APPEAL 23A-UI-08689-PT-T

Claimant

ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE DECISION

AREA SUBSTANCE ABUSE COUNCIL INC Employer

OC: 08/13/23

Claimant: Appellant (2)

Iowa Code § 96.5(2)a – Discharge

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

Claimant filed an appeal from a decision of a representative dated September 1, 2023, (reference 01) that held claimant ineligible for unemployment insurance benefits after a separation from employment. After due notice, a hearing was held on September 26, 2023. Claimant participated personally. The employer participated through Human Resources Generalist Mitch Degroot. Employer's Exhibit 1 was admitted into evidence. The administrative law judge took official notice of the administrative record.

ISSUE:

Whether the claimant was discharged for disqualifying, job-related misconduct?

FINDINGS OF FACT:

The administrative law judge, having heard the testimony and considered all of the evidence in the record, finds: Claimant last worked for the employer on August 15, 2023. The employer discharged claimant on August 15, 2023, for making an inappropriate remark to a patient in violation of the employer code of conduct policy.

Claimant was employed as a full-time recovery support professional from May 24, 2016, until her employment with Area Substance Abuse Council Inc. ended on August 15, 2023. As a recovery support professional, claimant was responsible for administering medication, transporting patients too-and-from their appointments, enforcing the facilities rules, performing bedroom checks, and otherwise assisting residents with their daily living. The employer has a written employee manual that includes a code of conduct policy. The code of conduct policy prohibits employees from using inappropriate language towards residents or other employees. Claimant received copies of, and was familiar with, the employer's work rules and policies.

On the night of August 15, 2023, claimant was assigned to perform rounds and check the residents' rooms. One of claimant's duties when performing room-checks is to check the thermostats to ensure they are all set at seventy degrees Fahrenheit. However, unbeknownst to claimant, earlier that day, a doctor had instructed that one of the resident's rooms be kept at sixty-five degrees due to the patient's medical condition.

When claimant arrived at that patient's room, claimant checked the thermostat, saw that it was set to sixty-five degrees, and promptly raised the temperature to seventy degrees. The patient protested stating that she had a medical condition and that a doctor had told her to keep the thermostat at sixty-five degrees. Claimant left to check the medical log to see if what the patient had said was true. While claimant was checking the medical log, the patient began repeatedly yelling claimant's name loudly down the hall. Claimant returned to the patient's room and told the patient to be quite because she would wake-up the other residents. However, the patient continued to yell. As claimant walked to the thermostat, the patient yelled something to the effect of, "I should beat your ass you fat bitch." In a moment of anger, claimant called the resident a "stupid bitch," then lowered the temperature to sixty-five degrees and left the patient's room.

Claimant promptly sent an email detailing the incident to her supervisor. Claimant's supervisor questioned the patient, who corroborated claimant's account of the confrontation. Later that night, claimant's supervisor called and informed claimant that her employment was being terminated effective immediately for directing profanity at a patient in violation of the employer's code of conduct policy. Prior to claimant's termination, claimant had never received any warnings or workplace discipline.

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

For the reasons that follow, the administrative law judge concludes the claimant was discharged from employment for no disqualifying reason. Benefits are allowed.

Iowa Code section 96.5(2)a provides:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits, regardless of the source of the individual's wage credits:

- 2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:
- a. The disqualification shall continue until the individual has worked in and has been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times the individual's weekly benefit amount, provided the individual is otherwise eligible.

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(1)a provides:

Discharge for misconduct.

- (1) Definition.
- a. "Misconduct" is defined as a deliberate act or omission by a worker which constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of such worker's contract of employment. Misconduct as the term is used in the disqualification provision as being limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or evil design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer. On the other hand mere inefficiency, unsatisfactory conduct, failure in good performance as the result of inability or incapacity, inadvertencies or ordinary negligence in isolated instances, or good faith errors in judgment or discretion are not to be deemed misconduct within the meaning of the statute.

This definition has been accepted by the Iowa Supreme Court as accurately reflecting the intent of the legislature. Huntoon v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 275 N.W.2d 445, 448 (Iowa 1979).

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(4) provides:

(4) Report required. The claimant's statement and employer's statement must give detailed facts as to the specific reason for the claimant's discharge. Allegations of misconduct or dishonesty without additional evidence shall not be sufficient to result in disqualification. If the employer is unwilling to furnish available evidence to corroborate the allegation, misconduct cannot be established. In cases where a suspension or disciplinary layoff exists, the claimant is considered as discharged, and the issue of misconduct shall be resolved.

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(8) provides:

(8) Past acts of misconduct. While past acts and warnings can be used to determine the magnitude of a current act of misconduct, a discharge for misconduct cannot be based on such past act or acts. The termination of employment must be based on a current act.

The employer has the burden of proof in establishing disqualifying job-related misconduct. Cosper v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 321 N.W.2d 6 (Iowa 1982). The issue is not whether the employer made a correct decision in separating claimant, but whether the claimant is entitled to unemployment insurance benefits. Infante v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 364 N.W.2d 262 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984). What constitutes misconduct justifying termination of an employee and what misconduct warrants denial of unemployment insurance benefits are two separate decisions. Pierce v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 425 N.W.2d 679 (Iowa Ct. App. 1988). Misconduct serious enough to warrant discharge is not necessarily serious enough to warrant a denial of job insurance benefits. Such misconduct must be "substantial." Newman v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 351 N.W.2d 806 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984).

The gravity of the incident, number of policy violations and prior warnings are factors considered when analyzing misconduct. The lack of a current warning may detract from a finding of an intentional policy violation. Disqualification for a single misconduct incident must be a deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which employer has a right to expect. Diggs v. Emp't Appeal Bd., 478 N.W.2d 432 (lowa Ct. App. 1991).

"The use of profanity or offensive language in a confrontational, disrespectful, or name-calling context, may be recognized as misconduct, even in the case of isolated incidents or situations in which the target of abusive name-calling is not present when the vulgar statements are initially made. The question of whether the use of improper language in the workplace is misconduct is nearly always a fact question. It must be considered with other relevant factors, including the context in which it is said, and the general work environment." Myers v. Emp't Appeal Bd., 462 N.W.2d 734 (lowa Ct. App. 1990). Vulgar language in front of customers can constitute misconduct, Zeches v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 333 N.W.2d 735, 736 (lowa Ct. App. 1983), as well as vulgarities accompanied with a refusal to obey supervisors. Warrell v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 356 N.W.2d 587, 589 (lowa Ct. App. 1984).

In this case, while claimant acknowledges that her inappropriate remark to the patient violated the employer's work rules, claimant credibly testified that her comment was an isolated incident of poor judgment that arose because she was upset by the rude and hurtful comments the patient had made to her. Moreover, the claimant took responsibility for her actions by promptly emailing her supervisor and explaining what had happened. As claimant had never previously been disciplined for similar conduct, the administrative law judge concludes that claimant's inappropriate remark in this single instance does not evince such willful or wanton disregard of the employer's interests as is found in deliberate violations or disregard of standards of behavior that the employer has the right to expect of employees. The employer has not met the burden of proof to establish that claimant acted deliberately or with recurrent negligence in violation of company policy, procedure, or prior warning. As a result, benefits are allowed, provided the claimant is otherwise eligible.

DECISION:

The September 1, 2023, (reference 01) unemployment insurance decision is reversed. The claimant was discharged from employment for no disqualifying reason. Benefits are allowed, provided the claimant is otherwise eligible.
