Iowa Code § 96.5(2)a – Discharge for Misconduct
Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(1)a – Discharge for Misconduct

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

The claimant, Chad R. Murrell, filed an appeal from the December 21, 2023, (reference 01) unemployment insurance decision that denied benefits effective November 27, 2023, based upon the conclusion he was discharged for conduct not in the best interest of the employer. The parties were properly notified of the hearing. A telephone hearing was held on February 23, 2024, at 11:00 a.m. The claimant participated and testified. The employer participated through General Manager Quentin Buswell and Human Resources Manager Megan Rearden. Exhibit D-1 and D-2 were received as evidence.

ISSUE:

Was the claimant discharged for disqualifying job-related misconduct?

FINDINGS OF FACT:

Having reviewed all of the evidence in the record, the administrative law judge finds:

The claimant worked as a full-time warehouse manager from February 18, 2019, until he separated from employment on November 27, 2023, when he was terminated. General Manager Quentin Buswell was the claimant's immediate supervisor.

The employer has an employee handbook. The employer's handbook prohibits the use, transfer, or possession of alcohol on its premises. The claimant acknowledged receipt of the handbook on May 12, 2023.

On October 30, 2023, two empty Busch Light cans were found in the warehouse. The claimant denied that these were his beer cans. Nevertheless, Mr. Buswell and Abby Ortnier emphasized to the claimant the rule described above regarding the use, transfer, or possession of alcohol on the employer's premises. Mr. Buswell performed more walkthroughs in the warehouse because he was concerned that he could not find the source.

Shortly after discovering these cans, the employer discovered one of the claimant's subordinates was intoxicated at work. After receiving the positive test result from the breathalyzer, the employer terminated this subordinate.

On November 18, 2023, Vice President of Supply Chains and Logistics Pat Venteicher, Mr. Buswell's immediate supervisor, informed him of empty Busch Light bottles being accidentally shipped from the employer's premises in Iowa to its premises in Ohio.

On November 23, 2023, Mr. Venteicher noticed a 15 pack of Busch Light in the Carroll warehouse that matched the description of bottles found in Ohio. Mr. Buswell found the beer there later that night.

On November 24, 2023, Mr. Buswell bought a camera to install near the fridge. He did later that night. Before he entered the warehouse, the claimant was leaving in his Jeep. Mr. Buswell noticed that five beer bottles were missing from the night before. The claimant took them with him to drink at another location.

On November 25, 2023, Mr. Buswell installed a camera to overlook the general area of the warehouse.

On November 26, 2023, Mr. Buswell received an alert about motion around the refrigerator. He noticed the claimant peered into the fridge, pulled out the beer, and put it in the bottom of his cart. Mr. Buswell met the claimant while he was getting into his Jeep.

On November 27, 2023, the employer terminated the claimant for violating the rule regarding use, transfer, or possession of alcohol on the employer's premises.

The following section of the findings of fact displays the findings needed to resolve the timeliness issue:

A disqualification decision was mailed to the claimant's address of record on December 21, 2023. (Exhibit D1) The claimant did not receive the decision. The first notice of disqualification was a conversation with Rebecca Willenborg, a career planner, on January 25, 2024. The claimant had noticed his benefits were locked. He had been contacting Iowa Workforce Development staff for weeks to determine why. Ms. Willenborg explained the decision denied him benefits and so the claimant appealed on January 31, 2024. (Exhibit D2)

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

The first issue to be considered in this appeal is whether the claimant's appeal is timely. The administrative law judge determines it is.

The decision in this case rests, at least in part, on the credibility of the witnesses. It is the duty of the administrative law judge as the trier of fact in this case, to determine the credibility of witnesses, weigh the evidence and decide the facts in issue. Arndt v. City of LeClaire, 728 N.W.2d 389, 394-395 (Iowa 2007). The administrative law judge may believe all, part or none of any witness's testimony. State v. Holtz, 548 N.W.2d 162, 163 (Iowa App. 1996). In assessing the credibility of witnesses, the administrative law judge should consider the evidence using his or her own observations, common sense and experience. Id. In determining the facts, and deciding what testimony to believe, the fact finder may consider the following factors: whether the testimony is reasonable and consistent with other believable evidence; whether a witness has made inconsistent statements; the witness's appearance, conduct, age, intelligence, memory and knowledge of the facts; and the witness's interest in the trial, their motive, candor, bias and prejudice. Id.

