ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE DECISION

HELPING HANDS NURSING SOLUTIONS
Employer

OC: 07/23/23
Claimant: Respondent (1-R)

Iowa Code § 96.5(2)a – Discharge for Misconduct
Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(1)a – Discharge for Misconduct
Iowa Code § 96.3(7) – Recovery of Benefit Overpayment
Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.10 – Recovery of Benefit Overpayment

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

The employer, Helping Hands Nursing Solutions, filed an appeal from the September 11, 2023, (reference 04) unemployment insurance decision that granted benefits based upon the conclusion she was discharged, but misconduct was not shown. The parties were properly notified of the hearing. A telephone hearing was held on October 6, 2023. The claimant did not participate. The employer participated through Human Resources Manager Melissa Topete. Official notice was taken of the agency records.

ISSUES:

Was the claimant discharged for disqualifying job-related misconduct?

Whether the claimant has been overpaid benefits? Whether the claimant is excused from repayment of benefits due to the employer's non-participation?

FINDINGS OF FACT:

Having reviewed all of the evidence in the record, the administrative law judge finds:

The claimant worked as a full-time staffing specialist from June 19, 2023, until she was separated from employment on July 10, 2023, when she was terminated. The claimant's schedule was Monday through Friday beginning at 8:00 a.m. and ending at 5:00 p.m. each day. The claimant received occasional overtime.

The employer has an at-will employment policy. The policy states that either the claimant or the employer can terminate the employment relationship at any time.

On July 7, 2023, the employer received a letter from the claimant's previous employer, Tri-State Nursing Enterprises Incorporated. The letter informed the employer that the claimant previously worked as an account manager at Tri-State Nursing Enterprises Incorporated. It then reminded the employer that it promised not to hire the claimant due to a non-compete agreement that forbade her from working for a competitor for one year. It requested the claimant be terminated no later than July 10, 2023.

On July 10, 2023, Human Resources Manager Melissa Topete informed the claimant of the letter from Tri-State Nursing Enterprises Incorporated's lawyer and said she would be terminated immediately. Ms. Topete offered the claimant work as a certified nursing aide ("CNA") at a nursing home near her home. Ms. Topete said she would have hours to give to the claimant in the next couple of days. She would have received two to three dollars per hour more as a CNA. The claimant had previously worked as a CNA. The claimant said that would be fine. Despite this response, the claimant made no effort to accept this work or contact the employer after July 10, 2023.

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

The administrative law judge concludes the claimant was discharged from employment for a non-disqualifying reason. The overpayment issue need not be analyzed because the claimant is entitled to the benefits she received.

Iowa Code section 96.5(2)a provides:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits:

2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:

a. The individual shall be disqualified for benefits until the individual has worked in and has been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times the individual's weekly benefit amount, provided the individual is otherwise eligible.

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(1)a provides:

Discharge for misconduct.

(1) Definition.

a. "Misconduct" is defined as a deliberate act or omission by a worker which constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of such worker's contract of employment. Misconduct as the term is used in the disqualification provision as being limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or evil design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer. On the other hand mere inefficiency, unsatisfactory conduct, failure in good performance as the result of inability or incapacity, inadvertencies or ordinary negligence in isolated instances, or good faith errors in judgment or discretion are not to be deemed misconduct within the meaning of the statute.

This definition has been accepted by the Iowa Supreme Court as accurately reflecting the intent of the legislature. Huntoon v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 275 N.W.2d 445, 448 (Iowa 1979).

Iowa Code section 96.5(2)b, c and d provide:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits, regardless of the source of the individual's wage credits:

2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:

b. Provided further, if gross misconduct is established, the department shall cancel the individual's wage credits earned, prior to the date of discharge, from all employers.

c. Gross misconduct is deemed to have occurred after a claimant loses employment as a result of an act constituting an indictable offense in connection with the claimant's employment, provided the claimant is duly convicted thereof or has signed a statement admitting the commission of such an act. Determinations regarding a benefit claim may be redetermined within five years from the effective date of the claim. Any benefits paid to a claimant prior to a determination that the claimant has lost employment as a result of such act shall not be considered to have been accepted by the claimant in good faith.

d. For the purposes of this subsection, "misconduct" means a deliberate act or omission by an employee that constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of the employee's contract of employment. Misconduct is limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or evil design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer. Misconduct by an individual includes but is not limited to all of the following:

(1) Material falsification of the individual's employment application.

