APPEAL 23A-UI-06984-AR-T
ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE
DECISION

OC: 06/18/23
Claimant: Respondent (1)

Iowa Code § 96.5(2)a – Discharge for Misconduct
Iowa Code § 96.3(7) – Recovery of Benefit Overpayment
Iowa Admin. Code r. 871—24.10 – Employer/Representative Participation Fact-finding Interview

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

On July 13, 2023, the employer filed an appeal from the July 11, 2023, (reference 01) unemployment insurance decision that allowed benefits based upon the determination that claimant was discharged without a showing of disqualifying misconduct. The parties were properly notified of the hearing. A telephone hearing was held on August 1, 2023. The claimant, Jody M. Greene, did not participate. The employer, Calvin Community, participated through Vice President of HR Matt Puffer. Employer's Exhibits 1 through 3 were admitted. The administrative law judge took official notice of the administrative record.

ISSUES:

Was the claimant discharged for disqualifying job-related misconduct?
Has the claimant been overpaid unemployment insurance benefits, and if so, can the repayment of those benefits to the agency be waived?
Can charges to the employer's account be waived?

FINDINGS OF FACT:

Having reviewed all of the evidence in the record, the administrative law judge finds: Claimant was employed part time as a CNA from November 16, 2021, until this employment ended on June 20, 2023, when she was discharged.

On June 20, 2023, claimant was scheduled to work at 6:00 a.m. Claimant did not arrive for work until one or two hours after her shift start time. She did not notify the employer of her tardy arrival prior to the shift start time. She later provided the explanation that her granddaughter had slept in her bed and kept her up all night. Because claimant had exceeded the employer's allowed attendance points under its no-fault attendance policy, the employer discharged claimant on June 20, 2023, for violation of its attendance policy.

The employer's attendance policy allows for employees to receive up to 12 attendance points before discharge. Claimant had been allowed more than 12 attendance points prior to her discharge. On November 30, 2022, claimant was issued a final warning for her attendance.

Her points numbered in excess of 12 at that time, but the employer offered her additional chances to remain employed. The warning stated that, if claimant accrued three more attendance points before November 16, 2023, she would be discharged. Thereafter, claimant was absent on January 4, 6, and 7, 2023, for which she received one point; February 8, 2023, for which she received one point; April 28, 2023, for which she received .5 point; and June 20, 2023, was the final point she received. The employer has no records regarding whether claimant properly reported these absences or why claimant was absent.

The administrative record indicates that claimant filed a claim for unemployment insurance benefits with an effective date of June 18, 2023. Her weekly benefit amount is $209.00. Claimant has filed for and received unemployment insurance benefits in the amount of $1,180.00 since the separation. The employer participated in the fact-finding interview to the best of its ability. Puffer participated but the fact finder's connection was bad. He provided some information before the fact finder said he would finish claimant's portion of the interview and call Puffer back. Puffer never received a return call.

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

For the reasons that follow, the administrative law judge concludes the claimant was discharged from employment for no disqualifying reason.

Iowa Code section 96.5(2)(a) and (d)(9) provide:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits:

2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:
 - a. The disqualification shall continue until the individual has worked in and has been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times the individual's weekly benefit amount, provided the individual is otherwise eligible.

d. For the purposes of this subsection, "misconduct" means a deliberate act or omission by an employee that constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of the employee's contract of employment. Misconduct is limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or even design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer. Misconduct by an individual includes but is not limited to all of the following:

- (9) Excessive unexcused tardiness or absenteeism.

The employer has the burden of proof in establishing disqualifying job misconduct. Cosper v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 321 N.W.2d 6 (Iowa 1982).

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871—24.32(7) provides:

(7) Excessive unexcused absenteeism. Excessive unexcused absenteeism is an intentional disregard of the duty owed by the claimant to the employer and shall be considered misconduct except for illness or other reasonable grounds for which the employee was absent and that were properly reported to the employer.

The employer has the burden to prove the claimant was discharged for work-connected misconduct as defined by the unemployment insurance law. Cosper, 321 N.W.2d 6. The issue is not whether the employer made a correct decision in separating claimant, but whether the claimant is entitled to unemployment insurance benefits. Infante v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 364 N.W.2d 262 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984). What constitutes misconduct justifying termination of an employee and what misconduct warrants denial of unemployment insurance benefits are two separate decisions. Pierce v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 425 N.W.2d 679 (Iowa Ct. App. 1988).

The employer must prove two elements to establish misconduct based on absenteeism. First, the absences must be excessive. Sallis v. Emp't Appeal Bd., 437 N.W.2d 895 (Iowa 1989). The determination of whether unexcused absenteeism is excessive necessarily requires consideration of past acts and warnings. Higgins v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 350 N.W.2d 187, 192 (Iowa 1984). Second, the absences must be unexcused. Cosper, 321 N.W.2d at 10. The requirement of "unexcused" can be satisfied in two ways. An absence can be unexcused either because it was not for "reasonable grounds," or because it was not "properly reported," holding excused absences are those "with appropriate notice." Higgins, 350 N.W.2d at 191; Cosper, 321 N.W.2d at 10.

Absences due to properly reported illness cannot constitute work-connected misconduct since they are not volitional, even if the employer was fully within its rights to assess points or impose discipline up to or including discharge for the absence under its attendance policy. Iowa Admin. Code r. 871—24.32(7); Cosper, 321 N.W.2d at 9; Gaborit v. Emp't Appeal Bd., 734 N.W.2d 554 (Iowa Ct. App. 2007). Medical documentation is not essential to a determination that an absence due to illness should be treated as excused. See Gaborit, 734 N.W.2d at 555–58. An employer's no-fault absenteeism policy or point system is not dispositive of the issue of qualification for unemployment insurance benefits. Absences related to issues of personal responsibility such as transportation, lack of childcare, and oversleeping are not considered excused. Higgins, 350 N.W.2d at 191. When a claimant does not provide an excuse for an absence, the absence is deemed unexcused. Id.; see also Spragg v. Becker-Underwood, Inc., 672 N.W.2d 333, 2003 WL 22339237 (Iowa App. 2003). The term "absenteeism" also encompasses conduct that is more accurately referred to as "tardiness." An absence is an extended tardiness; and an incident of tardiness is a limited absence.

The employer has not demonstrated that claimant's absences were both excessive and unexcused. Certainly, claimant's final absence was not excused since she did not report it in advance of her scheduled start time. However, one such unexcused absence is not excessive in nature. The employer could provide no details regarding the rest of claimant's absences other than their dates. It has not carried the burden of establishing that claimant's absences prior to her final absence were unexcused, and to conclude that they were with no information would shift the burden to the claimant impermissibly. The employer has not demonstrated that claimant engaged in disqualifying misconduct. Benefits are allowed.

Because the separation is not disqualifying, the issues of overpayment, repayment, and participation are moot.

DECISION:

The July 11, 2023, (reference 01) unemployment insurance decision is AFFIRMED. The claimant was discharged from employment for no disqualifying reason. Benefits are allowed, provided the claimant is otherwise eligible. The issues of overpayment, repayment, and participation are moot.
