Section 96.5-2-a – Discharge/Misconduct Section 96.3-7 – Recovery of Benefit Overpayment

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

The employer filed a timely appeal from the June 20, 2005, reference 01, decision that allowed benefits. After due notice was issued, a hearing was held on August 16, 2005. The claimant did participate and was represented by Sam Marks, Attorney at Law. The employer did participate through (representative) Amy Limyao, Director of Nursing, and Steven Blend, Executive Director.

FINDINGS OF FACT:

Having reviewed all of the evidence in the record, the administrative law judge finds: The claimant was employed as a registered nurse on the 10:45 p.m.-to-7:15 a.m. shift part time beginning November 11, 2002 through May 24, 2005, when she was discharged. The claimant was discharged because she failed to come in to talk with the employer about her performance issues. The claimant last worked on May 10, 2005. A medication administration audit was done on the morning of May 10 which raised concerns about the claimant's performance. Ms. Limyao, called the claimant on May 13, 16, 17 and either spoke to her or left her a message indicating that she needed to come in and meet with Ms. Limyao and Mr. Blend to discuss her performance issues. On May 17, the claimant called Ms. Limyao and told her she would not be coming in to work because she thought Ms. Limyao was going to fire her. The claimant refused to come in to meet with the employer to discuss performance issues or any other work-related issues. The claimant admits Ms. Limyao asked her to report to work for a discussion.

The claimant has claimed and received unemployment insurance benefits after the separation from employment.

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

For the reasons that follow, the administrative law judge concludes the claimant was discharged from employment due to job-related misconduct.

Iowa Code section 96.5-2-a provides:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits:

- 2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:
- a. The individual shall be disqualified for benefits until the individual has worked in and has been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times the individual's weekly benefit amount, provided the individual is otherwise eligible.

871 IAC 24.32(1)a provides:

Discharge for misconduct.

- (1) Definition.
- a. "Misconduct" is defined as a deliberate act or omission by a worker which constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of such worker's contract of employment. Misconduct as the term is used in the disqualification provision as being limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or evil design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer. On the other hand mere inefficiency, unsatisfactory conduct, failure in good performance as the result of inability or incapacity, inadvertencies or ordinary negligence in isolated instances, or good faith errors in judgment or discretion are not to be deemed misconduct within the meaning of the statute.

This definition has been accepted by the Iowa Supreme Court as accurately reflecting the intent of the legislature. Huntoon v. Iowa Department of Job Service, 275 N.W.2d 445, 448 (Iowa 1979).

The claimant admits she was told by Ms. Limyao that she needed to come in and discuss her work performance issues with Ms. Limyao. The claimant refused to go in and meet with the employer. It was reasonable for the employer to ask the claimant to report to the workplace to discuss work-related issues. The claimant's refusal, under the circumstance, is just not reasonable. The claimant's refusal to meet with the employer and discuss work-related issues constitutes disqualifying misconduct. Benefits are denied.

Iowa Code section 96.3-7 provides:

7. Recovery of overpayment of benefits. If an individual receives benefits for which the individual is subsequently determined to be ineligible, even though the individual acts in good faith and is not otherwise at fault, the benefits shall be recovered. The department in its discretion may recover the overpayment of benefits either by having a sum equal to the overpayment deducted from any future benefits payable to the individual or by having the individual pay to the department a sum equal to the overpayment.

If the department determines that an overpayment has been made, the charge for the overpayment against the employer's account shall be removed and the account shall be credited with an amount equal to the overpayment from the unemployment compensation trust fund and this credit shall include both contributory and reimbursable employers, notwithstanding section 96.8, subsection 5.

Because the claimant's separation was disqualifying, benefits were paid to which the claimant was not entitled. Those benefits must be recovered in accordance with the provisions of lowalaw.

DECISION:

The June 20, 2005, reference 01, decision is reversed. The claimant was discharged from employment due to job-related misconduct. Benefits are withheld until such time as she has worked in and been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times her weekly benefit amount, provided she is otherwise eligible. The claimant is overpaid benefits in the amount of $2,480.00.