(2) Knowing violation of a reasonable and uniformly enforced rule of an employer.

(3) Intentional damage of an employer's property.

(4) Consumption of alcohol, illegal or nonprescribed prescription drugs, or an impairing substance in a manner not directed by the manufacturer, or a combination of such substances, on the employer's premises in violation of the employer's employment policies.

(5) Reporting to work under the influence of alcohol, illegal or nonprescribed prescription drugs, or an impairing substance in an off-label manner, or a combination of such substances, on the employer's premises in violation of the employer's employment policies, unless the individual is compelled to work by the employer outside of scheduled or on-call working hours.

(6) Conduct that substantially and unjustifiably endangers the personal safety of coworkers or the general public.

(7) Incarceration for an act for which one could reasonably expect to be incarcerated that result in missing work.

(8) Incarceration as a result of a misdemeanor or felony conviction by a court of competent jurisdiction.

(9) Excessive unexcused tardiness or absenteeism.

(10) Falsification of any work-related report, task, or job that could expose the employer or coworkers to legal liability or sanction for violation of health or safety laws.

(11) Failure to maintain any licenses, registration, or certification that is reasonably required by the employer or by law, or that is a functional requirement to perform the individual's regular job duties, unless the failure is not within the control of the individual.

(12) Conduct that is libelous or slanderous toward an employer or an employee of the employer if such conduct is not protected under state or federal law.

(13) Theft of an employer or coworker's funds or property.

(14) Intentional misrepresentation of time worked or work carried out that results in the individual receiving unearned wages or unearned benefits.

The employer has the burden of proof in establishing disqualifying job misconduct. Cosper v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 321 N.W.2d 6 (Iowa 1982). The issue is not whether the employer made a correct decision in separating claimant, but whether the claimant is entitled to unemployment insurance benefits. Infante v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 364 N.W.2d 262 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984). The Iowa Court of Appeals found substantial evidence of misconduct in testimony that the claimant worked slower than he was capable of working and would temporarily and briefly improve following oral reprimands. Sellers v. Emp't Appeal Bd., 531 N.W.2d 645 (Iowa Ct. App. 1995). Generally, continued refusal to follow reasonable instructions constitutes misconduct. Gilliam v. Atlantic Bottling Co., 453 N.W.2d 230 (Iowa Ct. App. 1990). Misconduct must be "substantial" to warrant a denial of job insurance benefits. Newman v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 351 N.W.2d 806 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984). Poor work performance is not misconduct in the absence of evidence of intent. Miller v. Emp't Appeal Bd., 423 N.W.2d 211 (Iowa Ct. App. 1988).

The employer terminated the claimant due to a non-compete agreement she had with her previous employer. This is not misconduct under the law. The claimant did not violate any rule of the employer. Unemployment laws are designed to ensure that those who are unemployed through no fault of their own receive benefits and obtain work as soon as possible. To interpret a violation of a non-compete agreement with a previous employer as misconduct would fundamentally undermine this purpose. Non-compete agreements frustrate an employee's ability to find work. This is counterproductive enough but finding the claimant engaged in misconduct for finding work and in turn disqualifying her from benefits would run completely contrary to the scheme.

The employer's at-will employment agreement also does not show the claimant should be disqualified from benefits. An employer can terminate its employment relationship with the claimant under this policy, but that does not mean that termination is a disqualifying one. For the termination to be a disqualifying one, the employer must show it was due to intentional misconduct. No such showing was made here. Benefits are granted, provided the claimant is otherwise eligible.

DECISION:

The September 11, 2023, (reference 04) unemployment insurance decision is AFFIRMED. The claimant was terminated due to a non-disqualifying set of circumstances. Benefits are granted, provided the claimant is otherwise eligible. The overpayment issue need not be analyzed because the claimant is entitled to benefits.

REMAND:

The administrative law judge is remanding to the Benefits Bureau the issue regarding whether the claimant refused a suitable offer of work as outlined in the findings of facts with due process rights given to both parties.
