DECISION

Claimant: Respondent (2R)

Iowa Code §96.5(2)a-Discharge/Misconduct
Iowa Code §96.5(1)- Voluntary Quit
Iowa Code § 96.3(7) – Recovery of Benefit Overpayment
Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.10 – Employer/Representative Participation Fact-finding Interview

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

On March 7, 2024, the employer/appellant filed an appeal from the February 26, 2024, (reference 14) unemployment insurance decision that allowed benefit based on claimant being dismissed on February 26, 2024 for excessive absences. The Iowa Workforce Development representative determined the absences were due to illness and were properly reported. The parties were properly notified about the hearing. A telephone hearing was held on April 2, 2024. Claimant did not participate. Employer participated through operations manager, Brittany Pittman. Gracie Himes also testified on behalf of the employer. Employer's exhibits 1, 2, and 3 were admitted into the record. Administrative notice was taken of claimant's unemployment insurance benefits records, including DBRO.

ISSUES:

- I. Was the separation a layoff, discharge for misconduct, or voluntary quit without good cause?
- II. Is the claimant overpaid benefits?
- III. Should claimant repay benefits?
- IV. Should the employer be charged due to employer participation in fact finding?

FINDINGS OF FACT:

Having reviewed all of the evidence in the record, the administrative law judge finds: Claimant began working for employer on October 2, 2023. Claimant last worked as a full-time service employee.

The employer has a policy that if employees call into work they are required to notify the employer prior to their shift and they must actually call their supervisor.

On October 18th the claimant sent a text message to his supervisor after his shift started that he would be absent due to being sick. Claimant was verbally warned that he had to call his supervisor if he was going to be absent and that notifying the supervisor through text messages that he was going to be absent was not acceptable.

On November 7th claimant called prior to his shift and informed his supervisor he would be absent due to needing a mental health day. Claimant was issued a verbal warning on November 7th for his attendance and also warned that he needed to directly contact his supervisor of his absence. (Exhibit 3). Claimant was warned that any further absences could result in his termination. (Exhibit 3).

On December 20th claimant notified his supervisor prior to his shift he would be absent due to being evicted from his home. On December 20th claimant was issued a written warning for his attendance and was informed that any additional absences could result in his termination. On December 21st, claimant sent a text message to his supervisor informing her that he would be absent due to being evicted. On December 27th the claimant was issued a final written warning for his attendance and was informed additional absences could result in his termination.

On January 12, 2024, claimant notified his supervisor prior to his shift that he was sick and was getting a COVID test. Claimant tested positive for COVID. Per the employer's policy claimant was required to quarantine until January 28th.

The claimant was expected to return to work on January 29th. Prior to his shift on January 29th claimant notified his supervisor via text message that he was still feeling sick and would not be at work. Claimant called in prior to his shift on January 30th, 31st, February 1st, 2nd, 5th and 6th notifying his supervisor he was ill. Claimant returned to work on February 7th and provided a doctor's release to the employer.

On February 8th claimant did not show up for work. Ms. Pittman attempted to contact claimant and claimant sent a text message back after his shift started informing her that he would be absent due to being sick.

ON February 8, 2024, the employer discharged the claimant for violating their attendance policy.

Claimant filed an additional claim for benefits with an effective date of February 4, 2024. (DBRO). The claimant's gross weekly benefit amount is $436.00. (DBRO). Claimant began receiving unemployment benefits the week of February 11, 2024, and has received them through March 30, 2024. (DBRO). Claimant has received seven weeks of benefits since the separation worth a gross total amount of $2,806.00. (DBRO).

The employer participated in the fact-finding interview with Iowa Workforce Development (IWD) by submitting a written statement and providing the employer's policies and written warnings. The employer did not provide a phone number for a witness with first hand knowledge the fact-finder could contact.

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

For the reasons that follow, the administrative law judge concludes the claimant was discharged from employment due to job-related misconduct.

