Section 96.5-2-a – Discharge for Misconduct

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

Employer filed an appeal from a decision of a representative dated March 28, 2006, reference 01, which held claimant eligible for unemployment insurance benefits. After due notice, a telephone conference hearing was scheduled for and held on April 20, 2006. Claimant participated personally and was represented by Kodi Petersen, Attorney at Law. Employer participated by Royce Hammitt, WRF Treatment Manager and represented by Carol Moser, Assistant City Attorney. Exhibits A and One through Fourteen were admitted into evidence.

FINDINGS OF FACT:

The administrative law judge, having heard the testimony and considered all of the evidence in the record, finds: Claimant last worked for employer on March 10, 2006.

Claimant was discharged on March 10, 2006, by employer because claimant allegedly violated the harassment policy on February 28, 2006 and March 1, 2006. Claimant quit in lieu of discharge. Claimant did not violate the harassment policy on these dates. Claimant had been warned concerning her conduct with a coworker in November of 2005. The warning was very serious as it required claimant to submit an undated letter of resignation.

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

The issue in this matter is whether claimant was discharged for misconduct.

Iowa Code section 96.5-2-a provides:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits:

2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:

a. The individual shall be disqualified for benefits until the individual has worked in and has been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times the individual's weekly benefit amount, provided the individual is otherwise eligible.

871 IAC 24.32(1)a provides:

Discharge for misconduct.

(1) Definition.

a. "Misconduct" is defined as a deliberate act or omission by a worker which constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of such worker's contract of employment. Misconduct as the term is used in the disqualification provision as being limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or evil design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer. On the other hand mere inefficiency, unsatisfactory conduct, failure in good performance as the result of inability or incapacity, inadvertencies or ordinary negligence in isolated instances, or good faith errors in judgment or discretion are not to be deemed misconduct within the meaning of the statute.

This definition has been accepted by the Iowa Supreme Court as accurately reflecting the intent of the legislature. Huntoon v. Iowa Department of Job Service, 275 N.W.2d 445, 448 (Iowa 1979).

871 IAC 24.32(8) provides:

(8) Past acts of misconduct. While past acts and warnings can be used to determine the magnitude of a current act of misconduct, a discharge for misconduct cannot be based on such past act or acts. The termination of employment must be based on a current act.

In this matter, the evidence fails to establish that claimant was discharged for an act of misconduct when claimant violated employer's policy concerning harassment. Claimant was warned concerning this policy.

Claimant quit in lieu of discharge. This is a misconduct issue because claimant was forced to resign. The last incidents, which brought about the discharge, fail to constitute misconduct because claimant's in-person and sworn testimony is more credible than the hearsay offered by employer. Sworn testimony is more credible than hearsay as an issue of law. Employer failed to offer any firsthand sworn testimony concerning the inappropriate conduct of claimant on February 28, 2006 and March 1, 2006. Thus, claimant's sworn version must be given greater weight than the hearsay. This is not a finding that the treatment manager's testimony was not credible. To the contrary, his testimony was very credible. The problem was that the salient facts presented were hearsay. Employer failed to establish its burden of proof. The administrative law judge holds that claimant was not discharged for an act of misconduct and, as such, is not disqualified for the receipt of unemployment insurance benefits.

DECISION:

The decision of the representative dated March 28, 2006, reference 01, is affirmed. Claimant is eligible to receive unemployment insurance benefits, provided claimant meets all other eligibility requirements.
