ADMINISTRATIVE HEARINGS DIVISION, UI APPEALS BUREAU

ELIZABETH A SINN
Claimant

APPEAL 23A-UI-02946-PT-T
ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE
DECISION

PRIMARY HEALTH CARE INC
Employer

OC: 02/26/23
Claimant: Appellant (2)

Iowa Code § 96.5(2)a – Discharge

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

Claimant filed an appeal from a decision of a representative dated March 15, 2023, (reference 01) that held claimant ineligible for unemployment insurance benefits. After due notice, a hearing was scheduled for and held on April 5, 2023. Claimant participated personally. Employer notified the administrative law judge prior to the hearing that it would not be participating in the hearing; the employer did not participate. The administrative law judge took official notice of the administrative record.

ISSUE:

Was the claimant discharged for disqualifying, job-related misconduct?

FINDINGS OF FACT:

The administrative law judge, having heard the testimony and considered all of the evidence in the record, finds: Claimant last worked for the employer on February 24, 2023. Employer discharged claimant on February 24, 2023, due to claimant's failure to properly store a vaccine and alleged violations of employer's communication policies.

Claimant was employed as a full-time nurse care manager from March 30, 2020, until her employment with Primary Health Care Inc. ended on February 24, 2023. As a nurse care manager, claimant was responsible for leading patient visits involving immunizations, vaccines, and birth control. The employer has a written employee manual that contains the employer's work rules and policies. The employer's communication policy requires employees to use an interpreter or a telephonic translation service whenever English was not a patient's first language. Claimant was aware of and had access to the employee manual.

Through most of claimant's employment with Primary Health Care Inc., management regarded claimant as a good, if not exceptional employee. While claimant was aware of employer's work rules concerning interpreters, because interpreters' services were in high demand and claimant spoke Spanish well, claimant would speak to patients in Spanish and only call an interpreter when patients had questions or communication issues arose. Claimant's supervisor knew that claimant spoke to patients in Spanish and never warned or instructed claimant to stop doing so.

On February 9, 2023, Primary Health Care Inc. received a shipment of Covid vaccines. Primary Health Care Inc. had never previously offered Covid vaccines and claimant had never been trained on how to store the vaccines. When the Covid vaccine shipment arrived, claimant mistakenly put the vaccines in the refrigerator rather than the freezer. As soon as claimant realized her mistake, she worked with the employer to remedy the situation.

On February 24, 2023, claimant's supervisor called claimant into his office and informed claimant that her employment was being terminated effective immediately due to her mistake with the vaccines and for speaking to patients in Spanish rather than always using an interpreter. Claimant had never received any warnings or discipline concerning her communication with patients, she did not know that her employment was in jeopardy, and claimant felt she was performing her job to the best of her ability.

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

For the reasons that follow, the administrative law judge concludes the claimant was discharged from employment for no disqualifying reason. Benefits are allowed.

Iowa Code section 96.5(2)a provides:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits, regardless of the source of the individual's wage credits:

2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:

a. The disqualification shall continue until the individual has worked in and has been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times the individual's weekly benefit amount, provided the individual is otherwise eligible.

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(1)a provides:

Discharge for misconduct.

(1) Definition.

a. "Misconduct" is defined as a deliberate act or omission by a worker which constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of such worker's contract of employment. Misconduct as the term is used in the disqualification provision as being limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or evil design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer. On the other hand mere inefficiency, unsatisfactory conduct, failure in good performance as the result of inability or incapacity, inadvertencies or ordinary negligence in isolated instances, or good faith errors in judgment or discretion are not to be deemed misconduct within the meaning of the statute.

This definition has been accepted by the Iowa Supreme Court as accurately reflecting the intent of the legislature. Huntoon v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 275 N.W.2d 445, 448 (Iowa 1979).

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(4) provides:

(4) Report required. The claimant's statement and employer's statement must give detailed facts as to the specific reason for the claimant's discharge. Allegations of misconduct or dishonesty without additional evidence shall not be sufficient to result in disqualification. If the employer is unwilling to furnish available evidence to corroborate the allegation, misconduct cannot be established. In cases where a suspension or disciplinary layoff exists, the claimant is considered as discharged, and the issue of misconduct shall be resolved.

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(8) provides:

(8) Past acts of misconduct. While past acts and warnings can be used to determine the magnitude of a current act of misconduct, a discharge for misconduct cannot be based on such past act or acts. The termination of employment must be based on a current act.

The employer has the burden of proof in establishing disqualifying job misconduct. Cosper v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 321 N.W.2d 6 (Iowa 1982). A determination as to whether an employee's act is misconduct does not rest solely on the interpretation or application of the employer's policy or rule. A violation is not necessarily disqualifying misconduct even if the employer was fully within its rights to impose discipline up to or including discharge for the incident under its policy. The issue is not whether the employer made a correct decision in separating claimant, but whether the claimant is entitled to unemployment insurance benefits. Infante v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 364 N.W.2d 262 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984). What constitutes misconduct justifying termination of an employee and what misconduct warrants denial of unemployment insurance benefits are two separate decisions. Pierce v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 425 N.W.2d 679 (Iowa Ct. App. 1988).

Misconduct serious enough to warrant discharge is not necessarily serious enough to warrant a denial of job insurance benefits. Such misconduct must be "substantial." Newman v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 351 N.W.2d 806 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984). The law limits disqualifying misconduct to substantial and willful wrongdoing or repeated carelessness or negligence that equals willful misconduct in culpability. Lee v. Employment Appeal Bd., 616 N.W.2d 661 (Iowa 2000). A failure in job performance is not misconduct unless it is intentional. Huntoon, supra; Lee v. Emp't Appeal Bd., 616 N.W.2d 661 (Iowa 2000).

When based on carelessness, the carelessness must actually indicate a "wrongful intent" to be disqualifying in nature. Id. Negligence does not constitute misconduct unless recurrent in nature; a single act is not disqualifying unless indicative of a deliberate disregard of the employer's interests. Henry v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 391 N.W.2d 731 (Iowa Ct. App. 1986). Poor work performance is not misconduct in the absence of evidence of intent. Miller v. Emp't Appeal Bd., 423 N.W.2d 211 (Iowa Ct. App. 1988). Generally, continued refusal to follow reasonable instructions constitutes misconduct. Gilliam v. Atlantic Bottling Co., 453 N.W.2d 230 (Iowa Ct. App. 1990); however, "Balky and argumentative" conduct is not necessarily disqualifying. City of Des Moines v. Picray, (No. 85-919, Iowa Ct. App. Filed June 25, 1986).

The employer purportedly discharged claimant for speaking to patients in Spanish—conduct of which claimant's supervisor was aware—and for mistakenly storing COVID-19 vaccines in the fridge. Claimant had never previously been warned or disciplined for speaking to patients in Spanish and her mistake storing a new vaccine she had never previously administered arose from, at worst, mere inadvertency, inability, or ordinary negligence. The employer has not provided sufficient evidence of deliberate conduct in violation of company policy, procedure, or prior warning. Claimant's conduct does not evince a willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in a deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees. As such, benefits are allowed.

DECISION:

The March 15, 2023, (reference 01) unemployment insurance decision is reversed. The claimant was discharged from employment for no disqualifying reason. Benefits are allowed, provided the claimant is otherwise eligible.
