IN THE IOWA ADMINISTRATIVE HEARINGS DIVISION UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE APPEALS BUREAU

LAWRENCE D SPIDLE Claimant

APPEAL 23A-UI-08751-SN-T

ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE DECISION

ROSE ACRE FARMS Employer

> OC: 08/13/23 Claimant: Appellant (1)

Iowa Code § 96.5(2)a – Discharge for Misconduct Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(1)a – Discharge for Misconduct

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

The claimant, Lawrence D. Spidle, filed an appeal from the September 11, 2023, (reference 01) unemployment insurance decision that denied benefits based upon the conclusion the claimant was discharged due to violating a known company rule. The parties were properly notified of the hearing. A telephone hearing was held on September 28, 2023 at 8:00 a.m. The claimant participated and testified. The employer participated through Human Resources Manager Stephanie Klein. Exhibits 1, 2, 3, and 4 were received into the record.

ISSUE:

Was the claimant discharged for disqualifying job-related misconduct?

FINDINGS OF FACT:

Having reviewed all of the evidence in the record, the administrative law judge finds:

The claimant started working for the employer on March 28, 2016. The claimant started working as a security guard admin approximately a year and a half before he was separated from employment on August 15, 2023, when he was terminated.

The employer provided its rules for security guard admins that specifically instructs these employees on the performance of their job duties at the gate. (Exhibit 1) The rule states that employees will obtain the following information for a visitor's log: (1) name, (2) company, (3) reason for visit, (4) whether they had been in contact with poultry in the last 72 hours, and (5) whether they have travelled internationally. The rule states that if the visitor answers "yes" to the last two queries, then the security guard is to contact their immediate supervisor or complex manager for further instruction. The security guard is also instructed by the policy to record the time of arrival and the time of departure. The policy also states how a security guard is to approach various visitors to the plant. It underscores that visitors are not to enter without approval if any of the following conditions are met: (1) the visitor has had contact with other poultry within 72 hours, (2) if they have travelled to a high-risk country in the past seven days, or (3) their identity and reason for appointment has not been verified.

The employer has the policy to ensure that biological harm to its poultry is minimized. This is of utmost importance during the avian flu epidemic that is ongoing. The employer had to euthanize an entire facility in April 2022, due to a biohazard breach.

On June 15, 2023, the claimant allowed a high-ranking executive to enter the grounds without obtaining approval from onsite management. The suspension notice said, "Lawrence has been told that any guest has to wait outside of the gate until a supervisor has been contacted and has been given the ok for the guest to come onto the farm." [Emphasis added] He was issued a three-day suspension for not following the protocol. The employer provided a copy of the suspension notice. (Exhibit 3)

On August 10, 2023, the claimant allowed some individuals to enter the farm grounds. The claimant did not identify the visitors. He believed that they were employees of the employer's Guthrie Center, Iowa location, but they were there from the Stewart, Iowa location. The claimant made this determination by looking at their uniforms. He did not ask them for identification. He did not ask them the reason they were there that day. If he had asked, he would have discovered that they were couriers and that they were picking up items at the guard shack. The individuals were redirected back out of farm after this was determined.

The claimant was terminated on August 15, 2023 for this final incident occurring on August 10, 2023. (Exhibit 4)

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

The administrative law judge concludes the claimant was discharged from employment due to job-related misconduct.

Iowa Code section 96.5(2)a provides:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits:

2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:

a. The individual shall be disqualified for benefits until the individual has worked in and has been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times the individual's weekly benefit amount, provided the individual is otherwise eligible.

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(1)a provides:

Discharge for misconduct.

(1) Definition.

a. "Misconduct" is defined as a deliberate act or omission by a worker which constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of such worker's contract of employment. Misconduct as the term is used in the disqualification provision as being limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or evil design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer. On the other hand mere inefficiency, unsatisfactory conduct, failure in good performance as the result of inability or incapacity, inadvertencies or ordinary negligence in isolated instances, or good faith errors in judgment or discretion are not to be deemed misconduct within the meaning of the statute.

This definition has been accepted by the Iowa Supreme Court as accurately reflecting the intent of the legislature. Huntoon v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 275 N.W.2d 445, 448 (Iowa 1979).

