EMMA J COX
Claimant

APPEAL 23A-UI-10209-S2-T

ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE DECISION

REM IOWA COMMUNITY SERVICES INC
Employer

OC: 09/17/23
Claimant: Respondent (2)

Iowa Code § 96.5(2)a – Discharge for Misconduct
Iowa Code § 96.3(7) – Recovery of Benefit Overpayment
Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.10 – Employer/Representative Participation Fact-finding Interview

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

The employer filed an appeal from the October 17, 2023, (reference 01) unemployment insurance decision that allowed benefits based upon a finding that claimant was discharged with no evidence of misconduct. The parties were properly notified about the hearing. A telephone hearing was held on November 15, 2023. Claimant Emma Cox did not participate. Employer REM Iowa Community Services, Inc. participated through program director Kaylee Gasche and hearing representative Anthony Scott. Employer's Exhibits 1 – 10 were received. The administrative law judge took official notice of the administrative record.

ISSUES:

Was the claimant discharged for disqualifying job-related misconduct?
Has the claimant been overpaid unemployment insurance benefits, and if so, can the repayment of those benefits to the agency be waived?

FINDINGS OF FACT:

Having reviewed all of the evidence in the record, the administrative law judge finds: Claimant worked part-time as a direct support professional beginning July 21, 2022. Her job duties included dispensing medication to clients. Claimant was separated from employment on September 12, 2023, when she was discharged.

Claimant received training in medication management and was a certified medication manager. (Exhibits 1, 2, 10). Employer maintains rules regarding medication management. In order to discontinue a client's medication, a care team meeting must be held, involving the client, the client's guardian, the case manager, program supervisor, and on occasion, the area director. During that meeting, the discontinuation can be approved, and the client will no longer take that medication. A medication manager does not have the authority to discontinue a medication without going through this process. Claimant was aware of these policies.

On August 10, 2023, a guardian of a client reported that a medication was discontinued without their knowledge or consent. Employer conducted an investigation to determine why it was discontinued. Employer spoke to the prescribing physician's office, and per the physician's contemporaneous notes learned that claimant told the physician the guardian approved the discontinuation of the medication. During the investigation, claimant recalled speaking to the physician, but contended she had permission from a supervisor to discontinue the medication. Claimant also stated she placed a note in the communication log about the call with the physician. Employer found no entry from claimant regarding the call and both supervisors denied giving claimant permission to discontinue the medication.

On September 12, 2023, employer discharged claimant for discontinuing client's medication without approval, causing potential harm to the individual. (Exhibit 3).

The administrative record shows that claimant has not received any unemployment benefits since filing a claim with an effective date of September 17, 2023. Employer participated in the fact-finding interview through the submission of written documentation, including training records, corrective actions, and policies.

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

For the reasons that follow, the administrative law judge concludes the claimant was discharged from employment due to job-related misconduct.

Iowa Code section 96.5(2)a provides:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits, regardless of the source of the individual's wage credits:

2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:

a. The disqualification shall continue until the individual has worked in and has been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times the individual's weekly benefit amount, provided the individual is otherwise eligible.

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(1)a provides:

Discharge for misconduct.

(1) Definition.

a. "Misconduct" is defined as a deliberate act or omission by a worker which constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of such worker's contract of employment. Misconduct as the term is used in the disqualification provision as being limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or evil design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer. On the other hand mere inefficiency, unsatisfactory conduct, failure in good performance as the result of inability or incapacity, inadvertencies or ordinary negligence in isolated instances, or good faith errors in judgment or discretion are not to be deemed misconduct within the meaning of the statute.

This definition has been accepted by the Iowa Supreme Court as accurately reflecting the intent of the legislature. Huntoon v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 275 N.W.2d 445, 448 (Iowa 1979).

The employer has the burden of proof in establishing disqualifying job misconduct. Cosper v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 321 N.W.2d 6 (Iowa 1982). The issue is not whether the employer made a correct decision in separating claimant, but whether the claimant is entitled to unemployment insurance benefits. Infante v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 364 N.W.2d 262 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984). What constitutes misconduct justifying termination of an employee and what misconduct warrants denial of unemployment insurance benefits are two separate decisions. Pierce v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 425 N.W.2d 679 (Iowa Ct. App. 1988).

Claimant was aware of employer's policies and was aware she did not have the authority to discontinue a client's medication. Ceasing a client's medication without approval of the care team, including the client's guardian, is particularly serious as it can cause severe harm to a client. Employer could no longer safely employ claimant after such an error. Additionally, when asked about the medication, claimant was not truthful when she stated she received approval from her supervisor. Claimant's supervisors denied giving her approval to discontinue the medication. Further, claimant did not leave a note in the log as she alleged she had. Employer has established misconduct, even without prior warning. Benefits are denied.

Because no benefits were paid to claimant, the issues of overpayment, repayment and chargeability are moot.

DECISION:

The October 17, 2023, (reference 01) unemployment insurance decision is reversed. Claimant was discharged from employment due to job-related misconduct. Benefits are withheld until such time as she has worked in and been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times her weekly benefit amount, provided she is otherwise eligible. The issues of overpayment, repayment and chargeability are moot.
