IN THE IOWA ADMINISTRATIVE HEARINGS DIVISION UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE APPEALS BUREAU

TYLER M RUSSELL Claimant

APPEAL 23A-UI-09952-PT-T

ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE DECISION

DOLGENCORP LLC Employer

> OC: 10/23/22 Claimant: Respondent (1)

Iowa Code § 96.5(2)a – Discharge Iowa Code § 96.3(7) – Overpayment of Benefits Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.10 – Employer Participation in Fact-finding Interview

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

The employer filed an appeal from a decision of a representative dated October 9, 2023, (reference 01) that held claimant eligible for unemployment insurance benefits after a separation from employment. After due notice, a hearing was held on November 6, 2023. The claimant participated personally. The employer participated through Equifax Representative Marissun Johnson and Store Training Manager Desirae Lawson. The administrative law judge took official notice of the administrative record.

ISSUES:

Whether the claimant was discharged for disqualifying, job-related misconduct? Whether the claimant has been overpaid any unemployment insurance benefits, and if so, whether the repayment of those benefits to the agency can be waived. Whether any charges to the employer's account can be waived.

FINDINGS OF FACT:

The administrative law judge, having heard the testimony and considered all of the evidence in the record, finds: Claimant last worked for the employer on September 15, 2023. The employer discharged claimant on September 16, 2023, for being $3.11 over on his cash drawer at store close.

Claimant was employed as a part-time lead sales associate from March 14, 2023, until his employment with DolGenCorp LLC ended on September 16, 2023. As a lead sales associate, claimant was responsible for operating a cash register, checking customers out, stocking products, and sometimes closing down the store.

The employer has an employee manual that contains work rules and policies. One of the employer's policies states that if an employee is more than $1.99 over the correct cash-drawer amount on three occasions, the employee could be subject to discipline up to and including termination of employment. Claimant was familiar with the employer's work rules and policies.

During his employment, claimant consistently worked hard, took pride in his work, and strove to learn from his mistakes. However, despite giving his best effort, claimant was slow at completing certain job tasks and he occasionally made mistakes. On several occasions, the employer provided claimant additional training on job tasks.

On September 16, 2023, claimant's supervisor called claimant into a meeting. During the meeting, claimant's supervisor presented claimant with two written warnings and a notice that his employment was being terminated effective immediately. The written warnings were for two instances on unspecified dates wherein claimant's cash drawn had allegedly been more than $1.99 over the correct amount. The termination notice stated that on September 15, 2023, claimant's cash drawer was $3.11 over the correct amount. The notice went on to state that because this was claimant's third violation, his employment was being terminated effective immediately. Prior to his termination, claimant had never received any warnings or workplace discipline. Claimant was not aware that his job was in jeopardy.

Claimant's administrative records indicate that claimant filed his original claim for benefits with an effective date of October 23, 2022, and an additional claim for benefits effective September 17, 2023. Since filing his additional claim, claimant has filed weekly claims and has been paid benefits for five weeks between September 17 and October 21, 2023, for total benefits in the amount of $1,775.00. The employer did not participate in the fact-finding interview.

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

For the reasons that follow, the administrative law judge concludes the claimant was discharged from employment for no disqualifying reason. Benefits are allowed.

Iowa Code section 96.5(2)a provides:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits, regardless of the source of the individual's wage credits:

2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:

a. The disqualification shall continue until the individual has worked in and has been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times the individual's weekly benefit amount, provided the individual is otherwise eligible.

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(1)a provides:

Discharge for misconduct.

(1) Definition.

a. "Misconduct" is defined as a deliberate act or omission by a worker which constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of such worker's contract of employment. Misconduct as the term is used in the disqualification provision as being limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or evil design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer. On the other hand mere inefficiency, unsatisfactory conduct, failure in good performance as the result of inability or incapacity, inadvertencies or ordinary negligence in isolated instances, or good faith errors in judgment or discretion are not to be deemed misconduct within the meaning of the statute.

This definition has been accepted by the Iowa Supreme Court as accurately reflecting the intent of the legislature. Huntoon v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 275 N.W.2d 445, 448 (Iowa 1979).

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(4) provides:

(4) Report required. The claimant's statement and employer's statement must give detailed facts as to the specific reason for the claimant's discharge. Allegations of misconduct or dishonesty without additional evidence shall not be sufficient to result in disqualification. If the employer is unwilling to furnish available evidence to corroborate the allegation, misconduct cannot be established. In cases where a suspension or disciplinary layoff exists, the claimant is considered as discharged, and the issue of misconduct shall be resolved.

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(8) provides:

(8) Past acts of misconduct. While past acts and warnings can be used to determine the magnitude of a current act of misconduct, a discharge for misconduct cannot be based on such past act or acts. The termination of employment must be based on a current act.

