ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE DECISION

OC: 05/02/21
Claimant: Respondent (2)

Iowa Code § 96.5(2)a – Discharge for Misconduct
Iowa Code § 96.5(1) – Voluntary Quitting

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

The employer filed an appeal from the March 21, 2022, (reference 05) unemployment insurance decision that allowed benefits based upon claimant's discharge from employment for job-related misconduct. The parties were properly notified of the hearing. A telephone hearing was held on March 21, 2022. The claimant, James Anaal, did not participate. The employer, Amazon.com Services Inc, participated through hearing representative, Gregg Link and witness, Charles Goldberg. No exhibits were offered or admitted.

ISSUES:

Was the claimant discharged for disqualifying job-related misconduct?
Did claimant voluntarily quit the employment with good cause attributable to employer?

FINDINGS OF FACT:

Having reviewed all of the evidence in the record, the administrative law judge finds: Claimant was employed part-time as a flex shift fulfillment data center associate. In this position, the claimant was only required to work a minimum of 4 hours per week and a maximum of 60. He was employed in this capacity from June 16, 2021 until February 5, 2022. Errol Clements was claimant's immediate supervisor. The claimant was involuntarily discharged due to his attendance and tardiness policy.

The policy further states that a flex shift associate cannot accrue more than 8 or more attendance violations if an employee cannot come to work.

The claimant did not attend his work on December 11, 2021, December 18, 2021, December 25, 2021, January 1, 2022, January 8, 2022, January 15, 2022, January 20, 2022, January 28, 2022 and February 5, 2022. Because he missed this work, he incurred enough points to be discharged.

The employer's policy requires the employee to provide as much notice as possible when unable to attend work. In this case, on December 9, 2021, the claimant made an inbound phone call to inquire about time off options due to traveling to his native country. The representative told the claimant to file for a leave of absence. The claimant filed for his leave of absence the next day. His leave stated the reason for his absence was to care for family members in his native country. Claimant's leave of absence was denied and his time off of work was not approved. The employer requested the claimant preplan his travel with more notice or resign in good standing to allow for his re-hire upon his return to the country. Claimant did not do either of these options. Despite being denied his leave of absence, the claimant chose to not attend work.

Claimant had received no previous disciplinary actions during the course of his employment.

The employer attempted to contact the claimant on February 6, February 10, and February 14, 2022. The employer received no response on its attempt to contact the claimant. Continuing work was available for the claimant had he attended work.

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

For the reasons that follow, the administrative law judge concludes the claimant was discharged from employment due to job-related misconduct. Benefits are denied.

As a preliminary matter, I find that Claimant did not quit. Claimant was discharged from employment for job-related misconduct.

Iowa Code § 96.5(2)a provides:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits:

2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:

a. The individual shall be disqualified for benefits until the individual has worked in and has been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times the individual's weekly benefit amount, provided the individual is otherwise eligible.

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(1)a provides:

Discharge for misconduct.

(1) Definition.

a. "Misconduct" is defined as a deliberate act or omission by a worker which constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of such worker's contract of employment. Misconduct as the term is used in the disqualification provision as being limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or evil design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer. On the other hand mere inefficiency, unsatisfactory conduct, failure in good performance as the result of inability or incapacity, inadvertencies or ordinary negligence in isolated instances, or good faith errors in judgment or discretion are not to be deemed misconduct within the meaning of the statute.

This definition has been accepted by the Iowa Supreme Court as accurately reflecting the intent of the legislature. Huntoon v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 275 N.W.2d 445, 448 (Iowa 1979).

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(4) provides:

(4) Report required. The claimant's statement and employer's statement must give detailed facts as to the specific reason for the claimant's discharge. Allegations of misconduct or dishonesty without additional evidence shall not be sufficient to result in disqualification. If the employer is unwilling to furnish available evidence to corroborate the allegation, misconduct cannot be established. In cases where a suspension or disciplinary layoff exists, the claimant is considered as discharged, and the issue of misconduct shall be resolved.

Iowa Admin. Code r.871-24.32(8) provides:

(8) Past acts of misconduct. While past acts and warnings can be used to determine the magnitude of a current act of misconduct, a discharge for misconduct cannot be based on such past act or acts. The termination of employment must be based on a current act.

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(7) provides:

(7) Excessive unexcused absenteeism. Excessive unexcused absenteeism is an intentional disregard of the duty owed by the claimant to the employer and shall be considered misconduct except for illness or other reasonable grounds for which the employee was absent and that were properly reported to the employer.

