APPEAL 23A-UI-05835-SN-T

ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE DECISION

OC: 04/23/23
Claimant: Respondent (2)

Iowa Code § 96.5(2)a – Discharge for Misconduct
Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(1)a – Discharge for Misconduct
Iowa Code § 96.3(7) – Recovery of Benefit Overpayment
Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.10 – Recovery of Benefit Overpayment

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

The employer, Walmart Inc., filed an appeal from the May 24, 2023, (reference 01) unemployment insurance decision that granted benefits based upon the conclusion the claimant was discharged, but disqualifying misconduct had not been shown. The parties were properly notified of the hearing. A telephone hearing was held on June 27, 2023. The claimant participated and testified. The employer participated through Unemployment Insurance Manager Carly Courtwright and Store Manager Karla Raney. Exhibits 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6 were received into the record.

ISSUES:

Was the claimant discharged for disqualifying job-related misconduct?

Whether the claimant has been overpaid benefits? Whether the claimant is excused from repayment of benefits due to the employer's non-participation?

FINDINGS OF FACT:

Having reviewed all of the evidence in the record, the administrative law judge finds:

The claimant worked as a full-time digital personal shopper for the employer from October 16, 2022, until the claimant separated from employment on March 24, 2023, when he was terminated. The claimant's immediate supervisor was Digital Coach Edward James.

The employer has a violence free workplace policy. The employer provided a copy of the policy. (Exhibit 4) The policy prohibits any threat of violence in the workplace. It then specifically defines a threat of violence to be one that reasonably "causes another employee to cause them to feel afraid for their safety." The employer has a disciplinary action policy. It explains that warnings are given in three colors in progressive severity: yellow, orange, and red. The employer provided a copy of the policy. (Exhibit 5) The claimant reviewed these policies upon the time of his hire. The employer provided proof of the claimant's acknowledgement of receiving training on the policies. (Exhibit 6)

On March 17, 2023, the claimant did not dispense a portion of an order to a customer. A coworker asked if the customer was still in the store. The claimant replied angrily, "It wasn't there!" The coworker asked him what he meant. The claimant replied, "How was I supposed to know?" Another employee told the claimant to pay more attention in the future. This employee reported the claimant to management because he was so visibly angry after being corrected.

On March 18, 2023, the claimant got frustrated and threw his two-way radio across the room. This upset the claimant's coworkers because they thought he might hurt them. The claimant received a yellow warning from his manager on that day. The claimant was told that his actions could harm a coworker or result in damage to equipment. The employer provided a copy of the written warning. (Exhibit 3) After returning from receiving the warning, the claimant was fuming. The claimant suspected he knew who had reported him to management. He told one coworker, "You better deck your girl or I will." This coworker is in a romantic relationship with the one he suspected. This coworker told him that she was out retrieving items. The claimant replied, "You better hope I don't get fired or it'll be you both getting it." The coworker asked if he would like to retrieve some additional items. The claimant replied, "Mind your business and she better too if she doesn't want [to get] decked."

From March 21, 2023 through March 23, 2023, the employer's management team reviewed witnessed statements and interviewed the claimant. The claimant acknowledged making these statements. The claimant was the final witness to be interviewed. He acknowledged the behavior.

On March 24, 2023, the employer terminated the claimant for making threats of violence in the workplace.

The following section of the findings of fact display the findings necessary to resolve the overpayment issue:

The claimant has not received unemployment insurance benefits after this separation.

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

The administrative law judge concludes the claimant was discharged from employment due to job-related misconduct. The overpayment issue need not be analyzed because the claimant has not yet received benefits.

Iowa Code section 96.5(2)a provides:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits:

2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:

a. The individual shall be disqualified for benefits until the individual has worked in and has been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times the individual's weekly benefit amount, provided the individual is otherwise eligible.

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(1)a provides:

Discharge for misconduct.

(1) Definition.

a. "Misconduct" is defined as a deliberate act or omission by a worker which constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of such worker's contract of employment. Misconduct as the term is used in the disqualification provision as being limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or evil design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer. On the other hand mere inefficiency, unsatisfactory conduct, failure in good performance as the result of inability or incapacity, inadvertencies or ordinary negligence in isolated instances, or good faith errors in judgment or discretion are not to be deemed misconduct within the meaning of the statute.

