OC: 04/28/24
Claimant: Appellant (1)

Iowa Code § 96.5-2-a – Discharge for Misconduct

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

Claimant filed an appeal from a decision of a representative dated May 20, 2024, (reference 01) which held claimant ineligible for unemployment insurance benefits. After due notice, a hearing was scheduled for and held on June 7, 2024. Claimant participated personally. Employer participated by hearing representative Elsie Poucel and witness Emily Oman. Interpretive services were provided by Language Link.

ISSUES:

Whether claimant was discharged for misconduct?

FINDINGS OF FACT:

The administrative law judge, having heard the testimony and considered all of the evidence in the record, finds: Claimant last worked for employer on April 23, 2024. Employer discharged claimant on April 26, 2024 because claimant secured three written notices that led to termination under employer's progressive disciplinary policy.

Claimant is a Hispanic woman who worked with sanitizing gear and setting up machines on a full time basis for employer. At the time of hire she received English and Spanish language documentation of company policies and manuals. Claimant was covered by a union contract.

On May 23, 2023 claimant was given a written notice for not wearing safety goggles when using sanitizing chemicals. This was explained to claimant in Spanish. It was not grieved through the union.

On April 23, 2024 claimant was given two written notices and a five day suspension for not following proper lock out procedure on a machine she was working on. Claimant stated that she did lock out parts of the machine, but kept other parts unlocked where another person was working. When asked about why she did what she did, claimant expressed that forgot to put on the lock and that she knew what she did was wrong. She also stated that she was in a hurry that day.

Employer stated that the equipment claimant was working with had sharp rotating equipment and a pinch point and claimant was reaching her hand into the equipment and did not lock out the equipment before working on it in violation of company policies and trainings. Employer stated that the extreme dangerousness of the action was what led to the company instilling two notices for a violation.

Claimant stated that another person was working on one part of the device and had a screw locking it. Claimant's union chose not to grieve the termination.

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

Iowa Code section 96.5(2)a provides:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits, regardless of the source of the individual's wage credits:

2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:

a. The disqualification shall continue until the individual has worked in and has been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times the individual's weekly benefit amount, provided the individual is otherwise eligible.

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(1)a provides:

Discharge for misconduct.

(1) Definition.

a. For the purposes of this rule, "misconduct" is defined as a deliberate act or omission by an employee that constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of the employee's contract of employment. Misconduct is limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such a degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or evil design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer. Misconduct by an individual includes but is not limited to all of the following:

(1) Willful and deliberate falsification of the individual's employment application.

(2) Knowing violation of a reasonable and uniformly enforced rule of an employer.

(3) Intentional damage of an employer's property.

(4) Consumption of alcohol, illegal or nonprescribed prescription drugs, or an impairing substance in a manner not directed by the manufacturer, or a combination of such substances, on the employer's premises in violation of the employer's employment policies.

(5) Reporting to work under the influence of alcohol, illegal or nonprescribed prescription drugs, or an impairing substance in an off-label manner, or a combination of such substances, on the employer's premises in violation of the employer's employment policies, unless the individual is compelled to work by the employer outside of scheduled or on-call working hours.

(6) Conduct that substantially and unjustifiably endangers the personal safety of coworkers or the general public.

(7) Incarceration for an act for which one could reasonably expect to be incarcerated that results in missing work.

(8) Incarceration as a result of a misdemeanor or felony conviction by a court of competent jurisdiction.

(9) Excessive unexcused tardiness or absenteeism.

(10) Falsification of any work-related report, task, or job that could expose the employer or coworkers to legal liability or sanction for violation of health or safety laws.

(11) Failure to maintain any license, registration, or certification that is reasonably required by the employer or by law, or that is a functional requirement to perform the individual's regular job duties, unless the failure is not within the control of the individual.

(12) Conduct that is libelous or slanderous toward an employer or an employee of the employer if such conduct is not protected under state or federal law.

(13) Theft of an employer's or coworker's funds or property.

(14) Intentional misrepresentation of time worked or work carried out that results in the individual receiving unearned wages or unearned benefits.

This definition has been accepted by the Iowa Supreme Court as accurately reflecting the intent of the legislature. Huntoon v. Iowa Dept of Job Serv., 275 N.W.2d 445, 448 (Iowa 1979).

A claimant is not qualified to receive unemployment insurance benefits if an employer has discharged the claimant for reasons constituting work connected misconduct. Iowa Code § 96.5-2-a. Before a claimant can be denied unemployment insurance benefits, the employer has the burden to establish the claimant was discharged for work-connected misconduct. Cosper v. Iowa Department of Job Service, 321 N.W.2d 6 (Iowa 1982), Iowa Code § 96.5-2-a.

The gravity of the incident, number of policy violations and prior warnings are factors considered when analyzing misconduct. In this matter, the evidence established that claimant was discharged for an act of misconduct when claimant was terminated after earning three or more written notices. The last most recent written notice was earned very shortly before her termination when claimant was in a hurry and failed to completely lock out an extremely dangerous piece of equipment and put her hand into equipment that had a pinch point and sharp rotating devices. Claimant earned a previous written notice for not wearing safety glasses when sanitizing devices therefore putting her at the discharge level..

The last incident, which brought about the discharge, constitutes misconduct because claimant could easily have lost an arm absent following proper safety procedures, and being in a hurry only serves to further prove the point that safety measures must always be followed. The administrative law judge holds that claimant was discharged for an act of misconduct and, as such, is disqualified for the receipt of unemployment insurance benefits.

DECISION:

The decision of the representative dated May 20, 2024, (reference 01) is affirmed. Unemployment insurance benefits shall be withheld until claimant has worked in and been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times claimant's weekly benefit amount, provided claimant is otherwise eligible.
