APPEAL 22A-UI-13627-S2-T
ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE
DECISION

OC: 05/08/22
Claimant: Appellant (2)

Iowa Code § 96.5(2)a – Discharge for Misconduct
Iowa Code § 96.5(1) – Voluntary Quit

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

The claimant filed an appeal from the May 25, 2022, (reference 01) unemployment insurance decision that denied benefits based upon a finding that claimant was discharged for violation of a known company rule. The parties were properly notified of a hearing scheduled for July 21, 2022. At the start of hearing, claimant indicated she wished to have an interpreter because English is not her native language. The interpreter service used by the agency does not offer Grebo as available language, so the hearing was postponed in order to schedule a hearing using a different service. However, during an August 8, 2022, appeal hearing on a different matter with a different administrative law judge, claimant proceeded without an interpreter and expressed her desire to proceed with this appeal without an interpreter. After due notice was issued, a telephone hearing was held on September 13, 2022. Claimant Oretha Karma participated and testified. Employer Seaboard Triumph Foods, LLC did not participate.

ISSUE:

Was the claimant discharged for disqualifying job-related misconduct?

FINDINGS OF FACT:

Having reviewed all of the evidence in the record, the administrative law judge finds: Claimant was employed full time as a trimmer from January 24, 2019, until April 29, 2022, when she was discharged.

The final incident leading to discharge occurred on or around April 22, 2022. While claimant worked at her station, another employee from a different area came up to claimant and started telling her how to do her job. Claimant told the employee she needed to leave her station, but the employee refused. When claimant tried to return to her duties, the employee accused claimant of getting blood in her face and hit claimant in the back of the head. When the claimant turned towards the employee, the employee went to grab claimant and claimant put out her hand to protect herself and made contact with the employee. The employee complained to management. Claimant met with management and human resources and explained the incident and employer sent claimant home pending an investigation. On April 29, 2022, employer notified claimant she was discharged.

Claimant previously spoke to management about this employee telling claimant how to do her job in a different manner from the way claimant was trained. Management told claimant she was not to listen to the employee because she was not her supervisor, and claimant was instructed to do her job duties as she was trained to do them.

Claimant received no disciplinary action during her employment.

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

For the reasons that follow, the administrative law judge concludes the claimant was discharged for no disqualifying reason. Benefits are allowed.

Iowa Code § 96.5(2)a provides:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits:

2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:

a. The individual shall be disqualified for benefits until the individual has worked in and has been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times the individual's weekly benefit amount, provided the individual is otherwise eligible.

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(1)a provides:

Discharge for misconduct.

(1) Definition.

a. "Misconduct" is defined as a deliberate act or omission by a worker which constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of such worker's contract of employment. Misconduct as the term is used in the disqualification provision as being limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or evil design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer. On the other hand mere inefficiency, unsatisfactory conduct, failure in good performance as the result of inability or incapacity, inadvertencies or ordinary negligence in isolated instances, or good faith errors in judgment or discretion are not to be deemed misconduct within the meaning of the statute.

This definition has been accepted by the Iowa Supreme Court as accurately reflecting the intent of the legislature. Huntoon v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 275 N.W.2d 445, 448 (Iowa 1979).

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(4) provides:

(4) Report required. The claimant's statement and employer's statement must give detailed facts as to the specific reason for the claimant's discharge. Allegations of misconduct or dishonesty without additional evidence shall not be sufficient to result in disqualification. If the employer is unwilling to furnish available evidence to corroborate the allegation, misconduct cannot be established. In cases where a suspension or disciplinary layoff exists, the claimant is considered as discharged, and the issue of misconduct shall be resolved.

Further, the employer has the burden of proof in establishing disqualifying job misconduct. Cosper v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 321 N.W.2d 6 (Iowa 1982). The issue is not whether the employer made a correct decision in separating claimant, but whether the claimant is entitled to unemployment insurance benefits. Infante v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 364 N.W.2d 262 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984). What constitutes misconduct justifying termination of an employee and what misconduct warrants denial of unemployment insurance benefits are two separate decisions. Pierce v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 425 N.W.2d 679 (Iowa Ct. App. 1988).

An employer may discharge an employee for any number of reasons or no reason at all if it is not contrary to public policy, but if it fails to meet its burden of proof to establish job related misconduct as the reason for the separation, employer incurs potential liability for unemployment insurance benefits related to that separation. Employer did not present any evidence that claimant engaged in job-related misconduct. As a result, employer has not met the burden of proof to establish that claimant engaged in misconduct that would disqualify her from benefits. Benefits are allowed.

DECISION:

The May 25, 2022, (reference 01) unemployment insurance decision is reversed. Claimant was discharged from employment for no disqualifying reason. Benefits are allowed, provided she is otherwise eligible. Any benefits claimed and withheld on this basis shall be paid.
