APPEAL 23A-UI-08748-LJ-T
ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE DECISION

OC: 08/20/23
Claimant: Appellant (2)

Iowa Code § 96.5(2)a – Discharge from Employment

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

On September 13, 2023, claimant Brian K. Gamblin filed an appeal from the September 11, 2023 (reference 01) unemployment insurance decision that denied benefits based on a determination that Seya Inc. discharged claimant on August 1, 2023 for violation of a known company rule. The UI Appeals Bureau issued proper notice for the hearing on September 14, 2023. The undersigned administrative law judge held a telephonic hearing at 11:00 a.m. on Thursday, September 28, 2023. Claimant Brian K. Gamblin participated. Employer Seya Inc. participated by Denise Baldwin, Human Resources Manager. Neither party offered exhibits.

ISSUE:

Was claimant discharged from employment for disqualifying excessive, unexcused absenteeism.

FINDINGS OF FACT:

Having reviewed all of the evidence in the record, the administrative law judge finds: Claimant began working for Seya Inc. on June 14, 2022. Most recently, he worked full-time hours as a production technician. Claimant's employment ended on August 1, 2023, when the employer discharged him for excessive unpaid absences.

Claimant's final absence occurred on July 28, 2023. He called and properly reported that he could not come to work due to personal illness. Claimant had also left early from work on July 26 and missed a full day of work on July 27 due to this same personal illness. These three absences combined raised claimant's total unpaid time off taken balance to 170.5 hours. Based on that balance, the employer discharged claimant.

Claimant received a second "Last Chance Agreement" disciplinary notice on May 2, 2023, when his total unpaid time off balance had reached 154.5 hours. He received a first "Last Chance Agreement" disciplinary notice on April 10, 2023 when his total unpaid time off balance had reached 141.5 hours. On February 17, 2023, Baldwin and the employer's Chief Operating Officer had a conversation with claimant to notify him that he was "up for termination" due to his total unpaid time off balance. However, the employer made an exception at that time and did not discharge him, due to the quality of his work. Prior to this conversation, claimant had also received a written warning on December 20, 2022; a written verbal warning on November 11, 2022; and a coaching on September 13, 2022; all for his overuse of unpaid time off.

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

For the reasons that follow, the administrative law judge concludes claimant was discharged from employment for no disqualifying reason. Benefits are allowed.

Iowa Code section 96.5(2)(a) and (d)(9) provide:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits:

2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:

a. The disqualification shall continue until the individual has worked in and has been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times the individual's weekly benefit amount, provided the individual is otherwise eligible.

...

d. For the purposes of this subsection, "misconduct" means a deliberate act or omission by an employee that constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of the employee's contract of employment. Misconduct is limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or even design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer. Misconduct by an individual includes but is not limited to all of the following:

(9) Excessive unexcused tardiness or absenteeism.

The employer has the burden of proof in establishing disqualifying job misconduct. Cosper v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 321 N.W.2d 6 (Iowa 1982).

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(7) provides:

(7) Excessive unexcused absenteeism. Excessive unexcused absenteeism is an intentional disregard of the duty owed by the claimant to the employer and shall be considered misconduct except for illness or other reasonable grounds for which the employee was absent and that were properly reported to the employer.

The employer has the burden to prove the claimant was discharged for work-connected misconduct as defined by the unemployment insurance law. Cosper v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 321 N.W.2d 6 (Iowa 1982). The issue is not whether the employer made a correct decision in separating claimant, but whether the claimant is entitled to unemployment insurance benefits. Infante v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 364 N.W.2d 262 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984). What constitutes misconduct justifying termination of an employee and what misconduct warrants denial of unemployment insurance benefits are two separate decisions. Pierce v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 425 N.W.2d 679 (Iowa Ct. App. 1988).

The employer must prove two elements to establish misconduct based on absenteeism. First, the absences must be excessive. Sallis v. Emp't Appeal Bd., 437 N.W.2d 895 (Iowa 1989). The determination of whether unexcused absenteeism is excessive necessarily requires consideration of past acts and warnings. Higgins v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 350 N.W.2d 187, 192 (Iowa 1984). Second, the absences must be unexcused. Cosper, 321 N.W.2d at 10. The requirement of "unexcused" can be satisfied in two ways. An absence can be unexcused either because it was not for "reasonable grounds," Higgins, 350 N.W.2d at 191, or because it was not "properly reported," holding excused absences are those "with appropriate notice." Cosper, 321 N.W.2d at 10.

Absences due to properly reported illness cannot constitute work-connected misconduct since they are not volitional, even if the employer was fully within its rights to assess points or impose discipline up to or including discharge for the absence under its attendance policy. Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(7); Cosper, 321 N.W.2d at 9; Gaborit v. Emp't Appeal Bd., 734 N.W.2d 554 (Iowa Ct. App. 2007). Medical documentation is not essential to a determination that an absence due to illness should be treated as excused. See Gaborit, 734 N.W.2d at 555-558. An employer's no-fault absenteeism policy or point system is not dispositive of the issue of qualification for unemployment insurance benefits.

The employer has not established that claimant had excessive absences which would be considered unexcused for purposes of unemployment insurance eligibility. Claimant's last absence was related to properly reported: the parties agree that claimant was absent the final two and one-half days due to personal illness, and Baldwin concedes that all of claimant's absences were properly reported. Therefore, the employer has not proven a final or current incident of unexcused absenteeism to establish work-connected misconduct. Since the employer has not established a current or final act of misconduct, the history of other incidents need not be examined. Accordingly, benefits are allowed.

DECISION:

The September 11, 2023 (reference 01) unemployment insurance decision is reversed. Claimant was discharged from employment for no disqualifying reason. Benefits are allowed, provided he is otherwise eligible. Any benefits claimed and withheld on this basis shall be paid.
