REMEDY INTELLIGENT STAFFING INC

APPEAL 23A-UI-11622-S2-T

ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE DECISION

OC: 10/29/23
Claimant: Respondent (1)

Iowa Code § 96.5(2)a – Discharge for Misconduct
Iowa Code § 96.3(7) – Recovery of Benefit Overpayment
Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.10 – Employer/Representative Participation Fact-finding Interview

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

The employer filed an appeal from the December 4, 2023, (reference 01) unemployment insurance decision that allowed benefits based upon a finding that claimant was discharged with no evidence of misconduct. The parties were properly notified about the hearing. A telephone hearing was held on January 4, 2024. Claimant Christine Juma participated and testified. Employer Remedy Intelligent Staffing, Inc. participated through branch manager Dawn Starr and unemployment insurance consultant Brandi Henri. Employer's Exhibits 1 – 4 were received. The administrative law judge took official notice of the administrative record.

ISSUES:

Was the claimant discharged for disqualifying job-related misconduct?
Has the claimant been overpaid unemployment insurance benefits, and if so, can the repayment of those benefits to the agency be waived?

FINDINGS OF FACT:

Having reviewed all of the evidence in the record, the administrative law judge finds: Claimant was employed full-time as a material handler from June 22, 2023, and was separated from employment on October 25, 2023, when she was discharged.

Employer is a temporary staffing agency and assigned claimant to work at General Mills. General Mills maintains a policy prohibiting employees from having or eating food on the production line, due to the risk of cross contaminating food products. Cross contamination is costly to the company because it requires washing the line and disposing of product because it cannot be used. Claimant was aware of the policy.

On September 25, 2023, a half-eaten Snickers bar was found in the area where claimant and two other individuals employed by employer were assigned to work. Because peanuts are an allergen, they are of great concern for cross contamination of food. All three employees denied the candy bar was theirs. Claimant suggested employer check with another employee who was in the area after claimant had been there. Employer could not determine which employee brought and opened the candy bar in violation of General Mills' rule, so it discharged all three employees due to the severity of the violation.

Claimant received no disciplinary action during her employment.

The administrative record reflects that claimant has received unemployment benefits in the amount of $966.00, since filing a claim with an effective date of October 29, 2023, for the seven weeks ending December 16, 2023. Employer did not participate in the fact-finding interview. It did not participate because although it provided the name and telephone number for a witness for the fact-finding interview, the witness did not receive a call.

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

For the reasons that follow, the administrative law judge concludes the claimant was discharged for no disqualifying reason. Benefits are allowed.

Iowa Code section 96.5(2)a provides:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits, regardless of the source of the individual's wage credits:

2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:

a. The disqualification shall continue until the individual has worked in and has been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times the individual's weekly benefit amount, provided the individual is otherwise eligible.

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(1)a provides:

Discharge for misconduct.

(1) Definition.

a. "Misconduct" is defined as a deliberate act or omission by a worker which constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of such worker's contract of employment. Misconduct as the term is used in the disqualification provision as being limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or evil design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer. On the other hand mere inefficiency, unsatisfactory conduct, failure in good performance as the result of inability or incapacity, inadvertencies or ordinary negligence in isolated instances, or good faith errors in judgment or discretion are not to be deemed misconduct within the meaning of the statute.

This definition has been accepted by the Iowa Supreme Court as accurately reflecting the intent of the legislature. Huntoon v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 275 N.W.2d 445, 448 (Iowa 1979).

The employer has the burden of proof in establishing disqualifying job misconduct. Cosper v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 321 N.W.2d 6 (Iowa 1982). The issue is not whether the employer made a correct decision in separating claimant, but whether the claimant is entitled to unemployment insurance benefits. Infante v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 364 N.W.2d 262 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984). What constitutes misconduct justifying termination of an employee and what misconduct warrants denial of unemployment insurance benefits are two separate decisions. Pierce v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 425 N.W.2d 679 (Iowa Ct. App. 1988).

An employer may discharge an employee for any number of reasons or no reason at all if it is not contrary to public policy, but if it fails to meet its burden of proof to establish job related misconduct as the reason for the separation, employer incurs potential liability for unemployment insurance benefits related to that separation. Employer did not present any evidence that claimant engaged in job-related misconduct. While an employee did violate the policy prohibiting food on the production line, employer has not established that claimant was that employee. As a result, employer has not met the burden of proof to establish that claimant engaged in misconduct that would disqualify her from benefits. Benefits are allowed.

Because claimant is eligible for benefits, the issues of overpayment of regular unemployment insurance benefits and relief of charges are moot.

DECISION:

The December 4, 2023, (reference 01) unemployment insurance decision is affirmed. Claimant was discharged from employment for no disqualifying reason. Benefits are allowed, provided she is otherwise eligible. The issues of overpayment, repayment and chargeability are moot.