Iowa Code section 96.5(2)b, c and d provide:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits, regardless of the source of the individual's wage credits:

2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:

b. Provided further, if gross misconduct is established, the department shall cancel the individual's wage credits earned, prior to the date of discharge, from all employers.

c. Gross misconduct is deemed to have occurred after a claimant loses employment as a result of an act constituting an indictable offense in connection with the claimant's employment, provided the claimant is duly convicted thereof or has signed a statement admitting the commission of such an act. Determinations regarding a benefit claim may be redetermined within five years from the effective date of the claim. Any benefits paid to a claimant prior to a determination that the claimant has lost employment as a result of such act shall not be considered to have been accepted by the claimant in good faith.

d. For the purposes of this subsection, "misconduct" means a deliberate act or omission by an employee that constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of the employee's contract of employment. Misconduct is limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or evil design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer. Misconduct by an individual includes but is not limited to all of the following:

(1) Material falsification of the individual's employment application.

(2) Knowing violation of a reasonable and uniformly enforced rule of an employer.

(3) Intentional damage of an employer's property.

(4) Consumption of alcohol, illegal or nonprescribed prescription drugs, or an impairing substance in a manner not directed by the manufacturer, or a combination of such substances, on the employer's premises in violation of the employer's employment policies.

(5) Reporting to work under the influence of alcohol, illegal or nonprescribed prescription drugs, or an impairing substance in an off-label manner, or a combination of such substances, on the employer's premises in violation of the employer's employment policies, unless the individual if compelled to work by the employer outside of scheduled or on-call working hours.

(6) Conduct that substantially and unjustifiably endangers the personal safety of coworkers or the general public.

(7) Incarceration for an act for which one could reasonably expect to be incarcerated that result in missing work.

(8) Incarceration as a result of a misdemeanor or felony conviction by a court of competent jurisdiction.

(9) Excessive unexcused tardiness or absenteeism.

(10) Falsification of any work-related report, task, or job that could expose the employer or coworkers to legal liability or sanction for violation of health or safety laws.

(11) Failure to maintain any licenses, registration, or certification that is reasonably required by the employer or by law, or that is a functional requirement to perform the individual's regular job duties, unless the failure is not within the control of the individual.

(12) Conduct that is libelous or slanderous toward an employer or an employee of the employer if such conduct is not protected under state or federal law.

(13) Theft of an employer or coworker's funds or property.

(14) Intentional misrepresentation of time worked or work carried out that results in the individual receiving unearned wages or unearned benefits.

The employer has the burden of proof in establishing disqualifying job misconduct. Cosper v. lowa Dep't of Job Serv., 321 N.W.2d 6 (lowa 1982). The issue is not whether the employer made a correct decision in separating claimant, but whether the claimant is entitled to unemployment insurance benefits. Infante v. lowa Dep't of Job Serv., 364 N.W.2d 262 (lowa Ct. App. 1984). The lowa Court of Appeals found substantial evidence of misconduct in testimony that the claimant worked slower than he was capable of working and would temporarily and briefly improve following oral reprimands. Sellers v. Emp't Appeal Bd., 531 N.W.2d 645 (lowa Ct. App. 1995). Generally, continued refusal to follow reasonable instructions constitutes misconduct. Gilliam v. Atlantic Bottling Co., 453 N.W.2d 230 (lowa Ct. App. 1990). Misconduct must be "substantial" to warrant a denial of job insurance benefits. Newman v. lowa Dep't of Job Serv., 351 N.W.2d 806 (lowa Ct. App. 1984). Poor work performance is not misconduct in the absence of evidence of intent. Miller v. Emp't Appeal Bd., 423 N.W.2d 211 (lowa Ct. App. 1988).

lowa Code section 96.5(2)d(2) disqualifies a claimant from benefits if they knowingly violate a reasonable and uniformly enforced rule. That is what happened in this case. The record reflects that the claimant understood the procedures given to him regarding identifying visitors and their reason for the visit. The claimant previously received a suspension for allowing a high-ranking executive to visit the grounds without first identifying them and the reason for the visit on June 15, 2023. The suspension notice said, "Lawrence has been told that any guest has to wait outside of the gate until a supervisor has been contacted and has been given the ok for the guest to come onto the farm." [Emphasis added] The suspension could not have been clearer, even in the case of a high-ranking executive, the claimant must obtain approval before someone enters the grounds.

On August 10, 2023, he merely assumed several things which resulted in personnel unnecessarily entering the grounds rather than picking up items at the gate. This exposed the employer to great risk of harm to its product during an ongoing avian flu pandemic. His termination on August 15, 2023 is disqualifying. Benefits are denied.

DECISION:

The September 11, 2023, (reference 01) unemployment insurance decision is AFFIRMED. The claimant was discharged from employment due to job-related misconduct. Benefits are withheld until such time as he has worked in and been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times his weekly benefit amount, provided he is otherwise eligible.
