OC: 06/26/22
Claimant: Appellant (2)

Iowa Code § 96.5(2)a – Discharge for Misconduct
Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(1)a – Discharge for Misconduct

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

On July 24, 2022, the claimant filed an appeal from the July 14, 2022, (reference 01) unemployment insurance decision that denied benefits based on determination that the claimant was discharged from his employment June 13, 2022 for excessive unexcused absences. The parties were properly notified about the hearing. A telephone hearing was held on August 29, 2022. Claimant Scott Staley participated and testified. Employer participated through Leah Malek, Human Resources and Labor Relations Manager. No exhibits were offered or admitted. Official notice was taken of the administrative record.

ISSUE:

Was the claimant discharged from employment for disqualifying job-related misconduct?

FINDINGS OF FACT:

Having reviewed the evidence in the record, the administrative law judge finds: Claimant began working for employer on August 9, 2021. Claimant last worked as a full-time packer/operator. Claimant was separated from employment on June 13, 2022, when left his work area before making contact with his shift replacement who was taking over his job duties for the next work shift. The employer testified that it is necessary for employees working on the production floor to ensure that their replacement has arrived and is covering the work area prior leaving the production floor and ending their shift to ensure worker safety. The claimant testified that he thought that his replacement has arrived and was working but discovered later that he had identified the wrong person as his shift replacement. The claimant acknowledged that everyone had been given a verbal warning regarding this safety protocol but on June 13, 2022, he did not think he was in violation of the protocol because another individual was working in his area. The employer discharged the claimant after learning of his mistake.

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

The administrative law judge concludes claimant was discharged from employment for no disqualifying reason.

Iowa Code section 96.5(2)a provides:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits:

2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:

a. The individual shall be disqualified for benefits until the individual has worked in and has been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times the individual's weekly benefit amount, provided the individual is otherwise eligible.

871 IAC 24.32(1)a provides:

Discharge for misconduct.

(1) Definition.

a. "Misconduct" is defined as a deliberate act or omission by a worker which constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of such worker's contract of employment. Misconduct as the term is used in the disqualification provision as being limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or evil design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer. On the other hand mere inefficiency, unsatisfactory conduct, failure in good performance as the result of inability or incapacity, inadvertencies or ordinary negligence in isolated instances, or good faith errors in judgment or discretion are not to be deemed misconduct within the meaning of the statute.

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(4) provides:

(4) Report required. The claimant's statement and employer's statement must give detailed facts as to the specific reason for the claimant's discharge. Allegations of misconduct or dishonesty without additional evidence shall not be sufficient to result in disqualification. If the employer is unwilling to furnish available evidence to corroborate the allegation, misconduct cannot be established. In cases where a suspension or disciplinary layoff exists, the claimant is considered as discharged, and the issue of misconduct shall be resolved.

This definition has been accepted by the Iowa Supreme Court as accurately reflecting the intent of the legislature. Huntoon v. Iowa Department of Job Service, 275 N.W.2d 445, 448 (Iowa 1979).

The employer has the burden of proof in establishing disqualifying job misconduct. Cosper v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 321 N.W.2d 6 (Iowa 1982). The issue is not whether the employer made a correct decision in separating claimant, but whether the claimant is entitled to unemployment insurance benefits. Infante v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 364 N.W.2d 262 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984).

Misconduct must be "substantial" to warrant a denial of job insurance benefits. Newman v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 351 N.W.2d 806 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984).

In an at-will employment environment an employer may discharge an employee for any number of reasons or no reason at all if it is not contrary to public policy, but if it fails to meet its burden of proof to establish job related misconduct as the reason for the separation, it incurs potential liability for unemployment insurance benefits related to that separation. A determination as to whether an employee's act is misconduct does not rest solely on the interpretation or application of the employer's policy or rule. A violation is not necessarily disqualifying misconduct even if the employer was fully within its rights to impose discipline up to or including discharge for the incident under its policy.

The employer testified at some length regarding the necessity of the referenced safety protocol and that it was specifically outlined in the union contract handbook. The employer failed to provide any direct evidence of the handbook, the specific safety protocol that the claimant had violated, or any other documentation that provided any direct evidence of the claimant's misconduct. Additionally, the claimant's mistake was not intentional nor was he aware that he had been in violation of the safety rule until he was discharged. The employer failed to provide any documentation of any prior training or discipline involving the claimant. The employer failed to meet its burden in proving job disqualifying misconduct and benefits are allowed.

DECISION:

The July 14, 2022, (reference 01) unemployment insurance decision is reversed. Claimant was discharged from employment for no disqualifying reason. Benefits are allowed, provided he is otherwise eligible. Any benefits claimed and withheld on this basis shall be paid.
