Section 96.5-2-a – Discharge for Misconduct

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

Employer filed an appeal from a decision of a representative dated April 19, 2004, reference 01, which held claimant eligible for unemployment insurance benefits. After due notice, a telephone conference hearing was scheduled for and held on May 25, 2004. Claimant participated personally with witnesses Jennifer Thomas, Karen Brehm, and Rex Eddleman. Employer participated by Beth Dudley, Shift Manager; Glenda Bowerman, Shift Manager; Kelli Dezwarthe, First Assistant Manager; Lesley Cover, Manager; and Rachel Mabee, Shift Manager. Exhibits 5 and A were admitted into evidence. Late filed documents were received as an offer of proof.

FINDINGS OF FACT:

The administrative law judge, having heard the testimony and considered all of the evidence in the record, finds: Claimant last worked for employer on March 31, 2004.

Employer discharged claimant on March 31, 2004 because she had an argument with the Manager over putting up a display. The manager had told claimant several days prior to not put up the display until Friday. Claimant was told by the on-site shift manager to put it up that night. Claimant and the manager had a terse conversation. Claimant asked several times to be fired or whether the manager wanted her to quit. Claimant was not warned to cease such conduct or she would be fired. The manager asked for claimant's keys and the employment was terminated.

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

The issue in this matter is whether claimant was discharged for misconduct.

Iowa Code Section 96.5-2-a provides:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits:

2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:

a. The individual shall be disqualified for benefits until the individual has worked in and has been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times the individual's weekly benefit amount, provided the individual is otherwise eligible.

871 IAC 24.32(1)a, (8) provides:

Discharge for misconduct.

(1) Definition.

a. "Misconduct" is defined as a deliberate act or omission by a worker which constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of such worker's contract of employment. Misconduct as the term is used in the disqualification provision as being limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or evil design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer. On the other hand mere inefficiency, unsatisfactory conduct, failure in good performance as the result of inability or incapacity, inadvertencies or ordinary negligence in isolated instances, or good faith errors in judgment or discretion are not to be deemed misconduct within the meaning of the statute.

This definition has been accepted by the Iowa Supreme Court as accurately reflecting the intent of the legislature. Huntoon v. Iowa Department of Job Service, 275 N.W.2d 445, 448 (Iowa 1979).

(8) Past acts of misconduct. While past acts and warnings can be used to determine the magnitude of a current act of misconduct, a discharge for misconduct cannot be based on such past act or acts. The termination of employment must be based on a current act.

In this matter, the evidence fails to establish that claimant was discharged for an act of misconduct when claimant violated employer's policy concerning taking orders. Claimant was not warned concerning this policy.

The last incident, which brought about the discharge, fails to constitute misconduct because claimant had conflicting orders from the manager and shift manager. There had been no prior warnings indicating that claimant was in danger of losing her job. Nor did employer warn claimant to stop asking to be fired or whether she would quit. This weighs against a finding of an intentional violation of a known company rule. Claimant put up the display as instructed by the shift manager, which creates a conflict in the testimony over whether claimant intentionally violated an order to put up the display. The administrative law judge holds that claimant was not discharged for an act of misconduct and, as such, is not disqualified for the receipt of unemployment insurance benefits.

DECISION:

The decision of the representative dated April 19, 2004, reference 01, is affirmed. Claimant is eligible to receive unemployment insurance benefits, provided claimant meets all other eligibility requirements.
