APPEAL 23A-UI-06149-AW-T

ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE DECISION

OC: 05/14/23
Claimant: Respondent (2)

Iowa Code § 96.5(2)a – Discharge for Misconduct

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

Employer filed an appeal from the June 6, 2023 (reference 01) unemployment insurance decision that allowed benefits. The parties were properly notified of the hearing. A telephone hearing was held on July 10, 2023. Claimant participated. Employer participated through Manager of Children and Family Services Tracy Swanson. Employer's Exhibit 1 was admitted. The administrative law judge took official notice of the administrative record.

ISSUES:

Whether claimant's separation was a discharge for disqualifying job-related misconduct.
Whether claimant was overpaid benefits.
Whether claimant should repay those benefits and/or whether employer should be charged based upon its participation in the fact-finding interview.

FINDINGS OF FACT:

Having reviewed all of the evidence in the record, the administrative law judge finds:

Claimant was employed with Hope Haven full-time from February 1, 2018 until her employment ended on May 15, 2023. For the last six months of her employment, claimant was a Community Living Lead. Claimant's schedule varied. Claimant's direct supervisor was Tracy Swanson, Manager of Children and Family Services.

Employer has a disciplinary policy that prohibits employees from using obscene, abusive or threatening language and gestures. (Exhibit 1, p. 15) The policy states that violation may result in disciplinary action up to and including immediate dismissal. (Exhibit 1, p. 14) Employer also has ethical standards governing employees' responsibilities to coworkers. (Exhibit 1, p. 25) The policy requires employees treat coworkers with respect and refrain from unwarranted negative criticism including demeaning comments. (Exhibit 1, p. 25) Claimant received a copy of the disciplinary policy and ethical standards.

On May 6, 2023, claimant became frustrated with a subordinate employee who left work without approval which caused claimant to work on her night off. Claimant called the employee and left a voicemail message in which claimant called the employee a profane name and used profanity.

Claimant was not clocked-in when she left the message. Employer learned of the incident on May 9, 2023 and investigated by taking written statements and listening to the voicemail recording.

On May 15, 2023, employer discharged claimant for violation of its disciplinary policy and ethical standards. Claimant had no prior warnings for violation of the policy or standards. Employer is not aware of any other employees who violated the policy or standards and were not discharged.

The administrative record reflects that claimant filed for and has received unemployment insurance benefits in the gross amount of $3,721.00 for seven-week period between May 21, 2023 and July 8, 2023. Employer did not participate in the fact-finding interview because it did not receive notice prior to the interview.

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

For the reasons that follow, the administrative law judge concludes:

Iowa Code section 96.5(2)(a) provides:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits:

2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:

a. The disqualification shall continue until the individual has worked in and has been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times the individual's weekly benefit amount, provided the individual is otherwise eligible.

Iowa Code section 96.5(2)d provides:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits, regardless of the source of the individual's wage credits:

2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:

d. For the purposes of this subsection, "misconduct" means a deliberate act or omission by an employee that constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of the employee's contract of employment. Misconduct is limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or evil design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer.

The employer has the burden of proof in establishing disqualifying job misconduct. Cosper v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 321 N.W.2d 6 (Iowa 1982).

Under the definition of misconduct for purposes of unemployment benefit disqualification, the conduct in question must be "work-connected." Diggs v. Emp't Appeal Bd., 478 N.W.2d 432 (Iowa Ct. App. 1991). The courts have concluded that off duty conduct can have the requisite element of work connection. Kleidosty v. Emp't Appeal Bd., 482 N.W.2d 416, 418 (Iowa 1992).

Under similar definitions of misconduct, for an employer to show that an employee's off-duty activities rise to the level of misconduct in connection with the employment, the employer must show by a preponderance of the evidence that the employee's conduct (1) had some nexus with the work; (2) resulted in some harm to the employer's interest, and (3) was conduct which was (a) violative of some code of behavior impliedly contracted between employer and employee, and (b) done with intent or knowledge that the employer's image would suffer. See also Dray v. Director, 930 S.W. 2d 390 (Ark. Ct. App. 1996); In re Kotrba, 418 N.W. 2d 313 (SD 1988), quoting Nelson v. Dept. of Emp't Security, 656 P.2d 242 (WA 1982); 76 Am. Jur. 2d, Unemployment Compensation §§77-78.

Claimant was discharged for leaving a subordinate employee a profane and demeaning voicemail message while clocked-out. To be disqualifying, claimant's conduct must be "work-connected." Claimant's message was directed to her subordinate employee and, thus, had a nexus to work. The message caused harm to employer's interest of providing a workplace where employees feel safe and respected. Claimant's message was a violation of employer's disciplinary policy and ethical standards. Claimant knew or should have known that employer's image would suffer. Claimant's conduct was work-connected.

Furthermore, claimant's message showed a willful or wanton disregard of employer's interests. Claimant's conduct rose to the level of disqualifying, job-related misconduct even without a prior warning. Benefits are denied.

