APPEAL 23A-UI-03620-PT-T
ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE
DECISION

OC: 02/26/23
Claimant: Appellant (2)

Iowa Code § 96.5(2)a – Discharge

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

Claimant filed an appeal from a decision of a representative dated March 30, 2023, (reference 03) that held claimant ineligible for unemployment insurance benefits. After due notice, a hearing was scheduled for and held on April 20, 2023. Claimant participated personally. Employer participated through Store Leader Bebra Smith. The administrative law judge took official notice of the administrative record.

ISSUE:

Was the claimant discharged for disqualifying, job-related misconduct?

FINDINGS OF FACT:

The administrative law judge, having heard the testimony and considered all of the evidence in the record, finds: Claimant last worked for employer on January 13, 2023. The employer discharged claimant on January 13, 2023, due to violations of employer's food service sanitation policy.

Claimant was employed as a full-time guest service coworker from September 8, 2020, until his employment with Kwik Trip Inc. ended on January 13, 2023. As a guest service coworker, claimant was responsible for preparing and cooking fried chicken, assisting on the register, and making food orders for the store. The employer has a written employee manual which includes a food service sanitation policy. Claimant received a copy of the employee manual and successfully completed the employer's food service training.

During claimant's employment at Kwik Trip Inc., claimant worked hard, took pride in his work, and tried to assist other employees when the store got busy. However, on December 19, 2022, the employer issued claimant a written warning for sanitation violations that occurred on December 14, 2022. On that day, claimant was observed touching his beard net, not wearing the correct apron, and not washing his hands between several tasks. The warning notified claimant that future sanitation violations would result in further discipline up to and including termination of employment.

During the next several weeks, claimant tried to correct his mistakes and comply with the employer's sanitation policy. However, despite claimant's efforts, during a review of the store's surveillance footage from January 6, 2023, the employer witnessed claimant touch his beard net several times, touch raw chicken and then touch other items with the same gloves, and set food onto a cart that had previously held raw chicken potentially cross contaminating the food. On January 13, 2023, the employer called claimant into a meeting and informed claimant that his employment was being terminated effective immediately due to violations of the employer's food service sanitation policy.

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

For the reasons that follow, the administrative law judge concludes the claimant was discharged from employment for no disqualifying reason. Benefits are allowed.

Iowa Code section 96.5(2)a provides:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits, regardless of the source of the individual's wage credits:

2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:

a. The disqualification shall continue until the individual has worked in and has been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times the individual's weekly benefit amount, provided the individual is otherwise eligible.

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(1)a provides:

Discharge for misconduct.

(1) Definition.

a. "Misconduct" is defined as a deliberate act or omission by a worker which constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of such worker's contract of employment. Misconduct as the term is used in the disqualification provision as being limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or evil design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer. On the other hand mere inefficiency, unsatisfactory conduct, failure in good performance as the result of inability or incapacity, inadvertencies or ordinary negligence in isolated instances, or good faith errors in judgment or discretion are not to be deemed misconduct within the meaning of the statute.

This definition has been accepted by the Iowa Supreme Court as accurately reflecting the intent of the legislature. Huntoon v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 275 N.W.2d 445, 448 (Iowa 1979).

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(4) provides:

(4) Report required. The claimant's statement and employer's statement must give detailed facts as to the specific reason for the claimant's discharge. Allegations of misconduct or dishonesty without additional evidence shall not be sufficient to result in disqualification. If the employer is unwilling to furnish available evidence to corroborate the allegation, misconduct cannot be established. In cases where a suspension or disciplinary layoff exists, the claimant is considered as discharged, and the issue of misconduct shall be resolved.

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(8) provides:

(8) Past acts of misconduct. While past acts and warnings can be used to determine the magnitude of a current act of misconduct, a discharge for misconduct cannot be based on such past act or acts. The termination of employment must be based on a current act.

