Section 96.5-2-a – Discharge for Misconduct

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

Kelly Stogdill (claimant) appealed a representative's March 2, 2004 decision (reference 03) that concluded he was not eligible to receive unemployment insurance benefits because he was discharged from work with Engineered Plastic Components (employer) for excessive unexcused absences. After hearing notices were mailed to the parties' last-known addresses of record, a telephone hearing was held on April 5, 2004. The claimant participated personally. The employer participated by Mark Fosnaught, Human Resources Manager.

FINDINGS OF FACT:

The administrative law judge, having heard the testimony and considered all of the evidence in the record, finds that: The claimant was hired on July 18, 2003, as a full-time press operator. The claimant received a copy of the employer's handbook. On August 26, 2003, the claimant clocked out early due to personal problems and dislike of his work environment. On August 27, 2003, the employer gave the claimant a verbal warning over the telephone. The employer told the claimant that he should appear for work on September 2, 2003, or he could be terminated. On September 2 and 3, 2004, the claimant did not appear for work due to lack of transportation. The employer terminated the claimant on September 8, 2003, for excessive absenteeism.

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

The issue is whether the claimant was discharged for misconduct. For the following reasons the administrative law judge concludes he was.

Iowa Code Section 96.5-2-a provides:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits:

2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:

a. The individual shall be disqualified for benefits until the individual has worked in and has been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times the individual's weekly benefit amount, provided the individual is otherwise eligible.

871 IAC 24.32(1)a provides:

Discharge for misconduct.

(1) Definition.

a. "Misconduct" is defined as a deliberate act or omission by a worker which constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of such worker's contract of employment. Misconduct as the term is used in the disqualification provision as being limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or evil design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer. On the other hand mere inefficiency, unsatisfactory conduct, failure in good performance as the result of inability or incapacity, inadvertencies or ordinary negligence in isolated instances, or good faith errors in judgment or discretion are not to be deemed misconduct within the meaning of the statute.

This definition has been accepted by the Iowa Supreme Court as accurately reflecting the intent of the legislature. Huntoon v. Iowa Department of Job Service, 275 N.W.2d 445, 448 (Iowa 1979).

The employer has the burden of proof in establishing disqualifying job misconduct. Cosper v. Iowa Department of Job Service, 321 N.W.2d 6 (Iowa 1982). Three incidents of tardiness or absenteeism after a warning constitutes misconduct. Clark v. Iowa Department of Job Service, 317 N.W.2d 517 (Iowa App. 1982). An employer has a right to expect employees to appear for work when scheduled. The claimant disregarded the employer's right by failing to appear for work when scheduled. The claimant's disregard of the employer's interests is misconduct. As such, he is not eligible to receive unemployment insurance benefits.

DECISION:

The representative's March 2, 2004 decision (reference 03) is affirmed. The claimant is not eligible to receive unemployment insurance benefits because he was discharged from work for misconduct. Benefits are withheld until he has worked in and has been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times his weekly benefit amount, provided he is otherwise eligible.
