ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE DECISION

EXPRESS SERVICES INC

Employer

OC: 02/18/24

Claimant: Respondent (2)

Iowa Code § 96.5(1) - Voluntary Quitting

Iowa Code § 96.5(1)j – Voluntary Quit of Temporary Employment

Iowa Code § 96.3(7) – Overpayment of Benefits

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.10 - Employer Participation in Fact-finding Interview

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

The employer, Express Services Inc., filed an appeal from a decision of a representative dated March 15, 2024, (reference 01) that held the claimant eligible for unemployment insurance benefits after a separation from employment. After due notice, a telephone hearing was held on May 6, 2024. The claimant, Delwyn Santiago Cedeno participated personally with a CTS Language Link Spanish interpreter, Renato. The employer participated through Owner Katy McMahon. The administrative law judge took official notice of the administrative record.

ISSUES:

Whether the claimant guit for good cause attributable to the employer.

Whether the claimant was overpaid benefits.

Whether the claimant should repay benefits or whether the employer should be charged based upon participation in fact-finding.

FINDINGS OF FACT:

Having reviewed all of the evidence in the record, the administrative law judge finds: The claimant began working for Express Services Inc. ("Employer") on April 12, 2023. Most recently, he worked full-time hours as a production worker in an assignment at PDM ("Client"). The claimant worked from 2:30 p.m. to 11:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

On February 19, 2024, the client notified the employer that it was ending the claimant's assignment because the claimant had left a shift early without permission. The next day, the employer called and notified the claimant that his assignment had ended. The claimant was upset about how his assignment at PDM ended, and he was not interested in accepting a new job assignment at that time. A few days later, the claimant arrived at the employer's office and told the employer that he was moving to Texas to be closer to family. The employer told the claimant that it would not be able to find him job assignments in Texas, which the claimant understood. The employer interpreted the claimant's move to Texas to be a resignation of employment. The employer had continuing work available for the claimant, but the claimant had no further contact with the employer.

The claimant's administrative records indicate that the claimant filed his original claim for benefits with an effective date of February 18, 2024. Since filing his initial claim, the claimant has filed weekly claims for benefits for 11-weeks between February 18 and May 4, 2024. The claimant has received total unemployment insurance benefits of $5,291.00. The employer did not participate in the fact-finding interview with Iowa Workforce Development.

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

For the reasons that follow, the administrative law judge concludes the claimant voluntarily quit his employment without good cause attributable to the employer. Benefits are denied.

lowa unemployment insurance law disqualifies claimants who voluntarily quit employment without good cause attributable to the employer or who are discharged for work-connected misconduct. Iowa Code §§ 96.5(1) and 96.5(2)a. The burden of proof rests with the employer to show that the claimant voluntarily left the employment. Irving v. Empl. App. Bd., 883 N.W.2d 179 (Iowa 2016). A voluntary quitting of employment requires that an employee exercise a voluntary choice between remaining employed and terminating the employment relationship. Wills v. Emp't Appeal Bd., 447 N.W.2d 137, 138 (Iowa 1989); Peck v. Emp't Appeal Bd., 492 N.W.2d 438, 440 (Iowa Ct. App. 1992). It requires an intention to terminate the employment relationship accompanied by an overt act carrying out that intention. Local Lodge #1426 v. Wilson Trailer, 289 N.W.2d 608, 612 (Iowa 1980).

In this case, the claimant verbally informing the employer that he was not interested in finding a new job assignment and that he was moving to Texas is both evidence of his intention to sever the employment relationship and an overt act carrying out his intention. The record shows that the claimant, not the employer, ended the employment relationship. As such, I find the claimant quit his employment.

The claimant has the burden of proving that the voluntary leaving was for good cause attributable to the employer. Iowa Code § 96.6(2). "Good cause" for leaving employment must be that which is reasonable to the average person, not the overly sensitive individual or the claimant in particular. Uniweld Products v. Indus. Relations Comm'n, 277 So.2d 827 (Fla. Dist. Ct. App. 1973). If the claimant fails to meet their burden, the separation from employment is disqualifying.

lowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.25(2), (23) and (37) provide:

Voluntary quit without good cause. In general, a voluntary quit means discontinuing the employment because the employee no longer desires to remain in the relationship of an employee with the employer from whom the employee has separated. The employer has the burden of proving that the claimant is disqualified for benefits pursuant to lowa Code section 96.5. However, the claimant has the initial burden to produce evidence that the claimant is not disqualified for benefits in cases involving lowa Code section 96.5, subsection (1), paragraphs "a" through "i," and subsection 10. The following reasons for a voluntary quit shall be presumed to be without good cause attributable to the employer:

(2) The claimant moved to a different locality.

- (23) The claimant left voluntarily due to family responsibilities or serious family needs.
- (37) The claimant will be considered to have left employment voluntarily when such claimant gave the employer notice of an intention to resign and the employer accepted such resignation. This rule shall also apply to the claimant who was employed by an educational institution who has declined or refused to accept a new contract or reasonable assurance of work for a successive academic term or year and the offer of work was within the purview of the individual's training and experience.

The material facts in this case are not in significant dispute. The claimant quit his employment to move to Texas to be closer to his family. While the claimant's decision to quit his employment and move to be closer to family may have been for good personal reasons, it was not a good-cause reason attributable to the employer. As such, benefits must be denied.

The next issues to be determined are whether claimant has been overpaid benefits, whether the claimant must repay those benefits, and whether the employer's account will be charged. For the reasons that follow, the administrative law judge concludes:

Iowa Code section 96.3(7)a, b, as amended in 2008, provides:

Payment – determination – duration – child support intercept.

