UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE APPEALS BUREAU

JENNIFER LAMBERSON
Claimant

APPEAL 23A-UI-07271-AW-T

ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE
DECISION

KRAFT HEINZ FOODS COMPANY
Employer

OC: 06/04/23
Claimant: Appellant (2)

Iowa Code § 96.5(2)a – Discharge

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

Claimant filed an appeal from the July 14, 2023 (reference 02) unemployment insurance decision that denied benefits. The parties were properly notified of the hearing. A telephone hearing was held on August 9, 2023. Claimant participated. Employer did not participate. No exhibits were admitted.

ISSUE:

Whether claimant's separation was a discharge for disqualifying job-related misconduct.

FINDINGS OF FACT:

Having reviewed all of the evidence in the record, the administrative law judge finds:

Claimant was employed as a full-time Stuffer Trainer from October 26, 2020 until her employment with Kraft Heinz Foods Company ended on June 6, 2023. Claimant worked Monday through Friday from 2:00 pm until 10:30 pm plus mandatory overtime.

Employer has a policy that requires employees who leave work early to get a form signed by their supervisor and clock out before leaving the premises. Claimant was aware of the policy.

On May 27, 2023, claimant had a medical emergency that caused her to leave work immediately without obtaining her supervisor's signature on the required form and without clocking out.

On May 30, 2023, employer suspended claimant pending an investigation. On June 6, 2023, employer discharged claimant for violation of the policy on May 27, 2023. Claimant had no prior warnings regarding leaving work early without having her supervisor sign the required form. Claimant had no prior warnings for leaving work early without clocking out. Claimant is aware of other employees who violated the policy and were not terminated.

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

For the reasons that follow, the administrative law judge concludes claimant was discharged for no disqualifying reason.

Iowa Code section 96.5(2)d(2) provides:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits, regardless of the source of the individual's wage credits:

2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:

d. For the purposes of this subsection, "misconduct" means a deliberate act or omission by an employee that constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of the employee's contract of employment. Misconduct is limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or evil design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer. Misconduct by an individual includes but is not limited to all of the following:

(2) Knowing violation of a reasonable and uniformly enforced rule of an employer.

The employer has the burden of proof in establishing disqualifying job misconduct. Cosper v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 321 N.W.2d 6 (Iowa 1982).

A determination as to whether an employee's act is misconduct does not rest solely on the interpretation or application of the employer's policy or rule. A violation is not necessarily disqualifying misconduct even if the employer was fully within its rights to impose discipline up to or including discharge for the incident under its policy. The issue is not whether the employer made a correct decision in separating claimant, but whether the claimant is entitled to unemployment insurance benefits. Infante v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 364 N.W.2d 262 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984). What constitutes misconduct justifying termination of an employee and what misconduct warrants denial of unemployment insurance benefits are two separate decisions. Pierce v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 425 N.W.2d 679 (Iowa Ct. App. 1988).

Misconduct serious enough to warrant discharge is not necessarily serious enough to warrant a denial of job insurance benefits. Such misconduct must be "substantial." Newman v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 351 N.W.2d 806 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984). The law limits disqualifying misconduct to substantial and willful wrongdoing or repeated carelessness or negligence that equals willful misconduct in culpability. Lee v. Employment Appeal Bd., 616 N.W.2d 661 (Iowa 2000).

An employee is entitled to fair warning that the employer will no longer tolerate certain performance and conduct. Without fair warning, an employee has no reasonable way of knowing that there are changes that need be made in order to preserve the employment. If an employer expects an employee to conform to certain expectations or face discharge, appropriate (preferably written), detailed, and reasonable notice should be given. Training or general notice to staff about a policy is not considered a disciplinary warning.

Employer discharged claimant for violating its policy with no prior warnings. Claimant's violation of the policy was reasonable given the emergency situation. Claimant's actions were not a willful or wanton disregard of employer's interests. Furthermore, to the extent that claimant was subject to disparate discipline, her conduct could not support a disqualification from unemployment insurance benefits. Employer has not met its burden of proving disqualifying job-related misconduct. Claimant was discharged for no disqualifying reason. Benefits are allowed provided claimant is otherwise eligible.

DECISION:

The July 14, 2023 (reference 02) unemployment insurance decision is REVERSED. Claimant was discharged for no disqualifying reason. Benefits are allowed provided claimant is otherwise eligible.
