APPEAL 23A-UI-10896-SN-T

ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE DECISION

OC: 11/27/22
Claimant: Appellant (2)

Iowa Code § 96.5(2)a – Discharge
Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(1)a – Discharge

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

The claimant, Ackim Chibwila, filed an appeal from the November 20, 2023, (reference 05) unemployment insurance decision that denied benefits based upon the conclusion that he was discharged for sexually harassing another employee. The representative found this to be gross misconduct. The parties were properly notified of the hearing. A telephone hearing was held on December 11, 2023, at 1:00 p.m. The claimant participated and testified. The employer participated through Branch Manager. Official notice was taken of the agency records.

ISSUE:

Was the claimant discharged for disqualifying job-related misconduct?

FINDINGS OF FACT:

Having reviewed all of the evidence in the record, the administrative law judge finds:

The claimant worked as a full-time material handler at the site employer, General Mills, from June 5, 2023, until he was separated from employment on August 31, 2023, when he was terminated. The claimant worked on a production line.

The employer and General Mills have sexual harassment policies. The policies state a zero tolerance for behavior that would make a coworker uncomfortable. The claimant was aware of these policies.

On August 30, 2023, Branch Manager Dawn Starr received a report that the claimant had made a female employee uncomfortable. General Mills asked Ms. Staff to end the assignment for “repeatedly harassing a [coworker.]” General Mills reported to Ms. Starr that the claimant asked for the woman’s phone number, asked her out, and even touched her. It did not provide any details for any of these allegations. Ms. Starr offered that the woman said she was touched on the arm.

On August 31, 2023, Ms. Starr informed the claimant of his termination. After being informed of the allegations brought against him, the claimant apologized and asked if he could be given another assignment. The claimant apologized because he did ask the woman out and briefly touched her hand.

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

The administrative law judge concludes the employer has not met its burden to show the claimant engaged in work-related misconduct. Benefits are granted, provided the claimant is otherwise eligible for benefits.

Iowa Code section 96.5(2)a provides:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits:

2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:

a. The individual shall be disqualified for benefits until the individual has worked in and has been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times the individual's weekly benefit amount, provided the individual is otherwise eligible.

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(1)a provides:

Discharge for misconduct.

(1) Definition.

a. "Misconduct" is defined as a deliberate act or omission by a worker which constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of such worker's contract of employment. Misconduct as the term is used in the disqualification provision as being limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or evil design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer. On the other hand mere inefficiency, unsatisfactory conduct, failure in good performance as the result of inability or incapacity, inadvertencies or ordinary negligence in isolated instances, or good faith errors in judgment or discretion are not to be deemed misconduct within the meaning of the statute.

This definition has been accepted by the Iowa Supreme Court as accurately reflecting the intent of the legislature. Huntoon v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 275 N.W.2d 445, 448 (Iowa 1979).

Iowa Code section 96.5(2)b, c and d provide:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits, regardless of the source of the individual's wage credits:

2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:

b. Provided further, if gross misconduct is established, the department shall cancel the individual's wage credits earned, prior to the date of discharge, from all employers.

c. Gross misconduct is deemed to have occurred after a claimant loses employment as a result of an act constituting an indictable offense in connection with the claimant's employment, provided the claimant is duly convicted thereof or has signed a statement admitting the commission of such an act. Determinations regarding a benefit claim may be redetermined within five years from the effective date of the claim. Any benefits paid to a claimant prior to a determination that the claimant has lost employment as a result of such act shall not be considered to have been accepted by the claimant in good faith.

d. For the purposes of this subsection, "misconduct" means a deliberate act or omission by an employee that constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of the employee's contract of employment. Misconduct is limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or evil design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer. Misconduct by an individual includes but is not limited to all of the following:

(1) Material falsification of the individual's employment application.

(2) Knowing violation of a reasonable and uniformly enforced rule of an employer.

(3) Intentional damage of an employer's property.

(4) Consumption of alcohol, illegal or nonprescribed prescription drugs, or an impairing substance in a manner not directed by the manufacturer, or a combination of such substances, on the employer's premises in violation of the employer's employment policies.

(5) Reporting to work under the influence of alcohol, illegal or nonprescribed prescription drugs, or an impairing substance in an off-label manner, or a combination of such substances, on the employer's premises in violation of the employer's employment policies, unless the individual is compelled to work by the employer outside of scheduled or on-call working hours.

(6) Conduct that substantially and unjustifiably endangers the personal safety of coworkers or the general public.

(7) Incarceration for an act for which one could reasonably expect to be incarcerated that result in missing work.

(8) Incarceration as a result of a misdemeanor or felony conviction by a court of competent jurisdiction.

(9) Excessive unexcused tardiness or absenteeism.

(10) Falsification of any work-related report, task, or job that could expose the employer or coworkers to legal liability or sanction for violation of health or safety laws.

(11) Failure to maintain any licenses, registration, or certification that is reasonably required by the employer or by law, or that is a functional requirement to perform the individual's regular job duties, unless the failure is not within the control of the individual.

