APPEAL 23A-UI-06990-AR-T

ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE
DECISION

IA VETERANS HOME – MARSHALLTOWN
Employer

OC: 01/22/23
Claimant: Respondent (2)

Iowa Code § 96.5(2)a – Discharge for Misconduct
Iowa Code § 96.3(7) – Recovery of Benefit Overpayment
Iowa Admin. Code r. 871—24.10 – Employer/Representative Participation Fact-finding Interview

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

On July 14, 2023, the employer filed an appeal from the July 7, 2023, (reference 07) unemployment insurance decision that allowed benefits based upon the determination that claimant was discharged without a showing of disqualifying misconduct. The parties were properly notified of the hearing. A telephone hearing was held on August 1, 2023. The claimant, Rusti F. Williams, did not participate. The employer, IA Veterans Homes – Marshalltown, participated through its hearing representative, Judy Berry, who did not testify, with testifying witnesses Brett Schutt and Ashleigh Demert. Employer's Exhibit 1 was admitted. The administrative law judge took official notice of the administrative record.

ISSUES:

Was the claimant discharged for disqualifying job-related misconduct?
Has the claimant been overpaid unemployment insurance benefits, and if so, can the repayment of those benefits to the agency be waived?
Can charges to the employer's account be waived?

FINDINGS OF FACT:

Having reviewed all of the evidence in the record, the administrative law judge finds: Claimant was employed full time as a food service worker from February 15, 2023, until this employment ended on June 14, 2023, when she was discharged.

On June 14, 2023, claimant's shift was scheduled to end at 2:15 p.m. Claimant left work around 9:40 a.m., saying she had to take her husband to an appointment. Demert was on duty as the supervisor that day and reminded claimant that she had been warned not to take leave without pay. Claimant responded that she thought she had five minutes of paid leave available. Demert told that was insufficient, but claimant left the shift despite this warning. The employer discharged claimant for her use of leave without pay and violation of its policy that prohibits use of leave without pay.

The employer's policy prohibiting use of leave without pay appears in its work rules. Additionally, claimant had received a disciplinary warning on May 21, 2023, because of her attendance and use of leave without pay. She was warned that future use of leave without pay would result in her discharge. After the issuance of that warning, claimant was absent without pay on four more occasions: May 23 and 26, 2023, and June 4, and 5, 2023. Each of the absences between May 23, 2023, and June 5, 2023, were due to illness.

The administrative record indicates that claimant filed an additional claim for unemployment insurance benefits with an effective date of June 18, 2023. Since this separation, claimant has received $0.00 in unemployment insurance benefits. The employer substantially participated in the fact finding interview.

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

For the reasons that follow, the administrative law judge concludes the claimant was discharged from employment due to job-related misconduct.

Iowa Code section 96.5(2)(a) and (d) provide:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits:

2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:

a. The disqualification shall continue until the individual has worked in and has been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times the individual's weekly benefit amount, provided the individual is otherwise eligible.

d. For the purposes of this subsection, "misconduct" means a deliberate act or omission by an employee that constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of the employee's contract of employment. Misconduct is limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or even design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer. Misconduct by an individual includes but is not limited to all of the following:

(1) Material falsification of the individual's employment application.

(2) Knowing violation of a reasonable and uniformly enforced rule of an employer.

(3) Intentional damage of an employer's property.

(4) Consumption of alcohol, illegal or nonprescribed prescription drugs, or an impairing substance in a manner not directed by the manufacturer, or a combination of such substances, on the employer's premises in violation of the employer's employment policies.

(5) Reporting to work under the influence of alcohol, illegal or nonprescribed prescription drugs, or an impairing substance in an off-label manner, or a combination of such substances, on the employer's premises in violation of the employer's employment policies, unless the individual is compelled to work by the employer outside of scheduled or on-call working hours.

(6) Conduct that substantially and unjustifiably endangers the personal safety of coworkers or the general public.

(7) Incarceration for an act for which one could reasonably expect to be incarcerated that results in missing work.

(8) Incarceration as a result of a misdemeanor or felony conviction by a court of competent jurisdiction.

(9) Excessive unexcused tardiness or absenteeism.

(10) Falsification of any work-related report, task, or job that could expose the employer or coworkers to legal liability or sanction for violation of health or safety laws.

(11) Failure to maintain any license, registration, or certification that is reasonably required by the employer or by law, or that is a functional requirement to perform the individual's regular job duties, unless the failure is not within the control of the individual.

(12) Conduct that is libelous or slanderous toward an employer or an employee of the employer if such conduct is not protected under state or federal law.

(13) Theft of an employer or coworker's funds or property.

(14) Intentional misrepresentation of time worked or work carried out that results in the individual receiving unearned wages or unearned benefits.

The employer has the burden of proof in establishing disqualifying job misconduct. Cosper v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 321 N.W.2d 6 (Iowa 1982).

A determination as to whether an employee's act is misconduct does not rest solely on the interpretation or application of the employer's policy or rule. A violation is not necessarily disqualifying misconduct even if the employer was fully within its rights to impose discipline up to or including discharge for the incident under its policy. The issue is not whether the employer made a correct decision in separating claimant, but whether the claimant is entitled to unemployment insurance benefits. Infante v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 364 N.W.2d 262 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984). What constitutes misconduct justifying termination of an employee and what misconduct warrants denial of unemployment insurance benefits are two separate decisions. Pierce v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 425 N.W.2d 679 (Iowa Ct. App. 1988). Misconduct serious enough to warrant discharge is not necessarily serious enough to warrant a denial of job insurance benefits. Such misconduct must be "substantial." Newman v. Iowa Dep't of Job

Serv., 351 N.W.2d 806 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984). The focus is on deliberate, intentional, or culpable acts by the employee.

The employer has demonstrated that claimant had been warned that she was prohibited from using leave without pay. Despite this, on her final day of employment, she elected to use leave without pay for a personal reason, not a reason associated with her own illness. Indeed, as she was leaving her shift, she was warned by a supervisor that she should not use leave without pay to incur an absence that day, and claimant acknowledged she did not have enough paid leave time to leave her shift early. This demonstrates a deliberate, intentional act by claimant, despite prior warnings for similar conduct. The claimant engaged in disqualifying misconduct, and benefits are denied.

Because the claimant has not received unemployment insurance benefits since this separation, the issues of overpayment, repayment, and participation are moot.

DECISION:

The July 7, 2023, (reference 07) unemployment insurance decision is REVERSED. The claimant was discharged from employment due to job-related misconduct. Benefits are withheld until such time as she has worked in and been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times her weekly benefit amount, provided she is otherwise eligible. Claimant has not been overpaid unemployment insurance benefits, so the issues of overpayment, repayment, and participation are moot.
