Iowa Code § 96.5-2-a – Discharge for Misconduct
Iowa Code § 96.3-7 – Recovery of Overpayment of Benefits
IA Admin. Code 871-24(10) – Employer Participation in Fact Finding

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

Employer filed an appeal from a decision of a representative dated March 9, 2023, (reference 01) which held claimant eligible for unemployment insurance benefits. After due notice, a hearing was scheduled for and held on March 29, 2023. Claimant participated personally. Employer participated by Brian Bedard and Dwayne Svoboda. Employer's Exhibits 1-5 were admitted into evidence.

ISSUES:

Whether claimant was discharged for misconduct?

Whether claimant was overpaid benefits?

If claimant was overpaid benefits, should claimant repay benefits or should employer be charged due to employer's participation or lack thereof in fact finding?

FINDINGS OF FACT:

The administrative law judge, having heard the testimony and considered all of the evidence in the record, finds: Claimant last worked for employer on February 12, 2023. Employer discharged claimant on February 14, 2023 because claimant had absences, tardies, and early leaves in excess of those allowed.

Claimant worked as a Cap 1 operator for employer. He worked a 12 hour shift that alternated between working three days one week and four days the next week. Claimant's shift ran from 7pm through 7am.

Claimant received verbal and written warnings for absences in the months of November of 2022 and January of 2023. Under company policy that claimant signed for and received, he was to receive a suspension and termination for further unexcused absences or tardies. Said policy also mentions that an employee may be terminated for dishonesty.

On January 24, 2022 claimant stated that a coworker indicated claimant could leave early. The coworker did not have the authority to dismiss claimant prior to the end of his shift. While claimant was on his way out the door, his supervisor saw claimant and asked what he was doing. Claimant said he was leaving. Employer stated, "You may not leave before the end of your shift. Come to my office to sign some papers." After signing the papers, claimant asked employer if he could go and employer said he could. Claimant then went home, 18 minutes before his shift was over. No one else left early.

On February 8, 2023 claimant was an hour and a half late for work. He stated he drove into a ditch to avoid a truck in his lane. Claimant provided his supervisor with a picture of the car in a ditch.

On February 9, 2023 employer confronted claimant with his absences after receiving a written warning. Claimant stated that another supervisor told him he could leave early on January 24, 2023. Employer asked that claimant on that date to provide employer with a copy of the tow bill. By February 14, 2023 claimant had not provided said copy to employer.

Employer asked the supervisor if he'd allowed claimant to leave early, and the supervisor denied that he ever had. The supervisor said that he confronted claimant at the exit door leaving early and specifically stated that claimant could not leave the shift early.

On February 14, 2023 employer called claimant and told him he was terminated for his leaving his shift early on January 24, 2023 and arriving late on February 8, 2023, thus putting him over the number of violations necessary for termination. Employer also expressed that claimant lied about being told he could leave early.

Claimant has received state unemployment benefits in the amount of $3,380.00.

Employer did not substantially participate in fact finding in this matter as employer provided no representative that was available for the fact finding interview. The administrative e judge does note that in lieu of his participation, employer sent in a descriptive document as to the facts and circumstances leading to termination.

An amended decision was necessary in this matter to accurately reflect the amount of overpaid benefits in existence at the time of the mailing of the decision.

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

Iowa Code section 96.5(2)a provides:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits, regardless of the source of the individual's wage credits:

2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:

a. The disqualification shall continue until the individual has worked in and has been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times the individual's weekly benefit amount, provided the individual is otherwise eligible.

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(1)a provides:

Discharge for misconduct.

(1) Definition.

a. "Misconduct" is defined as a deliberate act or omission by a worker which constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of such worker's contract of employment. Misconduct as the term is used in the disqualification provision as being limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or evil design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer. On the other hand mere inefficiency, unsatisfactory conduct, failure in good performance as the result of inability or incapacity, inadvertencies or ordinary negligence in isolated instances, or good faith errors in judgment or discretion are not to be deemed misconduct within the meaning of the statute.

