APPEAL 22A-UI-18554-LJ-T

ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE DECISION

OC: 10/09/22

Claimant: Respondent (2)

Iowa Code § 96.5(1) – Voluntary Quit from Employment
Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.25(6) – Quit/Inability to Work with Other Employees
Iowa Code § 96.3(7) – Recovery of Benefit Overpayment
Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.10 – Employer Participation in Fact-Finding Interview

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

On November 3, 2022, employer Briarwood Grand Apartments filed an appeal from the November 1, 2022 (reference 01) unemployment insurance decision that allowed benefits based on a determination that claimant Chris Mullaney quit his employment on August 23, 2022, due to detrimental working conditions. The parties were properly notified of the hearing. A telephonic hearing was held at 8:00 a.m. on Monday, November 28, 2022. Claimant Chris Mullaney did not appear for the hearing. Employer Briarwood Grand Apartments participated through testimony of witnesses Arnold Forget, Owner and Operations Head; Ricky Forget, Operational Manager; Tonya Porter, Manager; and Cindy Forget. Employer's Exhibits 1-10 were received and admitted into the record. The administrative law judge took official notice of the administrative record to determine claimant's weekly benefit amount and the weeks that claimant received benefits.

ISSUES:

Did claimant voluntarily quit the employment with good cause attributable to employer?
Has the claimant been overpaid unemployment insurance benefits, and if so, can the repayment of those benefits to the agency be waived?
Can charges to the employer's account be waived?

FINDINGS OF FACT:

Having reviewed all of the evidence in the record, the administrative law judge finds: Claimant began working for Arnold Forget at the Briarwood Grand Apartments on January 4, 2016. Throughout his employment, claimant was employed as a full-time maintenance worker. His employment ended on August 23, 2022, when he quit after a physical altercation with coworker Zachary Steben.

None of the employer's witnesses at the hearing were present for the altercation between claimant and Steben. Based on the two police reports, Steben had a Taurus 9 mm pistol in his waistband when he arrived at work on August 23. (Exhibit 5) Claimant told the police that Steben lost his temper at work, while Steben told the police that claimant had “pull[ed] a gun” on him. (Exhibit 6) Claimant called Ricky Forget while the altercation was occurring, leading Ricky Forget to drive over to the Briarwood property. When he arrived, the police were already there and the altercation had ended. Ricky Forget approached claimant, who threw his keys at him and said, “I’m getting the hell out of here; I’m done.”

Based on what the employer could learn from Steben and the police reports about what had transpired, Steben was suspended for violating the employer’s “no weapons” policy. (Exhibit 3) Steben was not discharged, and Arnold Forget maintains claimant was not at risk of being discharged if he had not quit his job. Claimant and Steben had been friends and had a positive working relationship until this point. The employer had not received any reports that claimant felt unsafe at work or that he was concerned Steben or anyone else had a weapon on the premises.

The administrative record reflects that claimant has received unemployment benefits in the amount of $844.00, since filing a claim with an effective date of October 9, 2022, for the two weeks ending October 22, 2022. The administrative record also establishes that the employer did participate in the fact-finding interview through Cindy Forget, Arnold Forget’s daughter. Cindy had only been with the employer approximately one month and was unfamiliar with the employer’s policies. Specifically, she did not know the employer had a policy prohibiting the presence of firearms on company property.

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

For the reasons that follow, the administrative law judge concludes claimant quit without good cause attributable to the employer.

Iowa Code §96.5(1) provides:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits:

1. Voluntary quitting. If the individual has left work voluntarily without good cause attributable to the individual's employer, if so found by the department.

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.25 provides:

Voluntary quit without good cause. In general, a voluntary quit means discontinuing the employment because the employee no longer desires to remain in the relationship of an employee with the employer from whom the employee has separated. The employer has the burden of proving that the claimant is disqualified for benefits pursuant to Iowa Code section 96.5. However, the claimant has the initial burden to produce evidence that the claimant is not disqualified for benefits in cases involving Iowa Code section 96.5, subsection (1), paragraphs "a" through "i," and subsection 10. The following reasons for a voluntary quit shall be presumed to be without good cause attributable to the employer:

(6) The claimant left as a result of an inability to work with other employees.

A voluntary quitting means discontinuing the employment because the employee no longer desires to remain in the relationship of an employee with the employer and requires an intention to terminate the employment. Wills v. Emp't Appeal Bd., 447 N.W. 2d 137, 138 (Iowa 1989). A voluntary leaving of employment requires an intention to terminate the employment relationship accompanied by an overt act of carrying out that intention. Local Lodge #1426 v. Wilson Trailer, 289 N.W.2d 608, 612 (Iowa 1980); Peck v. Emp't Appeal Bd., 492 N.W.2d 438 (Iowa Ct. App. 1992).

Claimant has the burden of proving that the voluntary leaving was for good cause attributable to the employer. Iowa Code § 96.6(2). "Good cause" for leaving employment must be that which is reasonable to the average person, not the overly sensitive individual or the claimant in particular. Uniweld Products v. Indus. Relations Comm'n, 277 So.2d 827 (Fla. Dist. Ct. App. 1973). The standard of what a reasonable person would have believed under the circumstances is applied in determining whether a claimant left work voluntarily with good cause attributable to the employer. O'Brien v. Employment Appeal Bd., 494 N.W.2d 660 (Iowa 1993).

The employer has established through convincing testimony that claimant quit his employment. Ricky Forget described claimant stating an intent to end his employment – "I'm getting the hell out of here; I'm done" – and engaging in an overt act carrying out that intent. The claimant, then, has the burden of proving he quit for good cause attributable to his employer. That burden has not been met. The evidence in the record shows competing narratives over how the altercation began and what role, if any, firearms played in that dispute. While the law does not require that claimant give the employer an opportunity to resolve his concerns before he quit, the claimant cannot be an active participant in a violent, physical argument, bring a firearm and heighten the seriousness of said argument, and then quit due to the danger of the argument and be awarded benefits. The claimant quit his employment without good cause attributable to the employer, and benefits must be withheld.

