kits on one other occasion during his employment. He did not receive formal training, but received a diagram with the amount of each item needed to complete each kit. Claimant did not have any leftover parts at the completion of the assembly and believed he correctly assembled the kits.

Employer's customers often do not immediately use the kits, so it was not until April 4, 2024, that CAT Scales notified employer that four pallets out of seven were missing parts. On April 8, 2024, employer conducted an investigation and determined claimant and two other employees worked on assembling the kits. Claimant was the employee responsible for assembling the kits and the other employees worked on crating and shipping and spent minimal time on the project in comparison to claimant's work. Employer sent staff out to CAT scales to go through each pallet and supplied the missing items to CAT Scales so they could install the kits. Employer could not provide a monetary value for the loss it suffered as a result of the mistake.

On April 8, 2024, employer terminated claimant's employment due to the severity of the mistake and to make sure its customer knew they took the error seriously.

Claimant did not receive any disciplinary action during his employment.

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

The issue is whether claimant was discharged for no disqualifying reason. For the reasons that follow, the administrative law judge concludes he was. Benefits are allowed.

Iowa Code § 96.5(2)a provides:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits:

2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:

a. The individual shall be disqualified for benefits until the individual has worked in and has been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times the individual's weekly benefit amount, provided the individual is otherwise eligible.

Iowa Code section 96.5(2)b, c and d provide:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits, regardless of the source of the individual's wage credits:

2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:

b. Provided further, if gross misconduct is established, the department shall cancel the individual's wage credits earned, prior to the date of discharge, from all employers.

c. Gross misconduct is deemed to have occurred after a claimant loses employment as a result of an act constituting an indictable offense in connection with the claimant's employment, provided the claimant is duly convicted thereof or has signed a statement admitting the commission of such an act. Determinations regarding a benefit claim may be redetermined within five years from the effective date of the claim. Any benefits paid to a claimant prior to a determination that the claimant has lost employment as a result of such act shall not be considered to have been accepted by the claimant in good faith.

d. For the purposes of this subsection, "misconduct" means a deliberate act or omission by an employee that constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of the employee's contract of employment. Misconduct is limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or even design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer. Misconduct by an individual includes but is not limited to all of the following:

- (1) Material falsification of the individual's employment application.
- (2) Knowing violation of a reasonable and uniformly enforced rule of an employer.
- (3) Intentional damage of an employer's property.
- (4) Consumption of alcohol, illegal or nonprescribed prescription drugs, or an impairing substance in a manner not directed by the manufacturer, or a combination of such substances, on the employer's premises in violation of the employer's employment policies.
- (5) Reporting to work under the influence of alcohol, illegal or nonprescribed prescription drugs, or an impairing substance in an off-label manner, or a combination of such substances, on the employer's premises in violation of the employer's employment policies, unless the individual is compelled to work by the employer outside of scheduled or on-call working hours.
- (6) Conduct that substantially and unjustifiably endangers the personal safety of coworkers or the general public.
- (7) Incarceration for an act for which one could reasonably expect to be incarcerated that result in missing work.
- (8) Incarceration as a result of a misdemeanor or felony conviction by a court of competent jurisdiction.
- (9) Excessive unexcused tardiness or absenteeism.
- (10) Falsification of any work-related report, task, or job that could expose the employer or coworkers to legal liability or sanction for violation of health or safety laws.
- (11) Failure to maintain any licenses, registration, or certification that is reasonably required by the employer or by law, or that is a functional requirement to perform the individual's regular job duties, unless the failure is not within the control of the individual.
- (12) Conduct that is libelous or slanderous toward an employer or an employee of the employer if such conduct is not protected under state or federal law.
- (13) Theft of an employer or coworker's funds or property.
- (14) Intentional misrepresentation of time worked or work carried out that results in the individual receiving unearned wages or unearned benefits.

The employer has the burden of proof in establishing disqualifying job misconduct. Cosper v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 321 N.W.2d 6 (Iowa 1982). The issue is not whether the employer made a correct decision in separating claimant, but whether the claimant is entitled to unemployment insurance benefits. Infante v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 364 N.W.2d 262 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984). What constitutes misconduct justifying termination of an employee and what misconduct warrants denial of unemployment insurance benefits are two separate decisions. Pierce v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 425 N.W.2d 679 (Iowa Ct. App. 1988). An employer may discharge an employee for any number of reasons or no reason at all if it is not contrary to public policy, but if it fails to meet its burden of proof to establish job related misconduct as the reason for the separation, employer incurs potential liability for unemployment insurance benefits related to that separation.

Here, claimant erred when he packaged kits that did not contain the correct number of items. However, employer has only shown that claimant was negligent. "[M]ere negligence is not enough to constitute misconduct." Lee v. Employment Appeal Board, 616 N.W.2d 661, 666 (Iowa 2000). A claimant will not be disqualified if the employer shows only "inadvertencies or ordinary negligence in isolated instances." 871 IAC 24.32(1)(a). Claimant was careless, but the carelessness does not indicate "such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or evil design" such that it could accurately be called misconduct. Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(1)(a); Greenwell v. Emp't Appeal Bd., No. 15-0154 (Iowa Ct. App. Mar. 23, 2016). Claimant did not have experience in this particular job duty and believed he packaged the kits properly. Because employer has failed to establish disqualifying misconduct, benefits are allowed, provided claimant is otherwise eligible

DECISION:

The May 6, 2024, (reference 05) unemployment insurance decision is REVERSED. There was no disqualifying separation with this employer. The claimant is allowed benefits, provided they remain otherwise eligible.