This definition has been accepted by the Iowa Supreme Court as accurately reflecting the intent of the legislature. Huntoon v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 275 N.W.2d 445, 448 (Iowa 1979).

Iowa Code section 96.5(2)b, c and d provide:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits, regardless of the source of the individual's wage credits:

2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:

b. Provided further, if gross misconduct is established, the department shall cancel the individual's wage credits earned, prior to the date of discharge, from all employers.

c. Gross misconduct is deemed to have occurred after a claimant loses employment as a result of an act constituting an indictable offense in connection with the claimant's employment, provided the claimant is duly convicted thereof or has signed a statement admitting the commission of such an act. Determinations regarding a benefit claim may be redetermined within five years from the effective date of the claim. Any benefits paid to a claimant prior to a determination that the claimant has lost employment as a result of such act shall not be considered to have been accepted by the claimant in good faith.

d. For the purposes of this subsection, "misconduct" means a deliberate act or omission by an employee that constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of the employee's contract of employment. Misconduct is limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or evil design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer. Misconduct by an individual includes but is not limited to all of the following:

(1) Material falsification of the individual's employment application.

(2) Knowing violation of a reasonable and uniformly enforced rule of an employer.

(3) Intentional damage of an employer's property.

(4) Consumption of alcohol, illegal or nonprescribed prescription drugs, or an impairing substance in a manner not directed by the manufacturer, or a combination of such substances, on the employer's premises in violation of the employer's employment policies.

(5) Reporting to work under the influence of alcohol, illegal or nonprescribed prescription drugs, or an impairing substance in an off-label manner, or a combination of such substances, on the employer's premises in violation of the employer's employment policies, unless the individual is compelled to work by the employer outside of scheduled or on-call working hours.

(6) Conduct that substantially and unjustifiably endangers the personal safety of coworkers or the general public.

(7) Incarceration for an act for which one could reasonably expect to be incarcerated that result in missing work.

(8) Incarceration as a result of a misdemeanor or felony conviction by a court of competent jurisdiction.

(9) Excessive unexcused tardiness or absenteeism.

(10) Falsification of any work-related report, task, or job that could expose the employer or coworkers to legal liability or sanction for violation of health or safety laws.

(11) Failure to maintain any licenses, registration, or certification that is reasonably required by the employer or by law, or that is a functional requirement to perform the individual's regular job duties, unless the failure is not within the control of the individual.

(12) Conduct that is libelous or slanderous toward an employer or an employee of the employer if such conduct is not protected under state or federal law.

(13) Theft of an employer or coworker's funds or property.

(14) Intentional misrepresentation of time worked or work carried out that results in the individual receiving unearned wages or unearned benefits.

The employer has the burden of proof in establishing disqualifying job misconduct. Cosper v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 321 N.W.2d 6 (Iowa 1982). The issue is not whether the employer made a correct decision in separating claimant, but whether the claimant is entitled to unemployment insurance benefits. Infante v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 364 N.W.2d 262 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984). The Iowa Court of Appeals found substantial evidence of misconduct in testimony that the claimant worked slower than he was capable of working and would temporarily and briefly improve following oral reprimands. Sellers v. Emp't Appeal Bd., 531 N.W.2d 645 (Iowa Ct. App. 1995). Generally, continued refusal to follow reasonable instructions constitutes misconduct. Gilliam v. Atlantic Bottling Co., 453 N.W.2d 230 (Iowa Ct. App. 1990). Misconduct must be "substantial" to warrant a denial of job insurance benefits. Newman v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 351 N.W.2d 806 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984). Poor work performance is not misconduct in the absence of evidence of intent. Miller v. Emp't Appeal Bd., 423 N.W.2d 211 (Iowa Ct. App. 1988).

The employer terminated the claimant after two outbursts occurring over the course of two days. The administrative law judge finds the second incident to be against the reasonable expectations of an employer because the record shows the claimant lost his temper because an employee reported him internally. The claimant had already been warned regarding losing his temper. The claimant was discharged due to misconduct. Benefits are denied. The overpayment issue need not be evaluated because the claimant has not received benefits.

DECISION:

The May 24, 2023, (reference 01) unemployment insurance decision is REVERSED. The claimant was discharged from employment for disqualifying misconduct. Benefits are withheld until such time as he has worked in and been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times his weekly benefit amount, provided he is otherwise eligible. The overpayment issue need not be analyzed because the claimant has not yet received benefits.
