Claimant: Appellant (4)

871 IAC 24.9 - Redetermination

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

An appeal was filed from an unemployment insurance decision dated June 20, 2012, reference 02, that concluded that a decision on her June 26, 2011, separation from employment had been made on a prior claim and the disqualification imposed in July 2011 remained in effect. Prior to the hearing being held, the Agency determined she was no longer disqualified based on her June 26, 2011, separation from employment because of the wages she had been paid since the separation, which eliminates the need for a hearing.

ISSUE:

Has the Agency redetermined the matter appealed?

FINDINGS OF FACT:

The Agency issued a decision dated June 20, 2012, that said a disqualification on Ms. Perez's June 26, 2011, separation from employment had been made on a prior claim and remained in effect.

Ms. Perez appealed the decision requesting that the disqualification imposed in July 2011 be removed because she had worked and earned more than ten times her weekly benefit amount since her separation from employment in June 2011.

On July 18, 2012, the Agency issued a decision that Ms. Perez had worked and earned more than ten times her weekly benefit amount since her separation from employment in June 2011 and was no longer disqualified based on that separation.

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

871 IAC 24.9 permits the Department to redetermine an issue based on new information.

The Agency has determined the claimant has requalified based on her wages she has received since June 26, 2011. This is what she requested in her appeal, which eliminates the need for a hearing.

The Agency had issued a new disqualification on July 18, 2012, regarding her separation from employment on June 6, 2012. She will need to appeal that decision if she disagrees with it.

DECISION:

The unemployment insurance decision dated June 20, 2012, reference 02, is modified in favor of the claimant. The claimant has requalified based on her wages she has received since June 26, 2011.
