ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE DECISION

OC: 06/19/22
Claimant: Appellant (1)

Iowa Code § 96.5(2)a – Discharge for Misconduct
Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(1)a – Discharge for Misconduct

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

The claimant, Kandus Jellison, filed an appeal from the July 11, 2022, (reference 01) unemployment insurance decision that denied benefits based upon the conclusion she was discharged for insubordination. The parties were properly notified of the hearing. A telephone hearing was held on August 23, 2022. The claimant participated and testified. The employer participated through Director of Nursing Olivia Oshel and Administrator Nicole Behrens. The employer was represented by Thomas Kuiper, unemployment insurance representative. Exhibits 1, 2, and 3 were admitted into the record.

ISSUE:

Was the claimant discharged for disqualifying job-related misconduct?

FINDINGS OF FACT:

Having reviewed all of the evidence in the record, the administrative law judge finds:

The claimant worked full-time for the employer as a certified nursing assistant (“CNA”) from February 27, 2021 through June 29, 2022, when she was terminated. The claimant’s immediate supervisor was Director of Nursing Olivia Oshel.

The employer provided a copy of the CNA job description. The job description states CNAs are to report any information regarding a change in medical status or resident needs to the charge nurse in a timely manner. Specifically, they determine if the injury is an emergency and make arrangements for the resident to go to the hospital if it is an emergency. The claimant acknowledged receipt of her job description on February 17, 2021.

On June 22, 2022, a resident with brittle bone disease accidentally propelled himself out of his wheelchair causing damage to his legs. The charge nurses and Ms. Oshel determined that it was not an emergency and ordered x-rays be conducted on his legs to check for fractures. The resident calmed down and seemed stabilized. Approximately two hours later, the resident was still waiting for the x-rays. He had been given pain medications for his legs, but he told the claimant he was still in considerable pain. He said he wanted to go to the hospital. The claimant asked one of the charge nurses if she could send the resident to the hospital. The charge nurse directed the claimant to speak with Ms. Oschel. The claimant then went to Ms. Oschel's office and asked her if the resident had the right to go to the hospital. Ms. Oschel stated they did not know the extent of the damage to his legs but reminded her that four orders had been made to the internal doctor for x-rays. The claimant said, "So you're saying that he does not have the right to go to the hospital?" The claimant added that patient care was the number one responsibility of staff. The claimant then turned to the resident and instructed him how to dial 911. Ms. Oschel then told the claimant, "Get the fuck out of the building until you can do your job right." The claimant replied that she was not "fucking leaving." Ms. Behrens escorted the claimant to the parking lot. The claimant told Ms. Behrens she wanted the Department of Inspections and Appeals (DIA) telephone number, so she could report the incident to that agency. Ms. Behrens said the claimant could not return to the property. Despite Ms. Behrens' order, the claimant returned to the employer's facility to get DIA's phone number. During the altercation, the claimant exclaimed, "We don't provide care and this is a shitty facility." The claimant called Ms. Oschel and Ms. Behrens "bitches."

On June 29, 2022, the employer terminated the claimant for the incident that occurred on June 22, 2022.

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

For the reasons that follow, the administrative law judge concludes the claimant was discharged from employment due to job-related misconduct.

Iowa Code section 96.5(2)a provides:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits:

2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:

a. The individual shall be disqualified for benefits until the individual has worked in and has been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times the individual's weekly benefit amount, provided the individual is otherwise eligible.

871 IAC 24.32(1)a provides:

Discharge for misconduct.

(1) Definition.

a. "Misconduct" is defined as a deliberate act or omission by a worker which constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of such worker's contract of employment. Misconduct as the term is used in the disqualification provision as being limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or evil design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer. On the other hand mere inefficiency, unsatisfactory conduct, failure in good performance as the result of inability or incapacity, inadvertencies or ordinary negligence in isolated instances, or good faith errors in judgment or discretion are not to be deemed misconduct within the meaning of the statute.

This definition has been accepted by the Iowa Supreme Court as accurately reflecting the intent of the legislature. Huntoon v. Iowa Department of Job Service, 275 N.W.2d 445, 448 (Iowa 1979).

The employer has the burden of proof in establishing disqualifying job misconduct. Cosper v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 321 N.W.2d 6 (Iowa 1982). The issue is not whether the employer made a correct decision in separating claimant, but whether the claimant is entitled to unemployment insurance benefits. Infante v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 364 N.W.2d 262 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984). The Iowa Court of Appeals found substantial evidence of misconduct in testimony that the claimant worked slower than he was capable of working and would temporarily and briefly improve following oral reprimands. Sellers v. Emp't Appeal Bd., 531 N.W.2d 645 (Iowa Ct. App. 1995). Generally, continued refusal to follow reasonable instructions constitutes misconduct. Gilliam v. Atlantic Bottling Co., 453 N.W.2d 230 (Iowa Ct. App. 1990). Misconduct must be "substantial" to warrant a denial of job insurance benefits. Newman v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 351 N.W.2d 806 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984). Poor work performance is not misconduct in the absence of evidence of intent. Miller v. Emp't Appeal Bd., 423 N.W.2d 211 (Iowa Ct. App. 1988).

