Section 96.5-2-a - Discharge

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

The claimant appealed an unemployment insurance decision dated September 15, 2004, reference 08, that concluded he was discharged for work-connected misconduct. A telephone hearing was held on October 14, 2004. The parties were properly notified about the hearing. The claimant participated in the hearing. Tami Beltramea participated in the hearing on behalf of the employer with a witness, Terry Kramer.

FINDINGS OF FACT:

The employer is a staffing service that provides workers to client businesses on a temporary or indefinite basis. The claimant worked from August 20 to 26, 2003, on an indefinite assignment at Worley Warehouse. The claimant was informed and understood that under the employer's work rules, employees were required to notify the employer if they were not able to work as scheduled.

The claimant failed to report to work for his scheduled shift on August 27, 2003, without notice to the employer. The staffing coordinator made a call to the claimant on his cell phone. The claimant said he was at the hospital for testing, but the staffing coordinator's caller ID displayed that he was at Biotech Research, a facility that pays donors for plasma. The staffing coordinator told the claimant that he needed to report to Worley Warehouse as soon as possible or he would no longer have a job. The claimant never reported to work or notified the employer that he would not be at work. As a result of the claimant's failure to report to work, the employer discharged the claimant.

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

The issue in this case is whether the claimant was discharged for work-connected misconduct as defined by the unemployment insurance law.

Iowa Code Section 96.5-2-a provides:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits:

2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:

a. The individual shall be disqualified for benefits until the individual has worked in and has been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times the individual's weekly benefit amount, provided the individual is otherwise eligible.

871 IAC 24.32(1)a provides:

Discharge for misconduct.

(1) Definition.

a. "Misconduct" is defined as a deliberate act or omission by a worker which constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of such worker's contract of employment. Misconduct as the term is used in the disqualification provision as being limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or evil design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer. On the other hand mere inefficiency, unsatisfactory conduct, failure in good performance as the result of inability or incapacity, inadvertencies or ordinary negligence in isolated instances, or good faith errors in judgment or discretion are not to be deemed misconduct within the meaning of the statute.

This definition has been accepted by the Iowa Supreme Court as accurately reflecting the intent of the legislature. Huntoon v. Iowa Department of Job Service, 275 N.W.2d 445, 448 (Iowa 1979).

The claimant's conduct in missing work without notice and failing to report to work after assuring the employer that he would was a willful and material breach of the duties and obligations to the employer and a substantial disregard of the standards of behavior the employer had the right to expect of the claimant. Work-connected misconduct as defined by the unemployment insurance law has been established in this case.

DECISION:

The unemployment insurance decision dated September 15, 2004, reference 08, is affirmed. The claimant is disqualified from receiving unemployment insurance benefits effective August 26, 2003, and continuing until he has been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times his weekly benefit amount, provided he is otherwise eligible.
