Iowa Code § 96.5(2)a – Discharge for Misconduct

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

On May 3, 2024, the claimant filed a timely appeal from the unemployment insurance decision dated April 30, 2024, (Reference 01), that denied benefits. Notice of hearing was mailed to the parties' last known addresses of record for a telephone hearing to be held at 8:00 a.m. on May 17, 2024. The claimant participated personally and with witness Edgar Jaurez, and was represented by Attorney Mary Hamilton. The employer participated through Donavon Speers, Human Resources Manager and was represented by Attorney Sarah Kleber. Employer's Exhibits 1-9 and Claimant's Exhibit A were admitted to the record. The administrative law judge took official notice of the administrative record.

ISSUES:

Did the employer discharge the claimant for job related misconduct?

FINDINGS OF FACT:

Having reviewed all of the evidence in the record, the administrative law judge finds:

The claimant worked as a CNC Machinist for this employer from May 9, 2022, until April 8, 2024, when the claimant was discharged by the employer. The final incident leading to the discharge occurred on the day of the discharge. The claimant's supervisor, Keith Neuman, observed that the claimant was away from his work station. Specifically, the claimant was in the vicinity of the workstation of his brother, Edgar Jaurez. The supervisor approached the claimant and asked him why he was not at his workstation as required. The claimant made a gesture to the supervisor dismissively indicating that he should move on. The supervisor asked again and the claimant verbally told him to move on and did not answer the supervisor's inquiry as to why he was not working. The claimant's actions were in violation of the employer's Standards of Conduct, which specifically prohibit "Insubordination, including improper conduct toward a manager or refusal to perform assigned tasks." (Employer's Exhibit 8) The claimant had previously received a disciplinary warning for violating this same rule when his supervisor gave him a copy of a written policy regarding cell phone use on March 7, 2024. The claimant stated that his supervisor was making up rules and that there was no problem until that individual became a supervisor. (Employer's Exhibit 2) That warning specifically cited the claimant's actions as "disrespecting supervisor" and suspended him from work. The claimant had been verbally warned by the employer on several previous occasions for insubordination and disrespect. The claimant had often advised Human Resources personnel that he felt they were "soft." When he received corrective action, the claimant would warn the employer that he had pursued legal action against previous employers and had received monetary settlements.

The employer discharged the claimant for the insubordination and disrespectful behavior that occurred on April 8, 2024, after the claimant had been warned for similar conduct previously.

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

For the reasons that follow, the administrative law judge concludes the claimant was discharged from employment due to job-related misconduct. Benefits are denied.

Iowa Code § 96.5(2)a provides:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits:

2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:

a. The individual shall be disqualified for benefits until the individual has worked in and has been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times the individual's weekly benefit amount, provided the individual is otherwise eligible.

...

d. For the purposes of this subsection, "misconduct" means a deliberate act or omission by an employee that constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of the employee's contract of employment. Misconduct is limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or evil design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer. Misconduct by an individual includes but is not limited to all of the following:

...

(2) Knowing violation of a reasonable and uniformly enforced rule of an employer.

...

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(1)a provides:

Discharge for misconduct.

(1) Definition.

a. "Misconduct" is defined as a deliberate act or omission by a worker which constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of such worker's contract of employment. Misconduct as the term is used in the disqualification provision as being limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or evil design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer. On the other hand mere inefficiency, unsatisfactory conduct, failure in good performance as the result of inability or incapacity, inadvertencies or ordinary negligence in isolated instances, or good faith errors in judgment or discretion are not to be deemed misconduct within the meaning of the statute.

The employer has the burden of proof in establishing disqualifying job misconduct. Cosper v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 321 N.W.2d 6 (Iowa 1982). The issue is not whether the employer made a correct decision in separating claimant, but whether the claimant is entitled to unemployment insurance benefits. Infante v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 364 N.W.2d 262 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984). What constitutes misconduct justifying termination of an employee and what misconduct warrants denial of unemployment insurance benefits are two separate decisions. Pierce v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 425 N.W.2d 679 (Iowa Ct. App. 1988).

Misconduct serious enough to warrant discharge is not necessarily serious enough to warrant a denial of job insurance benefits. Such misconduct must be "substantial." Newman v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 351 N.W.2d 806 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984). When based on carelessness, the carelessness must actually indicate a "wrongful intent" to be disqualifying in nature. Id. Negligence does not constitute misconduct unless recurrent in nature; a single act is not disqualifying unless indicative of a deliberate disregard of the employer's interests. Henry v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 391 N.W.2d 731 (Iowa Ct. App. 1986).

It is the duty of the administrative law judge, as the trier of fact, to determine the credibility of witnesses, weigh the evidence and decide the facts in issue. Arndt v. City of LeClaire, 728 N.W.2d 389, 394-395 (Iowa 2007). The administrative law judge may believe all, part or none of any witness's testimony. State v. Holtz, 548 N.W.2d 162, 163 (Iowa App. 1996). In assessing the credibility of witnesses, the administrative law judge should consider the evidence using his or her own observations, common sense and experience. Id. In determining the facts, and deciding what testimony to believe, the fact finder may consider the following factors: whether the testimony is reasonable and consistent with other evidence you believe; whether a witness has made inconsistent statements; the witness's appearance, conduct, age, intelligence, memory and knowledge of the facts; and the witness's interest in the trial, their motive, candor, bias and prejudice. Id.

The employer credibly testified that the claimant was disrespectful and insubordinate with his supervisor on April 8, 2024, and he had been warned repeatedly for similar conduct in the past. This Administrative Law Judge does not find credible the claimant's version of events, including his claim that he was looking for a part near his brother's workstation. The claimant's assertion that exhaust from a propane forklift caused him to politely ask the supervisor to move away is in conflict with the rest of his story, and is not believable given the claimant's history of disrespectful behavior. The claimant did not bring any claim of difficulty with propane fumes to his employer prior to or during this incident. The claimant's insubordination and disrespect of his employer was against the interests of the employer and constitutes disqualifying misconduct. The misconduct is substantial and disqualifying. Benefits are denied.

DECISION:

The April 30, 2024, (Reference 01) unemployment insurance decision denying benefits is AFFIRMED. The claimant was discharged from the employment for job-related misconduct. Benefits are withheld until such time the claimant has worked in and been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times the claimant's weekly benefit amount, provided the claimant is otherwise eligible.