This definition has been accepted by the Iowa Supreme Court as accurately reflecting the intent of the legislature. Huntoon v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 275 N.W.2d 445, 448 (Iowa 1979).

Iowa Code section 96.3(7)a-b, as amended in 2008, provides:

7. Recovery of overpayment of benefits.

a. If an individual receives benefits for which the individual is subsequently determined to be ineligible, even though the individual acts in good faith and is not otherwise at fault, the benefits shall be recovered. The department in its discretion may recover the overpayment of benefits either by having a sum equal to the overpayment deducted from any future benefits payable to the individual or by having the individual pay to the department a sum equal to the overpayment.

b. (1)(a) If the department determines that an overpayment has been made, the charge for the overpayment against the employer's account shall be removed and the account shall be credited with an amount equal to the overpayment from the unemployment compensation trust fund and this credit shall include both contributory and reimbursable employers, notwithstanding section 96.8, subsection 5. The employer shall not be relieved of charges if benefits are paid because the employer or an agent of the employer failed to respond timely or adequately to the department's request for information relating to the payment of benefits. This prohibition against relief of charges shall apply to both contributory and reimbursable employers.

(b) However, provided the benefits were not received as the result of fraud or willful misrepresentation by the individual, benefits shall not be recovered from an individual if the employer did not participate in the initial determination to award benefits pursuant to section 96.6, subsection 2, and an overpayment occurred because of a subsequent reversal on appeal regarding the issue of the individual's separation from employment.

(2) An accounting firm, agent, unemployment insurance accounting firm, or other entity that represents an employer in unemployment claim matters and demonstrates a continuous pattern of failing to participate in the initial determinations to award benefits, as determined and defined by rule by the department, shall be denied permission by the department to represent any employers in unemployment insurance matters. This subparagraph does not apply to attorneys or counselors admitted to practice in the courts of this state pursuant to section 602.10101.

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.10 provides:

Employer and employer representative participation in fact-finding interviews.

(1) "Participate," as the term is used for employers in the context of the initial determination to award benefits pursuant to Iowa Code section 96.6, subsection 2, means submitting detailed factual information of the quantity and quality that if unrebutted would be sufficient to result in a decision favorable to the employer. The most effective means to participate is to provide live testimony at the interview from a witness with firsthand knowledge of the events leading to the separation. If no live testimony is provided, the employer must provide the name and telephone number of an employee with firsthand information who may be contacted, if necessary, for rebuttal. A party may also participate by providing detailed written statements or documents that provide detailed factual information of the events leading to separation. At a minimum, the information provided by the employer or the employer's representative must identify the dates and particular circumstances of the incident or incidents, including, in the case of discharge, the act or omissions of the claimant or, in the event of a voluntary separation, the stated reason for the quit. The specific rule or policy must be submitted if the claimant was discharged for violating such rule or policy. In the case of discharge for attendance violations, the information must include the circumstances of all incidents the employer or the employer's representative contends meet the definition of unexcused absences as set forth in 871—subrule 24.32(7). On the other hand, written or oral statements or general conclusions without supporting detailed factual information and information submitted after the fact-finding decision has been issued are not considered participation within the meaning of the statute.

(2) "A continuous pattern of nonparticipation in the initial determination to award benefits," pursuant to Iowa Code section 96.6, subsection 2, as the term is used for an entity representing employers, means on 25 or more occasions in a calendar quarter beginning with the first calendar quarter of 2009, the entity files appeals after failing to participate. Appeals filed but withdrawn before the day of the contested case hearing will not be considered in determining if a continuous pattern of nonparticipation exists. The division administrator shall notify the employer's representative in writing after each such appeal.

(3) If the division administrator finds that an entity representing employers as defined in Iowa Code section 96.6, subsection 2, has engaged in a continuous pattern of nonparticipation, the division administrator shall suspend said representative for a period of up to six months on the first occasion, up to one year on the second occasion and up to ten years on the third or subsequent occasion. Suspension by the division administrator constitutes final agency action and may be appealed pursuant to Iowa Code section 17A.19.

