DECISION

DEVELOPMENT DEPARTMENT

Claimant: Appellant (2)

Iowa Code § 96.4(3) – Able and Available for Work

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

The claimant/appellant, Kathryn Jennings, filed an appeal from the February 16, 2024 (reference 01) Iowa Workforce Development (“IWD”) unemployment insurance decision which issued a work search warning for the week ending February 10, 2024. It did not deny benefits. The parties were properly notified of the hearing. A telephone hearing was held on March 21, 2024, at 3:00 p.m. Exhibit A was admitted into the record.

ISSUE:

Did the claimant make an adequate work search for the week ending February 10, 2024, and was the warning appropriate?

FINDINGS OF FACT:

Having reviewed all of the evidence in the record, the administrative law judge finds:

The claimant filed a claim for unemployment benefits effective January 7, 2024. Prior to filing for unemployment, the claimant worked as the Executive Director of the Quad Cities Regional Vision, a non-profit. She also worked for federal agencies coordinating stakeholders and performing day to day executive functions.

The claimant submitted four applications to four separate employers for the week ending February 10, 2024. Each of these positions was tailored to the claimant’s experience over the course of her career.

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

The administrative law judge concludes that the claimant has made an active and earnest search for work for the week ending February 10, 2024. As a result, the work search warning should be removed from her record.

Iowa Code section 96.4(3)a provides:

An unemployed individual shall be eligible to receive benefits with respect to any week only if the department finds that:

3. a. The individual is able to work, is available for work, and is earnestly and actively seeking work. This subsection is waived if the individual is deemed partially unemployed, while employed at the individual's regular job, as defined in section 96.1A, subsection 37, paragraph "b", subparagraph (1), or temporarily unemployed as defined in section 96.1A, subsection 37, paragraph "c". The work search requirements of this subsection and the disqualification requirement for failure to apply for, or to accept suitable work of section 96.5, subsection 3 are waived if the individual is not disqualified for benefits under section 96.5, subsection 1, paragraph "h".

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.22 provides, in relevant part:

Benefits eligibility conditions. For an individual to be eligible to receive benefits the department must find that the individual is able to work, available for work, and earnestly and actively seeking work. The individual bears the burden of establishing that the individual is able to work, available for work, and earnestly and actively seeking work.

(1) Able to work. An individual must be physically and mentally able to work in some gainful employment, not necessarily in the individual's customary occupation, but which is engaged in by others as a means of livelihood.

(2) Available for work. The availability requirement is satisfied when an individual is willing, able, and ready to accept suitable work which the individual does not have good cause to refuse, that is, the individual is genuinely attached to the labor market. Since, under unemployment insurance laws, it is the availability of an individual that is required to be tested, the labor market must be described in terms of the individual. A labor market for an individual means a market for the type of service which the individual offers in the geographical area in which the individual offers the service. Market in that sense does not mean that job vacancies must exist; the purpose of unemployment insurance is to compensate for lack of job vacancies. It means only that the type of services which an individual is offering is generally performed in the geographical area in which the individual is offering the services.

(3) Earnestly and actively seeking work. Mere registration at a workforce development center does not establish that the individual is earnestly and actively seeking work. It is essential that the individual personally and diligently search for work. It is difficult to establish definite criteria for defining the words earnestly and actively. Much depends on the estimate of the employment opportunities in the area. The number of employer contacts which might be appropriate in an area of limited opportunity might be totally unacceptable in other areas. When employment opportunities are high an individual may be expected to make more than the usual number of contacts. Unreasonable limitations by an individual as to salary, hours or conditions of work can indicate that the individual is not earnestly seeking work. The department expects each individual claiming benefits to conduct themselves as would any normal, prudent individual who is out of work.

a. Basic requirements. An individual shall be ineligible for benefits for any period for which the department finds that the individual has failed to make an earnest and active search for work. The circumstances in each case are considered in determining whether an earnest and active search for work has been made. Subject to the foregoing, applicable actions of the following kind are considered an earnest and active search for work if found by the department to constitute a reasonable means of securing work by the individual, under the facts and circumstances of the individual's particular situation:

(1) Making application with employers as may reasonably be expected to have openings suitable to the individual.