The employer has the burden of proof in establishing disqualifying job-related misconduct. Cosper v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 321 N.W.2d 6 (Iowa 1982). The issue is not whether the employer made a correct decision in separating claimant, but whether the claimant is entitled to unemployment insurance benefits. Infante v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 364 N.W.2d 262 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984). What constitutes misconduct justifying termination of an employee and what misconduct warrants denial of unemployment insurance benefits are two separate decisions. Pierce v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 425 N.W.2d 679 (Iowa Ct. App. 1988). Misconduct serious enough to warrant discharge is not necessarily serious enough to warrant a denial of job insurance benefits. Such misconduct must be "substantial." Newman v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 351 N.W.2d 806 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984).

The gravity of the incident, number of policy violations and prior warnings are factors considered when analyzing misconduct. The lack of a current warning may detract from a finding of an intentional policy violation. Disqualification for a single misconduct incident must be a deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which employer has a right to expect. Diggs v. Emp't Appeal Bd., 478 N.W.2d 432 (lowa Ct. App. 1991).

When based on carelessness, the carelessness must actually indicate a "wrongful intent" to be disqualifying in nature. Id. Negligence does not constitute misconduct unless recurrent in nature; a single act is not disqualifying unless indicative of a deliberate disregard of the employer's interests. Henry v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 391 N.W.2d 731 (Iowa Ct. App. 1986). Poor work performance is not misconduct in the absence of evidence of intent. Miller v. Emp't Appeal Bd., 423 N.W.2d 211 (Iowa Ct. App. 1988). Generally, continued refusal to follow reasonable instructions constitutes misconduct. Gilliam v. Atlantic Bottling Co., 453 N.W.2d 230 (Iowa Ct. App. 1990); however, "Balky and argumentative" conduct is not necessarily disqualifying. City of Des Moines v. Picray, (No. 85-919, Iowa Ct. App. Filed June 25, 1986).

It is the duty of the administrative law judge as the trier of fact in this case, to determine the credibility of witnesses, weigh the evidence and decide the facts in issue. Arndt v. City of LeClaire, 728 N.W.2d 389, 394-395 (Iowa 2007). The administrative law judge may believe all, part or none of any witness's testimony. State v. Holtz, 548 N.W.2d 162, 163 (Iowa App. 1996). In assessing the credibility of witnesses, the administrative law judge should consider the evidence using his or her own observations, common sense and experience. Id. In determining the facts, and deciding what testimony to believe, the fact finder may consider the following factors: whether the testimony is reasonable and consistent with other believable evidence; whether a witness has made inconsistent statements; the witness's appearance, conduct, age, intelligence, memory and knowledge of the facts; and the witness's interest in the trial, their motive, candor, bias and prejudice. Id.

The findings of fact show how I have resolved the disputed factual issues in this case. I assessed the credibility of the witnesses who testified during the hearing, considering the applicable factors listed above, and using my own common sense and experience. I find the claimant's testimony that he tried to perform his job to the best of his ability credible. The administrative law judge concludes the claimant did not intentionally fail to perform the duties and expectations of his position.

In this case, the employer discharged claimant because claimant's cash drawer was allegedly more than $1.99 over the correct amount on three separate occasions. While this may have violated the employer's policy, there is no evidence that claimant willfully or wantonly disregarded the employer's instructions or the standards of behavior the employer had a right to expect of him. Rather, the evidence supports that claimant's mistakes arose from mere inadvertency, inability, or ordinary negligence. While carelessness can result in disqualification, it must be of such degree of recurrence as to demonstrate substantial disregard for the employer's interests. Claimant's conduct in this instance does not meet that standard.

Moreover, inasmuch as the employer had not previously warned claimant about the issue leading to the separation, it has not met the burden of proof to establish that claimant acted deliberately or with recurrent negligence in violation of company policy, procedure, or prior warning. An employee is entitled to fair warning that the employer will no longer tolerate certain performance and conduct. Without fair warning, an employee has no reasonable way of knowing that there are changes that need be made in order to preserve the employment. If an employer expects an employee to conform to certain expectations or face discharge, appropriate (preferably written), detailed, and reasonable notice should be given. Training or general notice to staff about a policy is not considered a disciplinary warning. As such, benefits are allowed.

Because claimant's separation was not disqualifying, the issues of overpayment, repayment, and charges are moot.

DECISION:

The October 9, 2023, (reference 01) unemployment insurance decision is affirmed. The claimant was discharged from employment for no disqualifying reason. Benefits are allowed, provided the claimant is otherwise eligible. The issues of overpayment, repayment, and charges are moot.