(4) "Fraud or willful misrepresentation by the individual," as the term is used for claimants in the context of the initial determination to award benefits pursuant to Iowa Code section 96.6, subsection 2, means providing knowingly false statements or knowingly false denials of material facts for the purpose of obtaining unemployment insurance benefits. Statements or denials may be either oral or written by the claimant. Inadvertent misstatements or mistakes made in good faith are not considered fraud or willful misrepresentation.

This rule is intended to implement Iowa Code section 96.3(7)“b” as amended by 2008 Iowa Acts, Senate File 2160.

A claimant is not qualified to receive unemployment insurance benefits if an employer has discharged the claimant for reasons constituting work connected misconduct. Iowa Code § 96.5-2-a. Before a claimant can be denied unemployment insurance benefits, the employer has the burden to establish the claimant was discharged for work-connected misconduct. Cosper v. Iowa Department of Job Service, 321 N.W.2d 6 (Iowa 1982), Iowa Code § 96.5-2-a.

The gravity of the incident, number of policy violations and prior warnings are factors considered when analyzing misconduct. The lack of a current warning may detract from a finding of an intentional policy violation. The Iowa Supreme Court has opined that one unexcused absence is not misconduct even when it followed nine other excused absences and was in violation of a direct order. Sallis v. EAB, 437 N.W.2d 895 (Iowa 1989). Higgins v. Iowa Department of Job Service, 350 N.W.2d 187 (Iowa 1984), held that the absences must be both excessive and unexcused. The Iowa Supreme Court has held that excessive is more than one. Three incidents of tardiness or absenteeism after a warning has been held misconduct. Clark v. Iowa Department of Job Service, 317 N.W.2d 517 (Iowa Ct. App. 1982). While three is a reasonable interpretation of excessive based on current case law and Webster’s Dictionary, the interpretation is best derived from the facts presented.

In this matter, the evidence established that claimant was discharged for an act of misconduct when claimant violated employer’s policy concerning absenteeism. Claimant was warned concerning this policy.

The last incidents, which brought about the discharge, constitute misconduct because claimant knew where he stood after receiving the written warning and knew that no one else was leaving work early on January 24, 2023. He further knew that being allowed to leave early is determined by seniority, and claimant was the least senior member of his group. Claimant also knew or should have known that he was being less than honest when he told the human resources officer that he was allowed to leave early.

Regarding the tardiness of February 8, 2023, claimant was late for work and did not provide employer with proof of the reason for tardiness within a reasonable amount of time. These two incidents create the necessary predicate for termination as one incident is used for the unpaid suspension, and the other incident resulting in the termination of claimant.

The administrative law judge holds that claimant was discharged for an act of misconduct and, as such, is disqualified for the receipt of unemployment insurance benefits.

The overpayment issue was addressed. Claimant has received $2,704.00 in unemployment benefits since filing his original claim. These payments are overpayments.

The issue of employer participation was addressed. Employer did not substantially participate in the fact finding as employer did not include a name and number of a party that could respond with rebuttal information if needed, as employer’s sole contact person was not available to be contacted for rebuttal. 871 IA Admin. Code 24(10) requires, “If no live testimony is provided, the employer must provide the name and telephone number of an employee with firsthand information who may be contacted, if necessary, for rebuttal.” (Italics provided for emphasis).

DECISION:

The decision of the representative dated March 9, 2023, (reference 01) is reversed. Unemployment insurance benefits shall be withheld until claimant has worked in and been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times claimant’s weekly benefit amount, provided claimant is otherwise eligible.

The claimant has been overpaid $ 3,380.00 in regular unemployment insurance benefits, but he is not obligated to repay the agency those benefits. The employer did not participate in the fact-finding in a manner required by statute and its account shall be charged.

An amended decision was necessary in this matter to accurately reflect the amount of overpaid benefits in existence at the time of the mailing of the decision.