Iowa Code section 96.5(2)a and d provide:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits, regardless of the source of the individual's wage credits:

2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:

a. The disqualification shall continue until the individual has worked in and has been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times the individual's weekly benefit amount, provided the individual is otherwise eligible.

d. For the purposes of this subsection, "misconduct" means a deliberate act or omission by an employee that constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of the employee's contract of employment. Misconduct is limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or evil design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer. Misconduct by an individual includes but is not limited to all of the following:

(9) Excessive unexcused tardiness or absenteeism.

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(1)a provides:

Discharge for misconduct.

(1) Definition.

a. "Misconduct" is defined as a deliberate act or omission by a worker which constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of such worker's contract of employment. Misconduct as the term is used in the disqualification provision as being limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or evil design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer. On the other hand mere inefficiency, unsatisfactory conduct, failure in good performance as the result of inability or incapacity, inadvertencies or ordinary negligence in isolated instances, or good faith errors in judgment or discretion are not to be deemed misconduct within the meaning of the statute.

This definition has been accepted by the Iowa Supreme Court as accurately reflecting the intent of the legislature. Huntoon v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 275 N.W.2d 445, 448 (Iowa 1979).

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(7) provides:

(7) Excessive unexcused absenteeism. Excessive unexcused absenteeism is an intentional disregard of the duty owed by the claimant to the employer and shall be considered misconduct except for illness or other reasonable grounds for which the employee was absent and that were properly reported to the employer.

Iowa Admin. Code r.871-24.32(8) provides:

(8) Past acts of misconduct. While past acts and warnings can be used to determine the magnitude of a current act of misconduct, a discharge for misconduct cannot be based on such past act or acts. The termination of employment must be based on a current act.

The employer has the burden of proof in establishing disqualifying job misconduct. Cosper v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 321 N.W.2d 6 (Iowa 1982). The issue is not whether the employer made a correct decision in separating claimant, but whether the claimant is entitled to unemployment insurance benefits. Infante v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 364 N.W.2d 262 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984). Misconduct must be "substantial" to warrant a denial of job insurance benefits. Newman v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 351 N.W.2d 806 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984). "Misconduct serious enough to warrant the discharge of an employee is not necessarily serious enough to warrant a denial of benefits." Lee v. Employment Appeal Bd., 616 N.W.2d 661, 665 (Iowa 2000).

A claimant may be denied unemployment benefits if they have excessive unexcused absenteeism and tardiness. An employer's point system or no-fault absenteeism policy is not dispositive of the issue of qualification for benefits.

The requirements for a finding of misconduct that disqualifies a claimant from benefits due to absenteeism or tardiness under Iowa law is twofold. First, the absences must be excessive. Sallis v. Emp't Appeal Bd., 437 N.W.2d 895 (Iowa 1989). The determination of whether unexcused absenteeism is excessive necessarily requires consideration of past acts and warnings. Higgins v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 350 N.W.2d 187, 192 (Iowa 1984). Second, the absences must be unexcused. Cosper at 10. The requirement of "unexcused" can be satisfied in two ways. An absence can be unexcused either because it was not for "reasonable grounds," Higgins at 191, or because it was not "properly reported," holding excused absences are those "with appropriate notice." Cosper at 10.

Excessive absences are not considered misconduct unless unexcused. Absences due to properly reported illness cannot constitute work-connected misconduct since they are not volitional, even if the employer was fully within its rights to assess points or impose discipline up to or including discharge for the absence under its attendance policy. Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(7); Cosper, supra; Gaborit v. Emp't Appeal Bd., 734 N.W.2d 554 (Iowa Ct. App. 2007). Medical documentation is not essential to a determination that an absence due to illness should be treated as excused. Gaborit, supra.

Excessive unexcused absenteeism is an intentional disregard of the duty owed by the claimant to the employer and shall be considered misconduct except for illness or other reasonable grounds for which the employee was absent and that were properly reported to the employer. Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(7) (emphasis added); see Higgins v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 350 N.W.2d 187, 190, n. 1 (Iowa 1984) holding "rule [2]4.32(7)...accurately states the law." Absences related to issues of personal responsibility such as transportation, lack of childcare, and oversleeping are not considered excused. Higgins v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 350 N.W.2d 187 (Iowa 1984). Absences due to illness or injury must be properly reported in order to be excused. Cosper v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 321 N.W.2d 6 (Iowa 1982). The determination of whether unexcused absenteeism is excessive requires consideration of past acts and warnings.