The employer has the burden of proof in establishing disqualifying job misconduct. Cosper v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 321 N.W.2d 6 (Iowa 1982). A determination as to whether an employee's act is misconduct does not rest solely on the interpretation or application of the employer's policy or rule. A violation is not necessarily disqualifying misconduct even if the employer was fully within its rights to impose discipline up to or including discharge for the incident under its policy. The issue is not whether the employer made a correct decision in separating claimant, but whether the claimant is entitled to unemployment insurance benefits. Infante v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 364 N.W.2d 262 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984).

What constitutes misconduct justifying termination of an employee and what misconduct warrants denial of unemployment insurance benefits are two separate decisions. Pierce v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 425 N.W.2d 679 (Iowa Ct. App. 1988). Misconduct serious enough to warrant discharge is not necessarily serious enough to warrant a denial of job insurance benefits. Such misconduct must be "substantial." Newman v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 351 N.W.2d 806 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984). The law limits disqualifying misconduct to substantial and willful wrongdoing or repeated carelessness or negligence that equals willful misconduct in culpability. Lee v. Employment Appeal Bd., 616 N.W.2d 661 (Iowa 2000). A failure in job performance is not misconduct unless it is intentional. Huntoon, supra; Lee v. Emp't Appeal Bd., 616 N.W.2d 661 (Iowa 2000).

When based on carelessness, the carelessness must actually indicate a "wrongful intent" to be disqualifying in nature. Id. Negligence does not constitute misconduct unless recurrent in nature; a single act is not disqualifying unless indicative of a deliberate disregard of the employer's interests. Henry v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 391 N.W.2d 731 (Iowa Ct. App. 1986). Poor work performance is not misconduct in the absence of evidence of intent. Miller v. Emp't Appeal Bd., 423 N.W.2d 211 (Iowa Ct. App. 1988). Generally, continued refusal to follow reasonable instructions constitutes misconduct. Gilliam v. Atlantic Bottling Co., 453 N.W.2d 230 (Iowa Ct. App. 1990); however, "Balky and argumentative" conduct is not necessarily disqualifying. City of Des Moines v. Picray, (No. 85-919, Iowa Ct. App. Filed June 25, 1986).

It is the duty of the administrative law judge as the trier of fact in this case, to determine the credibility of witnesses, weigh the evidence and decide the facts in issue. Arndt v. City of LeClaire, 728 N.W.2d 389, 394-395 (Iowa 2007). The administrative law judge may believe all, part or none of any witness's testimony. State v. Holtz, 548 N.W.2d 162, 163 (Iowa App. 1996). In assessing the credibility of witnesses, the administrative law judge should consider the evidence using his or her own observations, common sense and experience. Id. In determining the facts, and deciding what testimony to believe, the fact finder may consider the following factors: whether the testimony is reasonable and consistent with other believable evidence; whether a witness has made inconsistent statements; the witness's appearance, conduct, age, intelligence, memory and knowledge of the facts; and the witness's interest in the trial, their motive, candor, bias and prejudice. Id.

The findings of fact show how I have resolved the disputed factual issues in this case. I assessed the credibility of the witnesses who testified during the hearing, considering the applicable factors listed above, and using my own common sense and experience. I find the claimant's testimony that he tried to comply with the employer's food service sanitation policy and perform his job to the best of his ability credible. The administrative law judge concludes the claimant did not intentionally violate the employer's food service sanitation policy or deliberately fail to perform the duties and expectations of his position.

The employer discharged claimant for sanitation violations that occurred over several weeks. The most recent incidents preceding claimant's discharge were for violations that occurred on January 6, 2023, wherein claimant forgot to change his gloves, touched his beard net, and set items on a cart on which had previously set raw chicken. While these mistakes violated the employer's policy, claimant's errors were not deliberate. Rather, they arose from inadvertency, inability, or ordinary negligence. In this case, the employer has not provided sufficient evidence of deliberate conduct in violation of company policy, procedure, or prior warning. Claimant's conduct does not evince a willful or wanton disregard of the employer's interest as is found in a deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees. As such, benefits are allowed provided the claimant is otherwise eligible.

DECISION:

The decision of the representative dated March 30, 2023, (reference 03) is reversed. The claimant was discharged from employment for no disqualifying reason. Benefits are allowed, provided the claimant is otherwise eligible.