(12) Conduct that is libelous or slanderous toward an employer or an employee of the employer if such conduct is not protected under state or federal law.

(13) Theft of an employer or coworker's funds or property.

(14) Intentional misrepresentation of time worked or work carried out that results in the individual receiving unearned wages or unearned benefits.

The employer has the burden of proof in establishing disqualifying job misconduct. Cosper v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 321 N.W.2d 6 (Iowa 1982). The issue is not whether the employer made a correct decision in separating claimant, but whether the claimant is entitled to unemployment insurance benefits. Infante v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 364 N.W.2d 262 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984). The Iowa Court of Appeals found substantial evidence of misconduct in testimony that the claimant worked slower than he was capable of working and would temporarily and briefly improve following oral reprimands. Sellers v. Emp't Appeal Bd., 531 N.W.2d 645 (Iowa Ct. App. 1995). Generally, continued refusal to follow reasonable instructions constitutes misconduct. Gilliam v. Atlantic Bottling Co., 453 N.W.2d 230 (Iowa Ct. App. 1990). Misconduct must be "substantial" to warrant a denial of job insurance benefits. Newman v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 351 N.W.2d 806 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984). Poor work performance is not misconduct in the absence of evidence of intent. Miller v. Emp't Appeal Bd., 423 N.W.2d 211 (Iowa Ct. App. 1988).

The administrative law judge first finds that the representative's finding of gross misconduct under Iowa Code section 96.5(2)c is not appropriate. Gross misconduct requires a conviction or admission to an indictable offense. The record does not support the notion the claimant was ever indicted for the allegations brought against him in this case.

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(4) and (8) provide:

(4) Report required. The claimant's statement and employer's statement must give detailed facts as to the specific reason for the claimant's discharge. Allegations of misconduct or dishonesty without additional evidence shall not be sufficient to result in disqualification. If the employer is unwilling to furnish available evidence to corroborate the allegation, misconduct cannot be established. In cases where a suspension or disciplinary layoff exists, the claimant is considered as discharged, and the issue of misconduct shall be resolved.

(8) Past acts of misconduct. While past acts and warnings can be used to determine the magnitude of a current act of misconduct, a discharge for misconduct cannot be based on such past act or acts. The termination of employment must be based on a current act.

The decision in this case rests, at least in part, on the credibility of the witnesses. It is the duty of the administrative law judge as the trier of fact in this case, to determine the credibility of witnesses, weigh the evidence and decide the facts in issue. Arndt v. City of LeClaire, 728 N.W.2d 389, 394-395 (Iowa 2007). The administrative law judge may believe all, part or none of any witness's testimony. State v. Holtz, 548 N.W.2d 162, 163 (Iowa App. 1996). In assessing the credibility of witnesses, the administrative law judge should consider the evidence using his or her own observations, common sense and experience. Id. In determining the facts, and deciding what testimony to believe, the fact finder may consider the following factors: whether the testimony is reasonable and consistent with other believable evidence; whether a witness has made inconsistent statements; the witness's appearance, conduct, age, intelligence, memory and knowledge of the facts; and the witness's interest in the trial, their motive, candor, bias and prejudice. Id.

After assessing the credibility of the witnesses who testified during the hearing, reviewing the exhibits submitted by the parties, considering the applicable factors listed above, and using his own common sense and experience, the administrative law judge finds neither party credible regarding the incidents leading to the claimant's termination. The findings of facts show these credibility findings made against both parties.

On the one hand, the employer is asking the administrative law judge to disqualify the claimant from vital benefits based on triple hearsay. It cannot say when these alleged actions occurred or how many times they occurred. It is unknown how the woman reacted to any of these incidents. It provides nothing but speculation to fill in the gaps of these details.

On the other hand, the claimant's blanket denial regarding each of the alleged incidents is not credible either. The claimant went so far as to deny he ever asked this woman out. He denied ever touching her. Such a blanket denial is also not credible, especially given what he said to the representative.

Ultimately, it is the employer's burden to provide specific instances of misconduct that led to the claimant's termination. See Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(4). The employer has failed to do so in this case. The administrative law judge does not know if the claimant asked this woman out once or multiple times. Same with the allegation that he asked her for her number. He does not have any information about what the woman's response was to any of these alleged actions. Finally, the record does not contain any information regarding when any of these incidents allegedly occurred. The employer has failed to meet its burden.

Even if the administrative law judge found a handful of incidents like this occurred, he would not find this is misconduct. The behavior the claimant is accused of could have been corrected with a warning. Asking a woman on a date or for her number is not an aggravated set of circumstances. While it is never good to touch a woman without consent, the record to the extent it contains any information about the incident said the touching was on her hand. This is also not an aggravated event, especially because the employer does not even describe the context in which the touching of the hand occurred. Benefits are granted, provided the claimant is otherwise eligible for benefits.

DECISION:

The November 20, 2023, (reference 05) unemployment insurance decision is REVERSED. The claimant did not engage in gross misconduct. The employer has also failed to meet its burden to show the claimant's work-related misconduct caused his termination. Benefits are granted, provided he is otherwise eligible for benefits.
