ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE DECISION

IOWA PREMIUM LLC

Employer

OC: 03/17/24

Claimant: Respondent (2)

Iowa Code § 96.5(2)a – Discharge for Misconduct

Iowa Code § 96.3(7) – Recovery of Benefit Overpayment

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871—24.10 – Employer/Representative Participation Fact-finding Interview

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

On April 12, 2024, the employer filed an appeal from the April 3, 2024, (reference 01) unemployment insurance decision that allowed benefits based on the determination that claimant was discharged from employment without a showing of disqualifying misconduct. The parties were properly notified about the hearing. A telephone hearing was held on April 30, 2024. Claimant, Jose M. Ayala Ochoa, did not participate. Employer, Iowa Premium, LLC, participated through testifying witness, HR Manager Jenny Mora, with HR Clerk Veronica Hernandez, who observed but did not testify. No exhibits were offered or admitted. The administrative law judge took official notice of the administrative record.

ISSUES:

Was the claimant discharged for disqualifying job-related misconduct?

Has the claimant been overpaid unemployment insurance benefits, and if so, can the repayment of those benefits to the agency be waived?

Can charges to the employer's account be waived?

FINDINGS OF FACT:

Having reviewed all of the evidence in the record, the administrative law judge finds: Claimant began working for employer on October 5, 2020. Claimant last worked as a full-time maintenance employee. Claimant was separated from employment on March 11, 2024, when he was discharged.

The employer maintains a Code of Conduct and a policy prohibiting harassment. These policies appear in the employee handbook, which claimant received a copy of during orientation. The policies prohibit harassment of other employees and provide that violation of the policies will result in discipline up to and including discharge from employment.

On March 1, 2024, the employer received a report from loss prevention indicating that claimant and a group of other employees were harassing a coworker, John. Upon receipt of the report, Mora initiated an investigation that included viewing surveillance camera footage. On three separate occasions, the surveillance footage from the parking lot showed claimant and a group of other employees rocking or shaking John's car with him in it, kicking the tires, sitting on the bumper, and trying to enter the vehicle. Mora spoke with John, who stated that he had not encouraged the conduct and had tried to begin parking in a different area of the lot so that the group could not find his car, but it had not worked. He had also asked the group to stop the conduct, but they had not. He had not reported the incidents because he hoped that, if he waited the conduct out, it would end. He also did not want to see anyone lose their job.

Mora spoke with claimant who stated that he was trying to play around with John, but that the conduct had gone too far. He asserted John played with them, as well. On March 7, 2024, the employer suspended claimant pending the outcome of the investigation. Because of the severity of the conduct, and the violation of the employer's Code of Conduct and policy prohibiting harassment, the employer discharged claimant from employment on March 11, 2024. All of the employees in the group with claimant who had been harassing John were discharged from employment. Claimant had not received any prior warnings for similar conduct.

The administrative record indicates that claimant filed a claim for unemployment insurance benefits with an effective date of March 17, 2024. His weekly benefit amount is $582.00. Since filing his claim for benefits, claimant has received $0.00 in unemployment insurance benefits. The employer substantially participated in the fact-finding interview.

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

For the reasons that follow, the administrative law judge concludes the claimant was discharged from employment due to job-related misconduct.

Iowa Code section 96.5(2)(a) and (d) provide:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits:

- 2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:
- a. The disqualification shall continue until the individual has worked in and has been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times the individual's weekly benefit amount, provided the individual is otherwise eligible.

d. For the purposes of this subsection, "misconduct" means a deliberate act or omission by an employee that constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of the employee's contract of employment. Misconduct is limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or even design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer. Misconduct by an individual includes but is not limited to all of the following:

- (1) Material falsification of the individual's employment application.
- (2) Knowing violation of a reasonable and uniformly enforced rule of an employer.
- (3) Intentional damage of an employer's property.
- (4) Consumption of alcohol, illegal or nonprescribed prescription drugs, or an impairing substance in a manner not directed by the manufacturer, or a combination of such substances, on the employer's premises in violation of the employer's employment policies.
- (5) Reporting to work under the influence of alcohol, illegal or nonprescribed prescription drugs, or an impairing substance in an off-label manner, or a combination of such substances, on the employer's premises in violation of the employer's employment policies, unless the individual is compelled to work by the employer outside of scheduled or on-call working hours.
- (6) Conduct that substantially and unjustifiably endangers the personal safety of coworkers or the general public.
- (7) Incarceration for an act for which one could reasonably expect to be incarcerated that results in missing work.
- (8) Incarceration as a result of a misdemeanor or felony conviction by a court of competent jurisdiction.
- (9) Excessive unexcused tardiness or absenteeism.
- (10) Falsification of any work-related report, task, or job that could expose the employer or coworkers to legal liability or sanction for violation of health or safety laws.
- (11) Failure to maintain any license, registration, or certification that is reasonably required by the employer or by law, or that is a functional requirement to perform the individual's regular job duties, unless the failure is not within the control of the individual.
- (12) Conduct that is libelous or slanderous toward an employer or an employee of the employer if such conduct is not protected under state or federal law.
- (13) Theft of an employer or coworker's funds or property.
- (14) Intentional misrepresentation of time worked or work carried out that results in the individual receiving unearned wages or unearned benefits.

The employer has the burden of proof in establishing disqualifying job misconduct. Cosper v. lowa Dep't of Job Serv., 321 N.W.2d 6 (lowa 1982).

A determination as to whether an employee's act is misconduct does not rest solely on the interpretation or application of the employer's policy or rule. A violation is not necessarily disqualifying misconduct even if the employer was fully within its rights to impose discipline up to or including discharge for the incident under its policy. The issue is not whether the employer made a correct decision in separating claimant, but whether the claimant is entitled to unemployment insurance benefits. Infante v. lowa Dep't of Job Serv., 364 N.W.2d 262 (lowa Ct. App. 1984). What constitutes misconduct justifying termination of an employee and what misconduct warrants denial of unemployment insurance benefits are two separate decisions. Pierce v. lowa Dep't of Job Serv., 425 N.W.2d 679 (lowa Ct. App. 1988). Misconduct serious enough to warrant discharge is not necessarily serious enough to warrant a denial of job insurance benefits. Such misconduct must be "substantial." Newman v. lowa Dep't of Job Serv., 351 N.W.2d 806 (lowa Ct. App. 1984). The focus is on deliberate, intentional, or culpable acts by the employee.

The repeated conduct directed at John was evidence of a willful disregard of the employer's policies, which prohibit the type of conduct in which claimant engaged and state that disciplinary action, including discharge, may result from the violation of the policies. Though claimant had not received prior warnings for this type of conduct, John had asked that he and the other stop and they continued targeting John. This disregard of John's wishes and the employer's policies constitutes disqualifying misconduct. Benefits are denied.

Because claimant has received no unemployment insurance benefits since he filed his claim, he has not been overpaid benefits. Accordingly, the issues of overpayment, repayment, and participation are moot.

DECISION:

The April 3, 2024, (reference 01) unemployment insurance decision is REVERSED. Claimant was discharged from employment on March 11, 2024, due to disqualifying misconduct. Benefits are withheld until such time as he has worked in and been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times his weekly benefit amount, provided he is otherwise eligible. The issues of overpayment, repayment, and participation are moot.