After assessing the credibility of the witnesses who testified during the hearing, reviewing the exhibits submitted by the parties, considering the applicable factors listed above, and using his own common sense and experience, the administrative law judge finds the employer's version of events to be more credible than the claimant's recollection of those events.

Specifically, I do not find the claimant's allegation that he was given beer by Mr. Venteicher in the months leading to his termination. Mr. Venteicher is Mr. Buswell's immediate supervisor and was being briefed on the investigation. Mr. Venteicher also raised concerns about beer going to Ohio and confirmed beer in the fridge matching the description of what went to Ohio.

Nevertheless, I find the claimant's allegation that he never received the decision credible. The claimant gave circumstances such as contacting Iowa Workforce Development Department and the specific agent's name that informed him of the adverse decision. This set of circumstances is also referred to on his appeal.

Iowa Code section 96.6(2) provides:

2. Initial determination. A representative designated by the director shall promptly notify all interested parties to the claim of its filing, and the parties have ten days from the date of issuance of the notice of the filing of the claim to protest payment of benefits to the claimant. All interested parties shall select a format as specified by the department to receive such notifications. The representative shall promptly examine the claim and any protest, take the initiative to ascertain relevant information concerning the claim, and, on the basis of the facts found by the representative, shall determine whether or not the claim is valid, the week with respect to which benefits shall commence, the weekly benefit amount payable and its maximum duration, and whether any disqualification shall be imposed. The claimant has the burden of proving that the claimant meets the basic eligibility conditions of section 96.4. The employer has the burden of proving that the claimant is disqualified for benefits pursuant to section 96.5, except as provided by this subsection. The claimant has the initial burden to produce evidence showing that the claimant is not disqualified for benefits in cases involving section 96.5, subsections 10 and 11, and has the burden of proving that a voluntary quit pursuant to section 96.5, subsection 1, was for good cause attributable to the employer and that the claimant is not disqualified for benefits in cases involving section 96.5, subsection 1, paragraphs "a" through "h". Unless the claimant or other interested party, after notification or within ten calendar days after notification was issued, files an appeal from the decision, the decision is final and benefits shall be paid or denied in accordance with the decision. If an administrative law judge affirms a decision of the representative, or the appeal board affirms a decision of the administrative law judge allowing benefits, the benefits shall be paid regardless of any appeal which is thereafter taken, but if the decision is finally reversed, no employer's account shall be charged with benefits so paid and this relief from charges shall apply to both contributory and reimbursable employers, notwithstanding section 96.8, subsection 5.

The claimant did not have an opportunity to appeal the fact-finder's decision because the decision was not received. Without notice of a disqualification, no meaningful opportunity for appeal exists. See Smith v. Iowa Employment Security Commission, 212 N.W.2d 471, 472 (Iowa 1973). The claimant appealed within ten days of receiving notice of the decision against him on January 25, 2024. Therefore, the appeal shall be accepted as timely.

Iowa Code section 96.5(2)a provides:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits:

2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:

a. The individual shall be disqualified for benefits until the individual has worked in and has been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times the individual's weekly benefit amount, provided the individual is otherwise eligible.

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(1)a provides:

Discharge for misconduct.

(1) Definition.

a. "Misconduct" is defined as a deliberate act or omission by a worker which constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of such worker's contract of employment. Misconduct as the term is used in the disqualification provision as being limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or evil design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer. On the other hand mere inefficiency, unsatisfactory conduct, failure in good performance as the result of inability or incapacity, inadvertencies or ordinary negligence in isolated instances, or good faith errors in judgment or discretion are not to be deemed misconduct within the meaning of the statute.

This definition has been accepted by the Iowa Supreme Court as accurately reflecting the intent of the legislature. Huntoon v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 275 N.W.2d 445, 448 (Iowa 1979).

Iowa Code section 96.5(2)b, c and d provide:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits, regardless of the source of the individual's wage credits:

2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:

b. Provided further, if gross misconduct is established, the department shall cancel the individual's wage credits earned, prior to the date of discharge, from all employers.

c. Gross misconduct is deemed to have occurred after a claimant loses employment as a result of an act constituting an indictable offense in connection with the claimant's employment, provided the claimant is duly convicted thereof or has signed a statement admitting the commission of such an act. Determinations regarding a benefit claim may be redetermined within five years from the effective date of the claim. Any benefits paid to a claimant prior to a determination that the claimant has lost employment as a result of such act shall not be considered to have been accepted by the claimant in good faith.

d. For the purposes of this subsection, "misconduct" means a deliberate act or omission by an employee that constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of the employee's contract of employment. Misconduct is limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or evil design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer. Misconduct by an individual includes but is not limited to all of the following:

(1) Material falsification of the individual's employment application.

