Section 96.5-2-a – Discharge for Misconduct

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

Jeremy Behrens (claimant) appealed a representative's February 9, 2004 decision (reference 02) that concluded he was not eligible to receive unemployment insurance benefits because he was discharged from work with Menard (employer) for insubordination in connection with his work. After hearing notices were mailed to the parties' last-known addresses of record, a telephone hearing was held on March 2, 2004. The claimant participated personally. The employer was represented by James McMenomy, Store Counsel, and participated by Tom Groepper, General Manager; Nicholas Buck, Receiving for the Outside Yard; Stanley From, Department Manager for the Outside Yard.

FINDINGS OF FACT:

The administrative law judge, having heard the testimony and considered all of the evidence in the record, finds that: The claimant was hired on April 18, 2000, as a full-time receiver. The claimant received a copy of the employer's handbook and signed for its receipt on April 18, 2000. The handbook prohibits inappropriate behavior and language in the workplace. The claimant received written warnings on December 22 and 26, 2003, for inappropriate language and behavior in the workplace.

On January 4, 2004, a co-worker asked the claimant when he was going to be done with his job. The claimant started yelling at the co-worker about leaving him alone and the co-worker was not the claimant's manager. The claimant was yelling in an area where customers could have been present. The claimant's manager heard the claimant yelling approximately 100 feet away from the claimant.

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

The issue is whether the claimant was discharged for misconduct. For the following reasons the administrative law judge concludes he was.

Iowa Code Section 96.5-2-a provides:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits:

2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:
 - a. The individual shall be disqualified for benefits until the individual has worked in and has been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times the individual's weekly benefit amount, provided the individual is otherwise eligible.

871 IAC 24.32(1)a provides:

Discharge for misconduct.

(1) Definition.

- a. "Misconduct" is defined as a deliberate act or omission by a worker which constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of such worker's contract of employment. Misconduct as the term is used in the disqualification provision as being limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or evil design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer. On the other hand mere inefficiency, unsatisfactory conduct, failure in good performance as the result of inability or incapacity, inadvertencies or ordinary negligence in isolated instances, or good faith errors in judgment or discretion are not to be deemed misconduct within the meaning of the statute.

This definition has been accepted by the Iowa Supreme Court as accurately reflecting the intent of the legislature. Huntoon v. Iowa Department of Job Service, 275 N.W.2d 445, 448 (Iowa 1979).

The employer has the burden of proof in establishing disqualifying job misconduct. Cosper v. Iowa Department of Job Service, 321 N.W.2d 6 (Iowa 1982). Repeated failure to follow an employer's instructions in the performance of duties is misconduct. Gilliam v. Atlantic Bottling Company, 453 N.W.2d 230 (Iowa App. 1990). An employer has a right to expect employees to conduct themselves in a certain manner. The claimant disregarded the employer's right by acting inappropriately after having been warned. The claimant's disregard of the employer's interests is misconduct. As such he is not eligible to receive unemployment insurance benefits.

DECISION:

The representative's February 9, 2004 decision (reference 02) is affirmed. The claimant is not eligible to receive unemployment insurance benefits because he was discharged from work for misconduct. Benefits are withheld until he has worked in and has been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times his weekly benefit amount provided he is otherwise eligible.
