APPEAL 23A-UI-04160-LJ-T
ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE
DECISION

OC: 03/19/23
Claimant: Appellant (2)

Iowa Code § 96.5(2)a – Discharge from Employment

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

On April 21, 2023, claimant Teri Smith filed an appeal from the April 17, 2023 (reference 01) unemployment insurance decision that denied benefits based on a determination that claimant was discharged from employer The VGM Group Inc. for violation of a known company rule. The parties were properly notified of the hearing. A telephonic hearing was held at 1:00 p.m. on Monday, May 8, 2023. Claimant Teri Smith participated. Attorney Lynn Smith represented the claimant. Employer The VGM Group Inc. did not appear for the hearing. Claimant's Exhibit A was received and admitted into the record.

ISSUE:

Was the claimant discharged from employment for any disqualifying reason?

FINDINGS OF FACT:

Having reviewed all of the evidence in the record, the administrative law judge finds: Claimant began working for this employer on August 18, 1997. Most recently, she worked full-time hours as the Director of Credentialing. Claimant's employment ended on March 16, 2023, when the employer discharged claimant.

Cole Herstam and HR employee Kelsey Burke discharged claimant over a Zoom call. They also documented the separation with a "Notice of Separation of Employment" form. (Exhibit A) The reason for the discharge listed on the form is "lack of trust, poor judgment." (Exhibit A) Claimant had not been disciplined for either of those issues previously. She was not aware her job was in jeopardy at the time she was discharged.

Claimant acknowledges she received a corrective action in October 2022. That disciplinary action related to her productivity and work production. Claimant described her efforts to improve her production by, among other things, bringing her work laptop on substitute teaching assignments so she could keep up with her employer-related emails while teaching. Initially, claimant received approval to take her work laptop with her to teaching assignments. However, another supervisor indicated she was not supposed to be doing this. Claimant did not have the opportunity to seek clarification prior to her discharge.

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

For the reasons that follow, the administrative law judge concludes claimant was discharged from employment for no disqualifying reason. Benefits are allowed, provided she is otherwise eligible.

Iowa Code section 96.5(2)(a) and (d) provide:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits:

2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:

a. The disqualification shall continue until the individual has worked in and has been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times the individual's weekly benefit amount, provided the individual is otherwise eligible.

d. For the purposes of this subsection, "misconduct" means a deliberate act or omission by an employee that constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of the employee's contract of employment. Misconduct is limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or even design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer...

The employer has the burden of proof in establishing disqualifying job misconduct. Cosper v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 321 N.W.2d 6 (Iowa 1982).

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(4) provides:

(4) Report required. The claimant's statement and the employer's statement must give detailed facts as to the specific reason for the claimant's discharge. Allegations of misconduct or dishonesty without additional evidence shall not be sufficient to result in disqualification. If the employer is unwilling to furnish available evidence to corroborate the allegation, misconduct cannot be established.

A determination as to whether an employee's act is misconduct does not rest solely on the interpretation or application of the employer's policy or rule. A violation is not necessarily disqualifying misconduct even if the employer was fully within its rights to impose discipline up to or including discharge for the incident under its policy. The issue is not whether the employer made a correct decision in separating claimant, but whether the claimant is entitled to unemployment insurance benefits. Infante v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 364 N.W.2d 262 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984). What constitutes misconduct justifying termination of an employee and what misconduct warrants denial of unemployment insurance benefits are two separate decisions. Pierce v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 425 N.W.2d 679 (Iowa Ct. App. 1988). Misconduct serious enough to warrant discharge is not necessarily serious enough to warrant a denial of job insurance benefits. Such misconduct must be "substantial." Newman v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 351 N.W.2d 806 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984). The focus is on deliberate, intentional, or culpable acts by the employee.

Here, the employer did not appear for the hearing or present any documentation with a statement that it intended to participate through documents in lieu of live testimony. The claimant did not describe any conduct that amounts to disqualifying misconduct. The evidence in the record fails to establish that the claimant engaged in a final act of disqualifying, job-related misconduct. Benefits are allowed.

DECISION:

The April 17, 2023 (reference 01) unemployment insurance decision is reversed. Claimant was discharged from employment for no disqualifying. Benefits are allowed, provided she is otherwise eligible. Any benefits claimed and withheld on this basis shall be paid.