The employer has the burden of proof in establishing disqualifying job misconduct. Cosper v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 321 N.W.2d 6 (Iowa 1982). The issue is not whether the employer made a correct decision in separating claimant, but whether the claimant is entitled to unemployment insurance benefits. *Infante v. App. 1988).

The employer is entitled to establish reasonable work rules and expect employees to abide by them. A determination as to whether an employee's act is misconduct does not rest solely on the interpretation or application of the employer's policy or rule. An employer has a "right to expect decency and civility from its employees." Myers v. Emp't Appeal Bd., 462 N.W.2d 734, 738 (Iowa Ct. App. 1990). Profanity or other offensive language in a confrontational, name-calling, or disrespectful context may constitute misconduct, even in isolated situations or in situations in which the target of the statements is not present to hear them. See Myers v. Emp't Appeal Bd., 462 N.W.2d 734 (Iowa Ct. App. 1990), overruling Budding v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 337 N.W.2d 219 (Iowa Ct. App. 1983). "We have recognized that vulgar language in front of customers can constitute misconduct, Zeches v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 333 N.W.2d 735, 736 (Iowa Ct. App. 1983), as well as vulgarities accompanied with a refusal to obey supervisors. Warrell v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 356 N.W.2d 587, 589 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984).

An employer has the right to expect decency and civility from its employees and an employee's use of profanity or offensive language in a confrontational, disrespectful, or name-calling context may be recognized as misconduct disqualifying the employee from receipt of unemployment insurance benefits. Henecke v. Iowa Department of Job Service, 533 N.W.2d 573 (Iowa App. 1995). Use of foul language can alone be a sufficient ground for a misconduct disqualification for unemployment benefits. Warrell v. Iowa Dept. of Job Service, 356 N.W.2d 587 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984). "An isolated incident of vulgarity can constitute misconduct and warrant disqualification from unemployment benefits, if it serves to undermine a superior's authority." Deever v. Hawkeye Window Cleaning, Inc. 447 N.W.2d 418, 421 (Iowa Ct. App. 1989). The "question of whether the use of improper language in the workplace is misconduct is nearly always a fact question. It must be considered with other relevant factors...." Myers v. Employment Appeal Board, 462 N.W.2d 734, 738 (Iowa App. 1990).

Aggravating factors for cases of bad language include: (1) cursing in front of customers, vendors, or other third parties (2) undermining a supervisor's authority (3) threats of violence (4) threats of future misbehavior or insubordination (5) repeated incidents of vulgarity, and (6) discriminatory content. Myers v. Employment Appeal Board, 462 N.W.2d 734, 738 (Iowa App. 1990); Deever v. Hawkeye Window Cleaning, Inc. 447 N.W.2d 418, 421 (Iowa Ct. App. 1989); Henecke v. Iowa Department of Job Service, 533 N.W.2d 573 (Iowa App. 1995); Carpenter v. IDJS, 401 N.W. 2d 242, 246 (Iowa App. 1986); Zeches v. Iowa Department of Job Service, 333 N.W.2d 735 (Iowa App. 1983). While there is no citation for discriminatory content, but there is no doubt that this is an aggravating factor. The consideration of these factors can take into account the general work environment, and other factors as well.

In cases of alleged insubordination, the administrative law judge looks at the reasonableness of the employer's request in light of the circumstances, along with the workers reason for non-compliance. See Endicott v. Iowa Department of Job Service, 367 N.W.2d 300 (Iowa Ct. App. 1985). Good faith is measured by an objective standard of reasonableness.

The decision in this case rests, at least in part, on the credibility of the witnesses. It is the duty of the administrative law judge as the trier of fact in this case, to determine the credibility of witnesses, weigh the evidence and decide the facts in issue. Arndt v. City of LeClaire, 728 N.W.2d 389, 394-395 (Iowa 2007). The administrative law judge may believe all, part or none of any witness's testimony. State v. Holtz, 548 N.W.2d 162, 163 (Iowa App. 1996). In assessing the credibility of witnesses, the administrative law judge should consider the evidence using his or his own observations, common sense and experience. Id. In determining the facts, and deciding what testimony to believe, the fact finder may consider the following factors: whether the testimony is reasonable and consistent with other believable evidence; whether a witness has made inconsistent statements; the witness's appearance, conduct, age, intelligence, memory and knowledge of the facts; and the witness's interest in the trial, their motive, candor, bias and prejudice. Id.

After assessing the credibility of the witnesses who testified during the hearing, reviewing the exhibits submitted by the parties, considering the applicable factors listed above, and using his own common sense and experience, the administrative law judge finds the employer's version of events to be more credible than the claimant's recollection of those events.

The administrative law judge finds the claimant's behavior was unreasonable given the circumstances. The employer's written rules place the authority to make assessments with the charge nurses. The claimant acknowledged the charge nurses make this determination. The claimant also acknowledged during her testimony that the charge nurses rely on Ms. Oschel's expertise to make that assessment. Despite lacking the same level of expertise, the claimant was so confident in her assessment that she acted in full contradiction of the orders of the charge nurses and Ms. Oschel. The claimant then disparaged the employer directed curse words and epithets at Ms. Oschel and Ms. Behrens. Such behavior is not reasonable and constitutes misconduct. Benefits are denied.
