ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE DECISION

GOVERNMENT EMPLOYEES INSURANCE CO

Employer

OC: 03/31/24

Claimant: Appellant (1)

Iowa Code § 96.5(2)a – Discharge for Misconduct Iowa Code § 96.5(1) – Voluntary Quitting

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

The Claimant/Appellant, Taylor Bierman, filed an appeal from the May 6, 2024 (reference 04) unemployment insurance decision that denied benefits after the claimant's discharge from employment. The parties were properly notified of the hearing. A telephone hearing was held on May 29, 2024. The claimant, Taylor Bierman, did not participate. The employer, Government Employees Insurance Co, participated through hearing representative, Gilda Slomka and witnesses, Jessica Cardenas and Ada Claudio. Employer's Exhibit pages 1 - 22 were admitted into evidence. Notice was taken of the claimant's administrative record.

ISSUES:

Was the claimant discharged for disqualifying job-related misconduct?

Did claimant voluntarily quit the employment with good cause attributable to the employer?

FINDINGS OF FACT:

Having reviewed all of the evidence in the record, the administrative law judge finds: The claimant began working for the employer on April 10, 2023 as a full-time service representative 2. Her immediate supervisor was Vicki Tew. The claimant last physically worked for the employer on April 4, 2024. The claimant was discharged from employment on April 6, 2024 for failure to adhere to attendance policy set forth by the employer.

The employer's handbook outlines that failure to adhere to disciplinary action policy may result in discharge from employment. The claimant was given an attendance memo on January 4, 2024 and she received a warning on March 18, 2024. The warning is a final warning that her attendance does not meet expectations and if there are further issues she may be discharged from employment.

The new hires receive a copy of the policy and acknowledge receipt. The claimant acknowledged receipt on February 10, 2023.

In 2024, the claimant was absent or tardy on the following dates: On January 8, 13, 16, 17, 25, 31 and February 1, 2, 5, 6, 7, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 18, 19, 22, 23, 25, 26, 29, and March 1, 3, 4, 6, 8, 10. On March 22, 25, 28 and 29, 2024. On March 25, 2024 the claimant was absent for half an hour because she did not have her phone charged. On March 28, 2024, the claimant was expected to work in the office. She did not arrive to the office until 3:30 PM. On March 29, 2024, the claimant was late returning from lunch by 10 minutes. She was discharged after the final incident on March 29, 2024.

The claimant has to use her personal cell phone to log into the authentication in her work computer. The claimant had a personal phone error on March 25, 2024 and was unable to login to work on time on March 25, 2024. She contacted her employer before the start of her shift to report and attempt to resolve it before the start of her shift on March 25, 2024.

The claimant had a medical condition that she believes allowed her to work from home every day except one day per week. The claimant did not submit documentation of her medical condition to her employer. She was unable to obtain documentation of her medical condition because she did not have health insurance.

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

For the reasons that follow, the administrative law judge concludes the claimant was discharged from employment due to job-related misconduct. Benefits are denied.

Iowa Code section 96.5(2)a and d provide:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits, regardless of the source of the individual's wage credits:

- 2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:
- a. The disqualification shall continue until the individual has worked in and has been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times the individual's weekly benefit amount, provided the individual is otherwise eligible.
- d. For the purposes of this subsection, "misconduct" means a deliberate act or omission by an employee that constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of the employee's contract of employment. Misconduct is limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or evil design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer. Misconduct by an individual includes but is not limited to all of the following:
- (1) Material falsification of the individual's employment application.
- (2) Knowing violation of a reasonable and uniformly enforced rule of an employer.
- (3) Intentional damage of an employer's property.

- (4) Consumption of alcohol, illegal or nonprescribed prescription drugs, or an impairing substance in a manner not directed by the manufacturer or a combination of such substances, on the employer's premises in violation of the employer's employment policies.
- (5) Reporting to work under the influence of alcohol, illegal or nonprescribed prescription drugs, or an impairing substance in an off-label manner, or a combination of such substances, on the employer's premises in violation of the employer's employment policies, unless the individual if compelled to work by the employer outside of scheduled or on-call working hours.
- (6) Conduct that substantially and unjustifiably endangers the personal safety of coworkers or the general public.
- (7) Incarceration for an act for which one could reasonably expect to be incarcerated that result in missing work.
- (8) Incarceration as a result of a misdemeanor or felony conviction by a court of competent jurisdiction.
- (9) Excessive unexcused tardiness or absenteeism.
- (10) Falsification of any work-related report, task, or job that could expose the employer or coworkers to legal liability or sanction for violation of health or safety laws.
- (11) Failure to maintain any licenses, registration, or certification that is reasonably required by the employer or by law, or that is a functional requirement to perform the individual's regular job duties, unless the failure is not within the control of the individual.
- (12) Conduct that is libelous or slanderous toward an employer or an employee of the employer if such conduct is not protected under state or federal law.
- (13) Theft of an employer or coworker's funds or property.
- (14) Intentional misrepresentation of time worked or work carried out that results in the individual receiving unearned wages or unearned benefits.