(2) Knowing violation of a reasonable and uniformly enforced rule of an employer.

(3) Intentional damage of an employer's property.

(4) Consumption of alcohol, illegal or nonprescribed prescription drugs, or an impairing substance in a manner not directed by the manufacturer, or a combination of such substances, on the employer's premises in violation of the employer's employment policies.

(5) Reporting to work under the influence of alcohol, illegal or nonprescribed prescription drugs, or an impairing substance in an off-label manner, or a combination of such substances, on the employer's premises in violation of the employer's employment policies, unless the individual is compelled to work by the employer outside of scheduled or on-call working hours.

(6) Conduct that substantially and unjustifiably endangers the personal safety of coworkers or the general public.

(7) Incarceration for an act for which one could reasonably expect to be incarcerated that result in missing work.

(8) Incarceration as a result of a misdemeanor or felony conviction by a court of competent jurisdiction.

(9) Excessive unexcused tardiness or absenteeism.

(10) Falsification of any work-related report, task, or job that could expose the employer or coworkers to legal liability or sanction for violation of health or safety laws.

(11) Failure to maintain any licenses, registration, or certification that is reasonably required by the employer or by law, or that is a functional requirement to perform the individual's regular job duties, unless the failure is not within the control of the individual.

(12) Conduct that is libelous or slanderous toward an employer or an employee of the employer if such conduct is not protected under state or federal law.

(13) Theft of an employer or coworker's funds or property.

(14) Intentional misrepresentation of time worked or work carried out that results in the individual receiving unearned wages or unearned benefits.

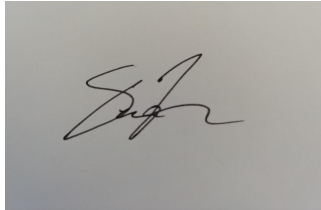

The employer has the burden of proof in establishing disqualifying job misconduct. Cosper v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 321 N.W.2d 6 (Iowa 1982). The issue is not whether the employer made a correct decision in separating claimant, but whether the claimant is entitled to unemployment insurance benefits. Infante v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 364 N.W.2d 262 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984). The Iowa Court of Appeals found substantial evidence of misconduct in testimony that the claimant worked slower than he was capable of working and would temporarily and briefly improve following oral reprimands. Sellers v. Emp't Appeal Bd., 531 N.W.2d 645 (Iowa Ct. App. 1995). Generally, continued refusal to follow reasonable instructions constitutes misconduct. Gilliam v. Atlantic Bottling Co., 453 N.W.2d 230 (Iowa Ct. App. 1990). Misconduct must be "substantial" to warrant a denial of job insurance benefits. Newman v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 351 N.W.2d 806 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984). Poor work performance is not misconduct in the absence of evidence of intent. Miller v. Emp't Appeal Bd., 423 N.W.2d 211 (Iowa Ct. App. 1988).

The administrative law judge finds the claimant was discharged due to a reasonable and uniformly enforced rule under Iowa Code section 96.5(2)d(2). As outlined in the findings of fact, I do not find the claimant's allegation that Mr. Venteicher gave him beer credible.

Even if it was credible, I do not find it to be outcome determinative. That is because the claimant presided over the warehouse when one of his subordinates had been terminated for being intoxicated on the job. He as the warehouse supervisor had the entire rule read to him around that time on October 30, 2023. That should have put him on notice that alcohol, to the extent it had been tolerated before, would no longer be tolerated. The claimant attempted to diminish this in the hearing by stating that he did not feel it applied to him because he was not drinking beer on the clock. The rule does not distinguish between use, transfer, and possession. Benefits are denied.

DECISION:

The December 21, 2023, (reference 01) unemployment insurance decision is AFFIRMED. The claimant was discharged from employment on November 17, 2023, due to job-related misconduct. Benefits are withheld until such time as he has worked in and been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times his weekly benefit amount, provided he is otherwise eligible.