The employer has the burden of proof in establishing disqualifying job misconduct. Cosper v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 321 N.W.2d 6 (Iowa 1982). Excessive absences are not considered misconduct unless unexcused. Id. at 10. Absences due to properly reported illness cannot constitute work-connected misconduct since they are not volitional, even if the employer was fully within its rights to assess points or impose discipline up to or including discharge for the absence under its attendance policy. Gaborit v. Emp't Appeal Bd., 743 N.W.2d 554 (Iowa Ct. App. 2007). Medical documentation is not essential to a determination that an absence due to illness should be treated as excused. Id. at 558.

Excessive unexcused absenteeism is an intentional disregard of the duty owed by the claimant to the employer and shall be considered misconduct except for illness or other reasonable grounds for which the employee was absent and that were properly reported to the employer. Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(7) (emphasis added); see Higgins v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 350 N.W.2d 187, 190, n. 1 (Iowa 1984) holding "rule [2]4.32(7)...accurately states the law." The requirements for a finding of misconduct based on absences are therefore twofold. First, the absences must be excessive. Sallis v. Emp't Appeal Bd., 437 N.W.2d 895 (Iowa 1989). The determination of whether unexcused absenteeism is excessive necessarily requires consideration of past acts and warnings. Higgins, 350 N.W.2d at 192 (Iowa 1984). Second, the absences must be unexcused. Cosper, 321 N.W.2d at 10 (Iowa 1982). The requirement of "unexcused" can be satisfied in two ways. An absence can be unexcused either because it was not for "reasonable grounds," Higgins, 350 N.W.2d at 191 or because it was not "properly reported.” Higgins, 350 N.W.2d at 191 (Iowa 1984) and Cosper, 321 N.W.2d at 10 (Iowa 1982). Excused absences are those “with appropriate notice.” Cosper, 321 N.W.2d at 10 (Iowa 1982).

The term “absenteeism” also encompasses conduct that is more accurately referred to as “tardiness.” An absence is an extended tardiness and an incident of tardiness is a limited absence. Higgins, 350 N.W.2d at 190 (Iowa 1984). Absences related to issues of personal responsibility such as transportation, lack of childcare, and oversleeping is not considered excused. Id. at 191. Absences due to illness or injury must be properly reported in order to be excused. Cosper, 321 N.W.2d at 10-11 (Iowa 1982). Absences in good faith, for good cause, with appropriate notice, are not misconduct. Id. at 10. They may be grounds for discharge but not for disqualification of benefits because substantial disregard for the employer’s interest is not shown and this is essential to a finding of misconduct. Id.

Excessive absenteeism has been found when there has been seven unexcused absences in five months; five unexcused absences and three instances of tardiness in eight months; three unexcused absences over an eight-month period; three unexcused absences over seven months; and missing three times after being warned. See Higgins, 350 N.W.2d at 192 (Iowa 1984); Infante v. Iowa Dep’t of Job Serv., 321 N.W.2d 262 (Iowa App. 1984); Armel v. EAB, 2007 WL 3376929*3 (Iowa App. Nov. 15, 2007); Hiland v. EAB, No. 12-2300 (Iowa App. July 10, 2013); and Clark v. Iowa Dep’t of Job Serv., 317 N.W.2d 517 (Iowa App. 1982).

It is the duty of the administrative law judge as the trier of fact in this case, to determine the credibility of witnesses, weigh the evidence and decide the facts in issue. Arndt v. City of LeClaire, 728 N.W.2d 389, 394-395 (Iowa 2007). The administrative law judge may believe all, part or none of any witness’s testimony. State v. Holtz, 548 N.W.2d 162, 163 (Iowa App. 1996). In assessing the credibility of witnesses, the administrative law judge should consider the evidence using his or her own observations, common sense and experience. Id. In determining the facts, and deciding what testimony to believe, the fact finder may consider the following factors: whether the testimony is reasonable and consistent with other believable evidence; whether a witness has made inconsistent statements; the witness’s appearance, conduct, age, intelligence, memory and knowledge of the facts; and the witness’s interest in the trial, their motive, candor, bias and prejudice. Id. After assessing the credibility of the witnesses who testified during the hearing, considering the applicable factors listed above, and using her own common sense and experience, the administrative law judge finds the employer’s testimony credible.

In this case, the claimant had 9 unexcused absences in a row in a two month time period. The claimant had requested a leave of absence to travel to another country which was denied. Despite his leave being denied, the claimant did not attend his scheduled work from December 11 until February 5, 2022. Nine absences in two months is excessive.

The employer has established that the claimant was warned that further unexcused absences could result in termination. The final incident amounted to job-related misconduct. Benefits are denied.

DECISION:

The March 21, 2022, (reference 05) unemployment insurance decision is reversed. The claimant was discharged from employment due to job-related misconduct. Benefits are withheld in regards to this employer until such time as he is deemed eligible.