Excessive absenteeism has been found when there has been seven unexcused absences in five months; five unexcused absences and three instances of tardiness in eight months; three unexcused absences over an eight-month period; three unexcused absences over seven months; and missing three times after being warned. See Higgins, 350 N.W.2d at 192 (Iowa 1984); Infante v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 321 N.W.2d 262 (Iowa App. 1984); Armel v. EAB, 2007 WL 3376929*3 (Iowa App. Nov. 15, 2007); Hiland v. EAB, No. 12-2300 (Iowa App. July 10, 2013); and Clark v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 317 N.W.2d 517 (Iowa App. 1982).

In this case, claimant received warnings on November 7, 2023, December 20, 2023 and December 27, 2023 regarding claimant's attendance. Claimant was also warned that he needed to properly notify his supervisor of his absence by calling his supervisor. Claimant was aware that text messaging was not the proper method to notify his supervisor of his absence.

Claimant had unexcused absences on December 20th and 21st. Additionally the absence on December 21st was not properly reported. Claimant also improperly reported absence on January 29th when he notified his supervisor of his absence via text messaging. Claimant did not notify his supervisor prior to his shift that he was going to be absent. It was not until his supervisor reached out to him after his shift that claimant informed his supervisor via text messaging that he would be gone due to illness. Claimant has two unexcused absences in less than two months and had four improperly reported absences after he was warned that he needed to call in to notify his supervisor instead of texting. As a result, these absences are unexcused. The employer has established the claimant was warned that further improperly reported unexcused absences could result in termination of employment. The final absence in combination with the claimant's history of unexcused absenteeism, is considered excessive. Benefits are denied.

Because claimant's separation was disqualifying, benefits were paid to claimant which claimant was not entitled. Next, it must be determined if the employer participated in the fact-finding interview and whether the claimant is required to repay the benefits.

Iowa Code section 96.3(7)a-b, as amended in 2008, provides, in pertinent part: :

7. Recovery of overpayment of benefits.

a. If an individual receives benefits for which the individual is subsequently determined to be ineligible, even though the individual acts in good faith and is not otherwise at fault, the benefits shall be recovered. The department in its discretion may recover the overpayment of benefits either by having a sum equal to the overpayment deducted from any future benefits payable to the individual or by having the individual pay to the department a sum equal to the overpayment.

b. (1) (a) If the department determines that an overpayment has been made, the charge for the overpayment against the employer's account shall be removed and the account shall be credited with an amount equal to the overpayment from the unemployment compensation trust fund and this credit shall include both contributory and reimbursable employers, notwithstanding section 96.8, subsection 5. The employer shall not be relieved of charges if benefits are paid because the employer or an agent of the employer failed to respond timely or adequately to the department's request for information relating to the payment of benefits. This prohibition against relief of charges shall apply to both contributory and reimbursable employers. If the department determines that an employer's failure to respond timely or adequately was due to insufficient notification from the department, the employer's account shall not be charged for the overpayment.

(b) However, provided the benefits were not received as the result of fraud or willful misrepresentation by the individual, benefits shall not be recovered from an individual if the employer did not participate in the initial determination to award benefits pursuant to section 96.6, subsection 2, and an overpayment occurred because of a subsequent reversal on appeal regarding the issue of the individual's separation from employment.

(2) An accounting firm, agent, unemployment insurance accounting firm, or other entity that represents an employer in unemployment claim matters and demonstrates a continuous pattern of failing to participate in the initial determinations to award benefits, as determined and defined by rule by the department, shall be denied permission by the department to represent any employers in unemployment insurance matters. This subparagraph does not apply to attorneys or counselors admitted to practice in the courts of this state pursuant to section 602.10101.

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.10 provides:

Employer and employer representative participation in fact-finding interviews.