The next issues to be determined are whether claimant has been overpaid benefits, whether the claimant must repay those benefits, and whether the employer's account will be charged. Iowa Code § 96.3(7)a-b, as amended in 2008, provides:

7. Recovery of overpayment of benefits.

a. If an individual receives benefits for which the individual is subsequently determined to be ineligible, even though the individual acts in good faith and is not otherwise at fault, the benefits shall be recovered. The department in its discretion may recover the overpayment of benefits either by having a sum equal to the overpayment deducted from any future benefits payable to the individual or by having the individual pay to the department a sum equal to the overpayment.

b. (1) (a) If the department determines that an overpayment has been made, the charge for the overpayment against the employer's account shall be removed and the account shall be credited with an amount equal to the overpayment from the unemployment compensation trust fund and this credit shall include both contributory and reimbursable employers, notwithstanding section 96.8, subsection 5. The employer shall not be relieved of charges if benefits are paid because the employer or an agent of the employer failed to respond timely or adequately to the department's request for information relating to the payment of benefits. This prohibition against relief of charges shall apply to both contributory and reimbursable employers.

(b) However, provided the benefits were not received as the result of fraud or willful misrepresentation by the individual, benefits shall not be recovered from an individual if the employer did not participate in the initial determination to award benefits pursuant to section 96.6, subsection 2, and an overpayment occurred because of a subsequent reversal on appeal regarding the issue of the individual's separation from employment.

(2) An accounting firm, agent, unemployment insurance accounting firm, or other entity that represents an employer in unemployment claim matters and demonstrates a continuous pattern of failing to participate in the initial determinations to award benefits, as determined and defined by rule by the department, shall be denied permission by the department to represent any employers in unemployment insurance matters. This subparagraph does not apply to attorneys or counselors admitted to practice in the courts of this state pursuant to section 602.10101.

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.10 provides:

Employer and employer representative participation in fact-finding interviews.

(1) "Participate," as the term is used for employers in the context of the initial determination to award benefits pursuant to Iowa Code section 96.6, subsection 2, means submitting detailed factual information of the quantity and quality that if unrebutted would be sufficient to result in a decision favorable to the employer. The most effective means to participate is to provide live testimony at the interview from a witness with firsthand knowledge of the events leading to the separation. If no live testimony is provided, the employer must provide the name and telephone number of an employee with firsthand information who may be contacted, if necessary, for rebuttal. A party may also participate by providing detailed written statements or documents that provide detailed factual information of the events leading to separation. At a minimum, the information provided by the employer or the employer's representative must identify the dates and particular circumstances of the incident or incidents, including, in the case of discharge, the act or omissions of the claimant or, in the event of a voluntary separation, the stated reason for the quit. The specific rule or policy must be submitted if the claimant was discharged for violating such rule or policy. In the case of discharge for attendance violations, the information must include the circumstances of all incidents the employer or the employer's representative contends meet the definition of unexcused absences as set forth in 871—subrule 24.32\(7\). On the other hand, written or oral statements or general conclusions without supporting detailed factual information and information submitted after the fact-finding decision has been issued are not considered participation within the meaning of the statute.

(2) "A continuous pattern of nonparticipation in the initial determination to award benefits," pursuant to Iowa Code section 96.6, subsection 2, as the term is used for an entity representing employers, means on 25 or more occasions in a calendar quarter beginning with the first calendar quarter of 2009, the entity files appeals after failing to participate. Appeals filed but withdrawn before the day of the contested case hearing will not be considered in determining if a continuous pattern of nonparticipation exists. The division administrator shall notify the employer's representative in writing after each such appeal.

(4) "Fraud or willful misrepresentation by the individual," as the term is used for claimants in the context of the initial determination to award benefits pursuant to Iowa Code section 96.6, subsection 2, means providing knowingly false statements or knowingly false denials of material facts for the purpose of obtaining unemployment insurance benefits. Statements or denials may be either oral or written by the claimant. Inadvertent misstatements or mistakes made in good faith are not considered fraud or willful misrepresentation.

This rule is intended to implement Iowa Code section 96.3(7)"b" as amended by 2008 Iowa Acts, Senate File 2160.

Because the claimant's separation was disqualifying, benefits were paid to which he was not entitled. The unemployment insurance law provides that benefits must be recovered from a claimant who receives benefits and is later determined to be ineligible for benefits, even though the claimant acted in good faith and was not otherwise at fault. However, the overpayment will not be recovered when it is based on a reversal on appeal of an initial determination to award benefits on an issue regarding the claimant's employment separation if: (1) the benefits were not received due to any fraud or willful misrepresentation by the claimant and (2) the employer did not participate in the initial proceeding to award benefits. The employer will not be charged for benefits if it is determined that they did participate in the fact-finding interview. Iowa Code § 96.3(7), Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.10.

In this case, the claimant has received $844.00 in unemployment insurance benefits but was not eligible for those benefits. Since the employer did participate in the fact-finding interview the claimant is obligated to repay to the agency the benefits he received and the employer's account shall not be charged.

DECISION:

The November 1, 2022 (reference 01) unemployment insurance decision is reversed. Claimant separated from employment without good cause attributable to the employer. Benefits are withheld until such time as he has worked in and been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times his weekly benefit amount, provided he is otherwise eligible. The claimant has been overpaid unemployment insurance benefits in the amount of $844.00 and is obligated to repay the agency those benefits. The employer did participate in the fact-finding interview and its account shall not be charged.
