APPEAL 23A-UI-06852-ED

ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE DECISION

OC: 06/11/23
Claimant: Appellant (1)

Iowa Code § 96.5(2)a – Discharge for Misconduct
Iowa Code § 96.5(1) – Voluntary Quitting

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

The claimant, Ali Fathi, filed an appeal from the July 5, 2023 (reference 01) unemployment insurance decision that denied benefits based upon claimant's discharge from employment. The parties were properly notified of the hearing. An in-person hearing was held on July 31, 2023 in Des Moines, Iowa. The claimant, Ali Fathi, participated personally. The employer, Hy-Vee Inc, participated through hearing representative, Erin Beweley and witness, Todd Fox. The Employer's Exhibit pages 1 – 21 were offered and admitted with no objection.

ISSUES:

Was the claimant discharged for disqualifying job-related misconduct?
Did claimant voluntarily quit the employment with good cause attributable to employer?

FINDINGS OF FACT:

Having reviewed all of the evidence in the record, the administrative law judge finds: Claimant was employed full-time as a warehouse generalist beginning November 23, 2021. The last day the claimant physically worked was June 7, 2023. The claimant was discharged from employment on June 7, 2023 due to an incident that occurred on June 6, 2023.

On June 6, 2023, the claimant arrived at work at 7:00 PM and was asked to do the specific work assigned to her, which was to empty all trash and plastic from the receiving dock and manually sweep the area. The claimant wanted to use the sweeper machine instead. She argued with her supervisor, Dylan Wehrli, about the job she was going to do that shift. Mr. Wehrli affirmatively told the claimant they did not need her to use the sweeper machine, but they needed her to do the job as assigned. The claimant refused to do the work asked of her. Mr. Wehrli then asked the claimant to punch out and leave the premises. She refused to do so. The employer utilized its security to remove her from the facility.

There had a been a previous incident on February 11, 2023, where the claimant had refused to complete work which caused a disruption in the workplace. After the incident, Mr. Fox had advised supervisors to utilize security to remove the claimant from the premises if necessary to avoid disruption among employees.

This employer has a written disciplinary policy regarding conduct. The policy states that all employees should be treated with dignity and respect. Violation of the policy may result in discipline, up to, and including discharge. The claimant signed for receipt of the policy on November 23, 2021

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

For the reasons that follow, the administrative law judge concludes the claimant was discharged for job-related misconduct. Benefits are denied.

Iowa Code § 96.5(2)a provides:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits:

2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:

a. The individual shall be disqualified for benefits until the individual has worked in and has been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times the individual's weekly benefit amount, provided the individual is otherwise eligible.

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(1)a provides:

Discharge for misconduct.

(1) Definition.

a. "Misconduct" is defined as a deliberate act or omission by a worker which constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of such worker's contract of employment. Misconduct as the term is used in the disqualification provision as being limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or evil design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer. On the other hand mere inefficiency, unsatisfactory conduct, failure in good performance as the result of inability or incapacity, inadvertencies or ordinary negligence in isolated instances, or good faith errors in judgment or discretion are not to be deemed misconduct within the meaning of the statute.

This definition has been accepted by the Iowa Supreme Court as accurately reflecting the intent of the legislature. Huntoon v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 275 N.W.2d 445, 448 (Iowa 1979).

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(4) provides:

(4) Report required. The claimant's statement and employer's statement must give detailed facts as to the specific reason for the claimant's discharge. Allegations of misconduct or dishonesty without additional evidence shall not be sufficient to result in disqualification. If the employer is unwilling to furnish available evidence to corroborate the allegation, misconduct cannot be established. In cases where a suspension or disciplinary layoff exists, the claimant is considered as discharged, and the issue of misconduct shall be resolved.

Iowa Admin. Code r.871-24.32(8) provides:

(8) Past acts of misconduct. While past acts and warnings can be used to determine the magnitude of a current act of misconduct, a discharge for misconduct cannot be based on such past act or acts. The termination of employment must be based on a current act.