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(8) provides:

(8) Past acts of misconduct. While past acts and warnings can be used to determine the magnitude of a current act of misconduct, a discharge for misconduct cannot be based on such past act or acts. The termination of employment must be based on a current act.

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(7) provides:

(7) Excessive unexcused absenteeism. Excessive unexcused absenteeism is an intentional disregard of the duty owed by the claimant to the employer and shall be considered misconduct except for illness or other reasonable grounds for which the employee was absent and that were properly reported to the employer.

The gravity of the incident, number of policy violations and prior warnings are factors considered when analyzing misconduct. The lack of a current warning may detract from a finding of an intentional policy violation. The lowa Supreme Court has opined that one unexcused absence is not misconduct even when it followed nine other excused absences and was in violation of a direct order. Sallis v. EAB, 437 N.W.2d 895 (lowa 1989). Higgins v. lowa Department of Job Service, 350 N.W.2d 187 (lowa 1984), held that the absences must be both excessive and unexcused. The lowa Supreme Court has held that the term "excessive" is more than one. Three incidents of tardiness or absenteeism after a warning has been held to be misconduct. Clark v. lowa Department of Job Service, 317 N.W.2d 517 (lowa Ct. App. 1982). While three is a reasonable interpretation of "excessive" based on current case law and Webster's Dictionary, the interpretation is best derived from the facts presented.

The employer has the burden of proof in establishing disqualifying job misconduct. Excessive absences are not considered misconduct unless unexcused. The determination of whether unexcused absenteeism is excessive necessarily requires consideration of past acts and warnings. The term "absenteeism" also encompasses conduct that is more accurately referred to as "tardiness." An absence is an extended tardiness, and an incident of tardiness is a limited absence. Absences related to issues of personal responsibility such as transportation, lack of childcare, and oversleeping are not considered excused. Higgins v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 350 N.W.2d 187 (Iowa 1984). Absences due to illness or injury must be properly reported in order to be excused. Cosper v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 321 N.W.2d 6 (Iowa 1982). An employer's point system or no-fault absenteeism policy is not dispositive of the issue of qualification for benefits.

It is the duty of the administrative law judge as the trier of fact in this case, to determine the credibility of witnesses, weigh the evidence and decide the facts in issue. Arndt v. City of LeClaire, 728 N.W.2d 389, 394-395 (Iowa 2007). The administrative law judge may believe all, part or none of any witness's testimony. State v. Holtz, 548 N.W.2d 162, 163 (Iowa App. 1996). In assessing the credibility of witnesses, the administrative law judge should consider the evidence using his or her own observations, common sense and experience. Id. In determining the facts, and deciding what testimony to believe, the fact finder may consider the following factors: whether the testimony is reasonable and consistent with other believable evidence; whether a witness has made inconsistent statements; the witness's appearance, conduct, age, intelligence, memory and knowledge of the facts; and the witness's interest in the trial, their motive, candor, bias and prejudice. Id. In this case, the administrative law judge finds the employer's testimony more credible and consistent than the claimant's testimony.

An employer is entitled to expect its employees to report to work as scheduled or to be notified in a timely manner as to when and why the employee is unable to report to work. The employer has credibly established the claimant was issued a current warning regarding her history of absenteeism. March 25, 2024, the claimant was unable to login to work on time because her personal cell phone required for authentication was not working. The claimant contacted her employer before the start of the shift and attempted to resolve the problem to avoid being late. The tardy on March 25, 2024 was reasonable and excused. However, On March 22, March 28 and March 29, 2024, the claimant was absent or tardy and those were not excused. The final absences on March 22, March 25, March 28 and March 29, 2024 were not excused. While the claimant may have intended on requesting an accommodation to allow her to work from home, the fact remains that she did not have the accommodation in place in March of 2024. She was required to work from the office on certain days and did not report to the office until almost 3:30 PM. The final absences on March 22, March 28 and March 29, 2024 were unexcused absenteeism. Three absences within one week's time is considered excessive. Benefits are withheld.

DECISION:

The May 6, 2024, (reference 04) decision is affirmed. Claimant was discharged from employment due to excessive, unexcused absenteeism. Benefits are withheld until such time as she has worked in and been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times her weekly benefit amount, provided she is otherwise eligible.
