ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE DECISION

THE ANTHEM COMPANIES INC

Employer

OC: 09/27/20

Claimant: Appellant (1)

lowa Code § 96.5(2)a – Discharge for Misconduct lowa Code § 96.5(1) – Voluntary Quitting

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

The claimant/appellant filed an appeal from the November 23, 2020 (reference 01) unemployment insurance decision that disallowed benefits based upon claimant's discharge from employment. The parties were properly notified of the hearing. A telephone hearing was held on February 17, 2021. The claimant, Wendy Acosta, participated personally. The employer The Anthem Companies, Inc., participated through hearing representative, Tom Kuiper and Clinical Operations Manager, Jeanie Arellano. The administrative law judge took administrative notice of the claimant's unemployment insurance benefits records.

ISSUES:

Was the claimant discharged for disqualifying job-related misconduct?

Did claimant voluntarily quit the employment with good cause attributable to employer?

FINDINGS OF FACT:

Having reviewed all of the evidence in the record, the administrative law judge finds: Claimant was employed full-time as a medical receptionist. Claimant was employed from February 24, 2020 until October 2, 2020 when she was discharged from employment. Claimant's job duties included checking in patients, checking out patients, documenting in chart, screening patients for Covid-19 at the door, answering phones, faxing and taking messages from patients. Jeanie Arellano was claimant's immediate supervisor. The claimant was discharged for falsification of records of September 23, 2020.

On September 23, 2020 claimant was at the front desk screening patients for Covid-19 as they arrived. Claimant was to document the results in the patient chart. Claimant documented in a specific patient's chart that she asked Covid-19 screening questions. When the patient went back to the exam room, the patient stated she was never asked the Covid-19 screening questions and was Covid-19 positive.

This employer has a written disciplinary policy in place that states it is a violation of its policy to falsify or omit information documented in patient charts. Falsifying patient chart documentation is grounds for immediate termination. Claimant acknowledgement receipt of this policy by electronically signing the policy on February 13, 2020.

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

For the reasons that follow, the administrative law judge concludes the claimant was discharged for job-related misconduct. Benefits are denied.

As a preliminary matter, I find that the Claimant did not quit. Claimant was discharged from employment.

lowa Code § 96.5(2)a provides:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits:

- 2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:
- a. The individual shall be disqualified for benefits until the individual has worked in and has been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times the individual's weekly benefit amount, provided the individual is otherwise eligible.

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(1)a provides:

Discharge for misconduct.

- (1) Definition.
- a. "Misconduct" is defined as a deliberate act or omission by a worker which constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of such worker's contract of employment. Misconduct as the term is used in the disqualification provision as being limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or evil design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer. On the other hand mere inefficiency, unsatisfactory conduct, failure in good performance as the result of inability or incapacity, inadvertencies or ordinary negligence in isolated instances, or good faith errors in judgment or discretion are not to be deemed misconduct within the meaning of the statute.

This definition has been accepted by the lowa Supreme Court as accurately reflecting the intent of the legislature. Huntoon v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 275 N.W.2d 445, 448 (lowa 1979).

lowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(4) provides:

(4) Report required. The claimant's statement and employer's statement must give detailed facts as to the specific reason for the claimant's discharge. Allegations of misconduct or dishonesty without additional evidence shall not be sufficient to result in disqualification. If the employer is unwilling to furnish available evidence to corroborate the allegation, misconduct cannot be established. In cases where a suspension or disciplinary layoff exists, the claimant is considered as discharged, and the issue of misconduct shall be resolved.

Iowa Admin. Code r.871-24.32(8) provides:

(8) Past acts of misconduct. While past acts and warnings can be used to determine the magnitude of a current act of misconduct, a discharge for misconduct cannot be based on such past act or acts. The termination of employment must be based on a current act.

It is the duty of the administrative law judge as the trier of fact in this case, to determine the credibility of witnesses, weigh the evidence and decide the facts in issue. Arndt v. City of LeClaire, 728 N.W.2d 389, 394-395 (lowa 2007). The administrative law judge may believe all, part or none of any witness's testimony. State v. Holtz, 548 N.W.2d 162, 163 (lowa App. 1996). In assessing the credibility of witnesses, the administrative law judge should consider the evidence using his or her own observations, common sense and experience. Id. In determining the facts, and deciding what testimony to believe, the fact finder may consider the following factors: whether the testimony is reasonable and consistent with other believable evidence; whether a witness has made inconsistent statements; the witness's appearance, conduct, age, intelligence, memory and knowledge of the facts; and the witness's interest in the trial, their motive, candor, bias and prejudice. Id. After assessing the credibility of the witnesses who testified during the hearing, considering the applicable factors listed above, and using her own common sense and experience, the Administrative Law Judge finds that Ms. Arellano's testimony credible.

The employer has the burden of proof in establishing disgualifying job misconduct. Cosper v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 321 N.W.2d 6 (lowa 1982). The issue is not whether the employer made a correct decision in separating claimant, but whether the claimant is entitled to unemployment insurance benefits. Infante v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 364 N.W.2d 262 (lowa Ct. App. 1984). Misconduct serious enough to warrant discharge is not necessarily serious enough to warrant a denial of job insurance benefits. Such misconduct must be "substantial." Newman v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 351 N.W.2d 806 (lowa Ct. App. 1984). The focus of the administrative code definition of misconduct is on deliberate, intentional or culpable acts by the employee. Id. When based on carelessness, the carelessness must actually indicate a "wrongful intent" to be disqualifying in nature. Id. Negligence does not constitute misconduct unless recurrent in nature; a single act is not disqualifying unless indicative of a deliberate disregard of the employer's interests. Henry v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 391 N.W.2d 731 (Iowa Ct. App. 1986). Further, poor work performance is not misconduct in the absence of evidence of intent. Miller v. Emp't Appeal Bd., 423 N.W.2d 211 (lowa Ct. App. 1988). The law limits disqualifying misconduct to substantial and willful wrongdoing or repeated carelessness or negligence that equals willful misconduct in culpability. Lee v. Employment Appeal Bd., 616 N.W.2d 661 (lowa 2000). A lapse of 11 days from final act until discharge when claimant was notified on fourth day that his conduct was grounds for dismissal did not make final act a "past act". Greene v. Emp't Appeal Bd., 426 N.W.2d 659 (lowa Ct. App. 1988).

This was not an incident of carelessness or poor work performance. Claimant intentionally reported on the patient chart that she had asked the Covid-19 screening questions when she had not. It is clear that claimant's actions were intentional and they were a substantial violation of the client's policies and procedures.

The employer has a right to expect that an employee will not jeopardize the liability of the employer by intentionally violating policies that are in place. There is substantial evidence in the record to support the conclusion that claimant deliberately violated these rightful expectations in this case. Accordingly, the employer has met its burden of proof in establishing that the claimant's conduct consisted of deliberate acts that constituted an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests. These actions rise to the level of willful misconduct. As such, benefits are denied.

DECISION:

The November 23, 2020 (reference 01) unemployment insurance decision is affirmed. Claimant was discharged from employment for job-related misconduct. Benefits are withheld in regards to this employer until such time as claimant is deemed eligible.