It is the duty of the administrative law judge as the trier of fact in this case, to determine the credibility of witnesses, weigh the evidence and decide the facts in issue. Arndt v. City of LeClaire, 728 N.W.2d 389, 394-395 (Iowa 2007). The administrative law judge may believe all, part or none of any witness's testimony. State v. Holtz, 548 N.W.2d 162, 163 (Iowa App. 1996). In assessing the credibility of witnesses, the administrative law judge should consider the evidence using his or her own observations, common sense and experience. Id. In determining the facts, and deciding what testimony to believe, the fact finder may consider the following factors: whether the testimony is reasonable and consistent with other believable evidence; whether a witness has made inconsistent statements; the witness's appearance, conduct, age, intelligence, memory and knowledge of the facts; and the witness's interest in the trial, their motive, candor, bias and prejudice. Id. After assessing the credibility of the witnesses who testified during the hearing, considering the applicable factors listed above, and using her own common sense and experience, the Administrative Law Judge finds that Mr. Fox's testimony with accompanying exhibits more credible than Ms. Ali's testimony.

The employer has the burden of proof in establishing disqualifying job misconduct. Cosper v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 321 N.W.2d 6 (Iowa 1982). The issue is not whether the employer made a correct decision in separating claimant, but whether the claimant is entitled to unemployment insurance benefits. Infante v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 364 N.W.2d 262 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984). Misconduct serious enough to warrant discharge is not necessarily serious enough to warrant a denial of job insurance benefits. Such misconduct must be "substantial." Newman v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 351 N.W.2d 806 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984). The focus of the administrative code definition of misconduct is on deliberate, intentional or culpable acts by the employee. Id. When based on carelessness, the carelessness must actually indicate a "wrongful intent" to be disqualifying in nature. Id. Negligence does not constitute misconduct unless recurrent in nature; a single act is not disqualifying unless indicative of a deliberate disregard of the employer's interests. Henry v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 391 N.W.2d 731 (Iowa Ct. App. 1986). Further, poor work performance is not misconduct in the absence of evidence of intent. Miller v. Emp't Appeal Bd., 423 N.W.2d 211 (Iowa Ct. App. 1988). The law limits disqualifying misconduct to substantial and willful wrongdoing or repeated carelessness or negligence that equals willful misconduct in culpability. Lee v. Employment Appeal Bd., 616 N.W.2d 661 (Iowa 2000). A lapse of 11 days from final act until discharge when claimant was notified on fourth day that his conduct was grounds for dismissal did not make final act a "past act". Greene v. Emp't Appeal Bd., 426 N.W.2d 659 (Iowa Ct. App. 1988).

Willful misconduct can be established where an employee manifests an intent to disobey a future reasonable instruction of his employer. Myers v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 373 N.W.2d 507 (Iowa Ct. App. 1985). Continued refusal to follow reasonable instructions constitutes misconduct. Gilliam v. Atlantic Bottling Co., 453 N.W.2d 230 (Iowa Ct. App. 1990). Misconduct can be found if an employee contacts the employer's CEO and intentionally refused to follow the employer's chain of command. Anderson v. Winnebago Industries, Inc., No. 01-1289, 2002 WL 31425219 (Iowa Ct. App. 2002 Unpublished).

In this case, the claimant refused to do the work as assigned and continued to tell her supervisors that she wanted to use the sweeper machine instead on the night of June 6, 2023. She did this because she disagreed with the employer's assignment of work duties for her that night. When instructed to punch out and leave for the night, the claimant continued to refuse. Further, claimant had been warned on a previous occasion about refusing to do work as assigned. The final incident of refusing to do the work assigned to her on June 6, 2023, combined with the fact that claimant had been warned on a previous occasion for violating the employer's policies amounts to misconduct. This was not simply one occasion of insubordination but a pattern of her deliberate disregard of the employer's interests. As such, benefits must be denied.

DECISION:

The July 5, 2023, (reference 01) unemployment insurance decision is affirmed. Claimant was discharged from employment for job-related misconduct. Benefits are withheld in regards to this employer until such time as claimant is deemed eligible.