The next issues to be determined are whether claimant has been overpaid benefits, whether the claimant must repay those benefits, and whether the employer's account will be charged. For the reasons that follow, the administrative law judge concludes:

Iowa Code § 96.3(7)(a)-(b) provides:

7. Recovery of overpayment of benefits.

a. If an individual receives benefits for which the individual is subsequently determined to be ineligible, even though the individual acts in good faith and is not otherwise at fault, the benefits shall be recovered. The department in its discretion may recover the overpayment of benefits either by having a sum equal to the overpayment deducted from any future benefits payable to the individual or by having the individual pay to the department a sum equal to the overpayment.

b. (1) (a) If the department determines that an overpayment has been made, the charge for the overpayment against the employer's account shall be removed and the account shall be credited with an amount equal to the overpayment from the unemployment compensation trust fund and this credit shall include both contributory and reimbursable employers, notwithstanding section 96.8, subsection 5. The employer shall not be relieved of charges if benefits are paid because the employer or an agent of the employer failed to respond timely or adequately to the department's request for information relating to the payment of benefits. This prohibition against relief of charges shall apply to both contributory and reimbursable employers. If the department determines that an employer's failure to respond timely or adequately was due to insufficient notification from the department, the employer's account shall not be charged for the overpayment.

(b) However, provided the benefits were not received as the result of fraud or willful misrepresentation by the individual, benefits shall not be recovered from an individual if the employer did not participate in the initial determination to award benefits pursuant to section 96.6, subsection 2, and an overpayment occurred because of a subsequent reversal on appeal regarding the issue of the individual's separation from employment.

(2) An accounting firm, agent, unemployment insurance accounting firm, or other entity that represents an employer in unemployment claim matters and demonstrates a continuous pattern of failing to participate in the initial determinations to award benefits, as determined and defined by rule by the department, shall be denied permission by the department to represent any employers in unemployment insurance matters. This subparagraph does not apply to attorneys or counselors admitted to practice in the courts of this state pursuant to section 602.10101.

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.10(1) provides:

Employer and employer representative participation in fact-finding interviews.

(1) "Participate," as the term is used for employers in the context of the initial determination to award benefits pursuant to Iowa Code section 96.6, subsection 2, means submitting detailed factual information of the quantity and quality that if unrebutted would be sufficient to result in a decision favorable to the employer. The most effective means to participate is to provide live testimony at the interview from a witness with firsthand knowledge of the events leading to the separation. If no live testimony is provided, the employer must provide the name and telephone number of an employee with firsthand information who may be contacted, if necessary, for rebuttal. A party may also participate by providing detailed written statements or documents that provide detailed factual information of the events leading to separation. At a minimum, the information provided by the employer or the employer's representative must identify the dates and particular circumstances of the incident or incidents, including, in the case of discharge, the act or omissions of the claimant or, in the event of a voluntary separation, the stated reason for the quit. The specific rule or policy must be submitted if the claimant was discharged for violating such rule or policy. In the case of discharge for attendance violations, the information must include the circumstances of all incidents the employer or the employer's representative contends meet the definition of unexcused absences as set forth in 871—subrule 24.32(7). On the other hand, written or oral statements or general conclusions without supporting detailed factual information and information submitted after the fact-finding decision has been issued are not considered participation within the meaning of the statute.

The unemployment insurance law provides that benefits must be recovered from a claimant who receives benefits and is later determined to be ineligible for benefits, even though the claimant acted in good faith and was not otherwise at fault. However, the overpayment will not be recovered when it is based on a reversal on appeal of an initial determination to award benefits on an issue regarding the claimant's employment separation if: (1) the benefits were not received due to any fraud or willful misrepresentation by the claimant and (2) the employer did not participate in the initial proceeding to award benefits. The employer will not be charged for benefits if it is determined that they did participate in the fact-finding interview. Iowa Code § 96.3(7), Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.10.

Because claimant's separation was disqualifying, benefits were paid to which claimant was not entitled. The administrative law judge concludes that claimant has been overpaid UI in the gross amount of $3,721.00 for seven-week period between May 21, 2023 and July 8, 2023. There is no evidence that claimant received these benefits due to fraud or willful misrepresentation. Furthermore, employer did not participate in the fact-finding interview. Therefore, claimant is not obligated to repay the UI benefits that claimant received.

While employer did not participate in the fact-finding interview, it was not because employer failed to timely or adequately respond to IWD's request for information relating to the payment of benefits; employer did not receive notice until after the fact-finding interview occurred. Accordingly, employer's account cannot be charged. Because neither party is to be charged, the UI overpayment is absorbed by the fund.

DECISION:

The June 6, 2023 (reference 01) unemployment insurance decision is REVERSED. Claimant was discharged for disqualifying job-related misconduct. Benefits are denied until claimant has worked in and been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times claimant's weekly benefit amount, provided claimant is otherwise eligible.

Claimant has been overpaid regular unemployment insurance benefits in the gross amount of $3,721.00 and is not obligated to repay those benefits to the agency. Employer did not participate in the fact-finding interview through no fault of its own; employer's account shall not be charged. The overpayment shall be charged to the fund.