(2) Registering with a placement facility of a school, college, or university if one is available in the individual's occupation or profession.

(3) Making application or taking examination for openings in the civil service of a governmental entity with reasonable prospects of suitable work for the individual.

(4) Responding to appropriate "want ads" for work which appears suitable to the individual if the response is made in writing or in person or electronically.

(5) Any other action which the department finds to constitute an effective means of securing work suitable to the individual.

(6) No individual, however, is denied benefits solely on the ground that the individual has failed or refused to register with a private employment agency or at any other placement facility which charges the job-seeker a fee for its services. However, an individual may count as one of the work contacts required for the week an in-person contact with a private employment agency.

(7) An individual is considered to have failed to make an effort to secure work if the department finds that the individual has followed a course of action designed to discourage prospective employers from hiring the individual in suitable work.

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.23(28) provides:

Availability disqualifications. The following are reasons for a claimant being disqualified for being unavailable for work.

(28) A claimant will be ineligible for benefits because of failure to make an adequate work search after having been previously warned and instructed to expand the search for work effort.

The relevant laws are Iowa Code section 96.4(3)a, Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.22, and Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.23(28). Nowhere in those laws does it state that three of the claimant's work searches must be applications. The Iowa Workforce Development Department's own rules clearly state differently. Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.22(3) states first a general description:

It is difficult to establish definite criteria for defining the words earnestly and actively. Much depends on the estimate of the employment opportunities in the area. The number of employer contacts which might be appropriate in an area of limited opportunity might be totally unacceptable in other areas. When employment opportunities are high an individual may be expected to make more than the usual number of contacts.

The standard work search warning decision says the claimant must make four work searches per week, three of which must be job applications. The general description of how the law operates in this section flies in the face of what the standard work search warning decision says it is. The law asks for a multi-factored approach and an appreciation for the circumstances the claimant is facing. It lists the various ways that someone can do a work search. See Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.22(1) – (7). There is absolutely no basis for categorically ranking applications as higher than other work search activities in that law or other laws relevant to this case.

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.22(3) continues by describing the basic requirements. The highlighted portion also contradicts Iowa Workforce Development Department's position that it is a fixed number of searches for week. Quite the contrary, Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.22(3) restates the approach given above that looks at the individual's circumstances.

1. Basic requirements. An individual shall be ineligible for benefits for any period for which the department finds that the individual has failed to make an earnest and active search for work. The circumstances in each case are considered in determining whether an earnest and active search for work has been made. Subject to the foregoing, applicable actions of the following kind are considered an earnest and active search for work if found by the department to constitute a reasonable means of securing work by the individual, under the facts and circumstances of the individual's particular situation. [Emphasis added.]

Assigning a fixed minimum number of work searches or mandating that three of the work searches be job applications has no basis in law. This is important because most claimants naturally rely on Iowa Workforce Development Department to accurately state the legal requirements for work searches.

The evaluation is not whether someone has met an arbitrary number Iowa Workforce Development Department has set for everyone statewide. The evaluation is whether this individual is sincerely looking for work, as a reasonable unemployed person would, given their individual circumstances. This rule was also amended on October 12, 2022. Iowa Workforce Development Department could have made changes to the above sections on that date with other changes. It did not.

The claimant submitted four applications to four separate employers. These applications were tailored to fit her existing career experience and interests. These jobs were about as favorable on the factors of a job application being a work search as there could be. Overall, the administrative law judge finds the claimant made a sincere effort that week to find work.

DECISION:

The February 16, 2024 (reference 01), unemployment insurance decision is REVERSED. The claimant made an adequate search for work for the week ending February 10, 2024. Benefits are granted for that week, provided he is otherwise eligible for benefits.
