(Decision Dated & Mailed)

Section 96.5-2-a – Discharge for Misconduct

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

Employer filed an appeal from a decision of a representative dated December 29, 2003, reference 01, which held claimant eligible for unemployment insurance benefits. After due notice, a telephone conference hearing was scheduled for and held on January 29, 2004. Claimant participated personally. Employer participated by Myron Ballain, Superintendent. Exhibits One and Two were admitted into evidence.

FINDINGS OF FACT:

The administrative law judge, having heard the testimony and considered all of the evidence in the record, finds: Claimant last worked for employer on May 22, 2003.

Employer discharged claimant on May 22, 2003 because claimant had delayed getting an Iowa teaching certificate for one full contract year and three months into a second contract. Claimant was suspended September 19, 2002 until such time as she had obtained the teaching certificate. Claimant was given the option to immediately face discharge or work to the end of the 2003-year and resign. If claimant had not resigned she would be discharged. Claimant obtained her teaching certificate for Iowa in October 2002 and continued to work for the full term of the 2002-2003 school year.

Claimant, at the time of hearing, had a valid Iowa teaching certificate.

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

The issue in this matter is whether claimant was discharged for misconduct.

Iowa Code Section 96.5-2-a provides:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits:

2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:

a. The individual shall be disqualified for benefits until the individual has worked in and has been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times the individual's weekly benefit amount, provided the individual is otherwise eligible.

871 IAC 24.32(1)a provides:

Discharge for misconduct.

(1) Definition.

a. "Misconduct" is defined as a deliberate act or omission by a worker which constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of such worker's contract of employment. Misconduct as the term is used in the disqualification provision as being limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or evil design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer. On the other hand mere inefficiency, unsatisfactory conduct, failure in good performance as the result of inability or incapacity, inadvertencies or ordinary negligence in isolated instances, or good faith errors in judgment or discretion are not to be deemed misconduct within the meaning of the statute.

This definition has been accepted by the Iowa Supreme Court as accurately reflecting the intent of the legislature. Huntoon v. Iowa Department of Job Service, 275 N.W.2d 445, 448 (Iowa 1979).

871 IAC 24.32(8) provides:

(8) Past acts of misconduct. While past acts and warnings can be used to determine the magnitude of a current act of misconduct, a discharge for misconduct cannot be based on such past act or acts. The termination of employment must be based on a current act.

In this matter, the evidence fails to establish that claimant was discharged for an act of misconduct when claimant violated employer's policy concerning failure to obtain an Iowa teaching certificate. Claimant was warned concerning this policy.

The last incident, which brought about the discharge fails to constitute misconduct because employer did not immediately discharge claimant. A quit in lieu of discharge is a discharge for misconduct issue. Claimant would have been discharged but for the resignation. This cannot be considered a serious infraction where the employer allowed claimant to continue working for seven full months after discovery of the policy violation. Misconduct is considered a very serious infraction. The employer did not take it seriously by the acquiescence in allowing claimant to continue working for such a long period of time. The last incident is too stale to constitute a current act of misconduct. The administrative law judge holds that claimant was not discharged for an act of misconduct and, as such, is not disqualified for the receipt of unemployment insurance benefits.

DECISION:

The decision of the representative dated December 29, 2003, reference 01, is affirmed. Claimant is eligible to receive unemployment insurance benefits, provided claimant meets all other eligibility requirements.