(1) "Participate," as the term is used for employers in the context of the initial determination to award benefits pursuant to Iowa Code section 96.6, subsection 2, means submitting detailed factual information of the quantity and quality that if unrebutted would be sufficient to result in a decision favorable to the employer. The most effective means to participate is to provide live testimony at the interview from a witness with firsthand knowledge of the events leading to the separation. If no live testimony is provided, the employer must provide the name and telephone number of an employee with firsthand information who may be contacted, if necessary, for rebuttal. A party may also participate by providing detailed written statements or documents that provide detailed factual information of the events leading to separation. At a minimum, the information provided by the employer or the employer's representative must identify the dates and particular circumstances of the incident or incidents, including, in the case of discharge, the act or omissions of the claimant or, in the event of a voluntary separation, the stated reason for the quit. The specific rule or policy must be submitted if the claimant was discharged for violating such rule or policy. In the case of discharge for attendance violations, the information must include the circumstances of all incidents the employer or the employer's representative contends meet the definition of unexcused absences as set forth in 871—subrule 24.32(7). On the other hand, written or oral statements or general conclusions without supporting detailed factual information and information submitted after the fact-finding decision has been issued are not considered participation within the meaning of the statute.

(2) "A continuous pattern of nonparticipation in the initial determination to award benefits," pursuant to Iowa Code section 96.6, subsection 2, as the term is used for an entity representing employers, means on 25 or more occasions in a calendar quarter beginning with the first calendar quarter of 2009, the entity files appeals after failing to participate. Appeals filed but withdrawn before the day of the contested case hearing will not be considered in determining if a continuous pattern of nonparticipation exists. The division administrator shall notify the employer's representative in writing after each such appeal.

(3) If the division administrator finds that an entity representing employers as defined in Iowa Code section 96.6, subsection 2, has engaged in a continuous pattern of nonparticipation, the division administrator shall suspend said representative for a period of up to six months on the first occasion, up to one year on the second occasion and up to ten years on the third or subsequent occasion. Suspension by the division administrator constitutes final agency action and may be appealed pursuant to Iowa Code section 17A.19.

(4) "Fraud or willful misrepresentation by the individual," as the term is used for claimants in the context of the initial determination to award benefits pursuant to Iowa Code section 96.6, subsection 2, means providing knowingly false statements or knowingly false denials of material facts for the purpose of obtaining unemployment insurance benefits. Statements or denials may be either oral or written by the claimant. Inadvertent misstatements or mistakes made in good faith are not considered fraud or willful misrepresentation.

This rule is intended to implement Iowa Code section 96.3(7)"b" as amended by 2008 Iowa Acts, Senate File 2160.

Claimant has been overpaid unemployment insurance benefits in the amount of $2,806.00 since claimant is not eligible to receive unemployment insurance benefits from February 11, 2024 through March 30, 2024.

In this case the employer chose to participate in writing. They did not provide contact information of a witness with first hand knowledge of the separation. The information provided by the employer was not enough to establish if the absences were excused or excessive under Iowa law. As a result, the employer does not meet the definition of participation. Since the employer did not participate in the fact-finding interview, claimant is not required to repay these benefits and the employer's account shall be charged.

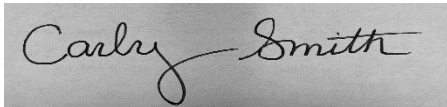

DECISION:

The February 26, 2024, reference 14, decision is REVERSED. The claimant was discharged from employment on February 7, 2024, due to job-related misconduct. Benefits are withheld until such time as claimant has worked in and been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times claimant's weekly benefit amount, provided claimant is otherwise eligible.

Claimant has been overpaid unemployed insurance benefits in the amount of $2,806.00 for the week beginning February 11, 2024 through the week ending March 30, 2024. Claimant is not obligated to repay those benefits since the employer did not participate in the fact-finding interview. The employer's account shall be charged.

REMAND:

Claimant's name is mistakenly listed in DBRO as Conner Conner. Based on the information testified to during the hearing the claimant's name is actually Conner Miller. The issue of claimant's correct name and it being updated in the system to reflect his correct name is remanded to Iowa Workforce Development's Benefits Bureau for correction.
