ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE
DECISION

OC: 08/06/23
Claimant: Appellant (2)

Iowa Code § 96.5(2)a – Discharge for Misconduct

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

The claimant filed an appeal from the September 12, 2023, (reference 01) unemployment insurance decision that denied benefits based upon a determination that claimant was discharged due to violation of a known company rule. The parties were properly notified of the hearing. A hearing was scheduled for October 5, 2023. Prior to the hearing date, claimant requested a postponement due to his work schedule. The request was granted. After due notice was issued, a telephone hearing was held on October 9, 2023. Claimant Oscar R. Lopez participated. Employer Toyota Motor Credit Corp. did not participate.

ISSUE:

Was the claimant discharged for disqualifying job-related misconduct?

FINDINGS OF FACT:

As claimant was the only witness, the administrative law judge makes the following findings based solely on claimant's testimony: Claimant was employed full time as a credit dispute specialist from February 21, 2000, until August 1, 2023, when he was discharged.

In January 2023, employer gave its employees the option to move to Texas to continue working for it or to continue working in Iowa; however, if they remained in Iowa at some unknown date in the future they would cease operations in Iowa. At that unknown date, the employees remaining in Iowa would be let go and would receive a severance package. Claimant opted to remain in Iowa because he shares custody of his children and wanted to remain near them. Claimant would receive a $30,000.00 severance package when the layoffs occurred.

In February 2023, employer notified employees in claimant's department that they could move to Illinois and work remotely or take the severance package immediately. Claimant spoke to the human resources department to see whether he would be allowed to rent a room in Illinois and work in Illinois but commute back and forth the one-hour drive from Iowa to Illinois when his children were staying with him. A human resources employee told claimant he could do so, pointing out that what he did before and after work was not employer's business, so long as he performed the work in Illinois. Claimant rented a room in a house in Illinois with three of his coworkers. He began working in Illinois in March 2023. On August 1, 2023, employer discharged claimant because he did not reside in Illinois.

Claimant received no disciplinary action during his employment.

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

For the reasons that follow, the administrative law judge concludes the claimant was discharged for no disqualifying reason. Benefits are allowed.

Iowa Code section 96.5(2)a provides:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits, regardless of the source of the individual's wage credits:

2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:

a. The disqualification shall continue until the individual has worked in and has been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times the individual's weekly benefit amount, provided the individual is otherwise eligible.

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(1)a provides:

Discharge for misconduct.

(1) Definition.

a. "Misconduct" is defined as a deliberate act or omission by a worker which constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of such worker's contract of employment. Misconduct as the term is used in the disqualification provision as being limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or evil design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer. On the other hand mere inefficiency, unsatisfactory conduct, failure in good performance as the result of inability or incapacity, inadvertencies or ordinary negligence in isolated instances, or good faith errors in judgment or discretion are not to be deemed misconduct within the meaning of the statute.

This definition has been accepted by the Iowa Supreme Court as accurately reflecting the intent of the legislature. Huntoon v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 275 N.W.2d 445, 448 (Iowa 1979).

The employer has the burden of proof in establishing disqualifying job misconduct. Cosper v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 321 N.W.2d 6 (Iowa 1982). The issue is not whether the employer made a correct decision in separating claimant, but whether the claimant is entitled to unemployment insurance benefits. Infante v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 364 N.W.2d 262 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984). What constitutes misconduct justifying termination of an employee and what misconduct warrants denial of unemployment insurance benefits are two separate decisions. Pierce v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 425 N.W.2d 679 (Iowa Ct. App. 1988).

An employer may discharge an employee for any number of reasons or no reason at all if it is not contrary to public policy, but if it fails to meet its burden of proof to establish job related misconduct as the reason for the separation, employer incurs potential liability for unemployment insurance benefits related to that separation. Employer did not present any evidence that claimant engaged in job-related misconduct. As a result, employer has not met the burden of proof to establish that claimant engaged in misconduct that would disqualify him from benefits. Benefits are allowed.

DECISION:

The September 12, 2023, (reference 01) unemployment insurance decision is reversed. Claimant was discharged from employment for no disqualifying reason. Benefits are allowed, provided he is otherwise eligible. Any benefits claimed and withheld on this basis shall be paid.