- 7. Recovery of overpayment of benefits.
- a. If an individual receives benefits for which the individual is subsequently determined to be ineligible, even though the individual acts in good faith and is not otherwise at fault, the benefits shall be recovered. The department in its discretion may recover the overpayment of benefits either by having a sum equal to the overpayment deducted from any future benefits payable to the individual or by having the individual pay to the department a sum equal to the overpayment.
- b. (1) (a) If the department determines that an overpayment has been made, the charge for the overpayment against the employer's account shall be removed and the account shall be credited with an amount equal to the overpayment from the unemployment compensation trust fund and this credit shall include both contributory and reimbursable employers, notwithstanding section 96.8, subsection 5. The employer shall not be relieved of charges if benefits are paid because the employer or an agent of the employer failed to respond timely or adequately to the department's request for information relating to the payment of benefits. This prohibition against relief of charges shall apply to both contributory and reimbursable employers.
- (b) However, provided the benefits were not received as the result of fraud or willful misrepresentation by the individual, benefits shall not be recovered from an individual if the employer did not participate in the initial determination to award benefits pursuant to section 96.6, subsection 2, and an overpayment occurred because of a subsequent reversal on appeal regarding the issue of the individual's separation from employment.
- (2) An accounting firm, agent, unemployment insurance accounting firm, or other entity that represents an employer in unemployment claim matters and demonstrates a continuous pattern of failing to participate in the initial determinations to award benefits, as determined and defined by rule by the department, shall be denied permission by the department to represent any employers in unemployment insurance matters. This subparagraph does not apply to attorneys or counselors admitted to practice in the courts of this state pursuant to section 602.10101.

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.10 provides:

Employer and employer representative participation in fact-finding interviews.

- (1) "Participate," as the term is used for employers in the context of the initial determination to award benefits pursuant to lowa Code section 96.6, subsection 2, means submitting detailed factual information of the quantity and quality that if unrebutted would be sufficient to result in a decision favorable to the employer. The most effective means to participate is to provide live testimony at the interview from a witness with firsthand knowledge of the events leading to the separation. If no live testimony is provided, the employer must provide the name and telephone number of an employee with firsthand information who may be contacted, if necessary, for rebuttal. A party may also participate by providing detailed written statements or documents that provide detailed factual information of the events leading to separation. At a minimum, the information provided by the employer or the employer's representative must identify the dates and particular circumstances of the incident or incidents, including, in the case of discharge, the act or omissions of the claimant or, in the event of a voluntary separation, the stated reason for the quit. The specific rule or policy must be submitted if the claimant was discharged for violating such rule or policy. In the case of discharge for attendance violations, the information must include the circumstances of all incidents the employer or the employer's representative contends meet the definition of unexcused absences as set forth in 871 subrule 24.32(7). On the other hand, written or oral statements or general conclusions without supporting detailed factual information and information submitted after the fact-finding decision has been issued are not considered participation within the meaning of the statute.
- (2) "A continuous pattern of nonparticipation in the initial determination to award benefits," pursuant to lowa Code section 96.6, subsection 2, as the term is used for an entity representing employers, means on 25 or more occasions in a calendar quarter beginning with the first calendar quarter of 2009, the entity files appeals after failing to participate. Appeals filed but withdrawn before the day of the contested case hearing will not be considered in determining if a continuous pattern of nonparticipation exists. The division administrator shall notify the employer's representative in writing after each such appeal.
- (3) If the division administrator finds that an entity representing employers as defined in lowa Code section 96.6, subsection 2, has engaged in a continuous pattern of nonparticipation, the division administrator shall suspend said representative for a period of up to six months on the first occasion, up to one year on the second occasion and up to ten years on the third or subsequent occasion. Suspension by the division administrator constitutes final agency action and may be appealed pursuant to lowa Code section 17A.19.
- (4) "Fraud or willful misrepresentation by the individual," as the term is used for claimants in the context of the initial determination to award benefits pursuant to lowa Code section 96.6, subsection 2, means providing knowingly false statements or knowingly false denials of material facts for the purpose of obtaining unemployment insurance benefits. Statements or denials may be either oral or written by the claimant.

Inadvertent misstatements or mistakes made in good faith are not considered fraud or willful misrepresentation.

This rule is intended to implement Iowa Code section 96.3(7)"b" as amended by 2008 Iowa Acts, Senate File 2160.

The unemployment insurance law provides that benefits must be recovered from a claimant who receives benefits and is later determined to be ineligible for those benefits, even though the claimant acted in good faith and was not otherwise at fault. However, the overpayment will not be recovered when it is based on a reversal on appeal of an initial determination to award benefits on an issue regarding the claimant's employment separation if: (1) the benefits were not received due to any fraud or willful misrepresentation by the claimant and (2) the employer did not participate in the initial proceeding to award benefits. The employer will not be charged for benefits if it is determined that they did participate in the fact-finding interview. lowa Code § 96.3(7).

Because the claimant's separation was disqualifying, benefits were paid to which the claimant was not entitled. The administrative law judge concludes that the claimant has been overpaid unemployment insurance benefits in the amount of $5,291.00. There is no evidence that the claimant received these benefits due to fraud or willful misrepresentation. Because the employer did not participate in the fact finding interview, the claimant is not obligated to repay to the agency the benefits he received and the employer's account shall be charged.

DECISION:

The March 15, 2024 (reference 01) unemployment insurance decision is reversed. The claimant voluntarily quit his employment without good cause attributable to the employer. Unemployment insurance benefits funded by the State of Iowa are denied until the claimant has worked in and been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times his weekly benefit amount after the February 19, 2024, separation date, and provided he is otherwise eligible.

The claimant has been overpaid unemployment insurance benefits in the amount of $5,291.00, but is not obligated to repay the agency those benefits. The employer did not participate in the fact-finding interview and its account shall be charged.
