Section 96.5-2-a – Discharge for Misconduct

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

Claimant filed an appeal from a decision of a representative dated October 24, 2005, reference 01, which held claimant ineligible for unemployment insurance benefits. After due notice, a telephone conference hearing was scheduled for and held on December 6, 2005. Claimant participated personally and was represented by Colin Murphy, Attorney at Law. Employer participated by Casey Sciorrotta, Human Resource Manager, and Ken Graham, Facilitator. Exhibit One was admitted into evidence.

FINDINGS OF FACT:

The administrative law judge, having heard the testimony and considered all of the evidence in the record, finds: Claimant last worked for employer on September 17, 2005.

Claimant was discharged on October 4, 2005 by employer because claimant brought a bow and arrow to work. She was asking the coworkers concerning the suitability of this bow for her son. Claimant and the coworkers were shooting the bow at a target next to the building. This happened during break. The bow was a toy that cost $14.00 at Wal Mart. The arrows were blunt pointed. The bow and arrows were not weapons.

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

The issue in this matter is whether claimant was discharged for misconduct.

Iowa Code Section 96.5-2-a provides:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits:

2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:
 - a. The individual shall be disqualified for benefits until the individual has worked in and has been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times the individual's weekly benefit amount, provided the individual is otherwise eligible.

871 IAC 24.32(1)a provides:

Discharge for misconduct.

(1) Definition.

- a. "Misconduct" is defined as a deliberate act or omission by a worker which constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of such worker's contract of employment. Misconduct as the term is used in the disqualification provision as being limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or evil design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer. On the other hand mere inefficiency, unsatisfactory conduct, failure in good performance as the result of inability or incapacity, inadvertencies or ordinary negligence in isolated instances, or good faith errors in judgment or discretion are not to be deemed misconduct within the meaning of the statute.

This definition has been accepted by the Iowa Supreme Court as accurately reflecting the intent of the legislature. Huntoon v. Iowa Department of Job Service, 275 N.W.2d 445, 448 (Iowa 1979).

871 IAC 24.32(8) provides:

(8) Past acts of misconduct. While past acts and warnings can be used to determine the magnitude of a current act of misconduct, a discharge for misconduct cannot be based on such past act or acts. The termination of employment must be based on a current act.

In this matter, the evidence failed to establish that claimant was discharged for an act of misconduct when claimant violated employer's policy concerning shop rule 20 prohibiting weapons. Claimant was warned concerning this policy.

The last incident, which brought about the discharge, fails to constitute misconduct because claimant brought a bow and arrows to work and shot it at targets during break. This was not a weapon. The toy bow could not be used as a weapon. As such claimant did not violate the policy. Even if a toy bow and arrows were considered weapons this is an isolated instance of poor judgment. There were no threats of violence or grossly negligent conduct endangering coworkers. This is not intentional conduct contrary to the best interests of employer. The administrative law judge holds that claimant was not discharged for an act of misconduct and, as such, is not disqualified for the receipt of unemployment insurance benefits.

DECISION:

The decision of the representative dated October 24, 2005, reference 01, is reversed. Claimant is eligible to receive unemployment insurance benefits, provided claimant meets all other eligibility requirements.
