(Decision Dated & Mailed)

Section 96.5-2-a - Discharge
Section 96.3-7 - Recovery of Overpayment of Benefits

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

The employer appealed an unemployment insurance decision dated March 3, 2005, reference 01, that concluded the claimant's discharge was not for work-connected misconduct. A telephone hearing was held on March 31, 2005. The parties were properly notified about the hearing. The claimant participated in the hearing. Karen Kaiser participated in the hearing on behalf of the employer. Exhibits One through Five were admitted into evidence at the hearing.

FINDINGS OF FACT:

The claimant worked as a certified nursing assistant/medication aide for the employer from October 30, 2000, to February 3, 2005. The claimant was informed and understood that under the employer's work rules, the use of profanity, insubordination, and inconsiderate treatment of others was grounds for disciplinary action.

On January 31, 2004, the claimant did not immediately follow a nurse's order to give a resident Tylenol. She questioned the nurse about whether the nurse had checked on a resident who had been coughing in a manner that the nurse felt was insinuating that the nurse was not doing her job. On February 3, 2005, the claimant disregarded an instruction given to her by a nurse to give a resident pain medication. The claimant did not feel comfortable giving the medication because the resident assured her that she was not in pain. The claimant ultimately gave the resident the medication but argued with the nurse about giving the resident the medication. When the nurse told the claimant that it was not within the claimant's scope of practice to assess residents, the claimant responded, "Fine, from now on I will kiss your fucking ass."

On February 3, 2005, the employer discharged the claimant for inconsiderate and insubordinate behavior and using profanity. The claimant had previously been warned about her negative interaction with nurses.

The claimant filed for and received a total of $1,896.00 in unemployment insurance benefits for the weeks between January 30 and April 9, 2005.

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

The issue in this case is whether the claimant was discharged for work-connected misconduct as defined by the unemployment insurance law.

Iowa Code section 96.5-2-a provides:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits:

2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:

a. The individual shall be disqualified for benefits until the individual has worked in and has been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times the individual's weekly benefit amount, provided the individual is otherwise eligible.

871 IAC 24.32(1)a provides:

Discharge for misconduct.

(1) Definition.

a. "Misconduct" is defined as a deliberate act or omission by a worker which constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of such worker's contract of employment. Misconduct as the term is used in the disqualification provision as being limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or evil design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer. On the other hand mere inefficiency, unsatisfactory conduct, failure in good performance as the result of inability or incapacity, inadvertencies or ordinary negligence in isolated instances, or good faith errors in judgment or discretion are not to be deemed misconduct within the meaning of the statute.

This definition has been accepted by the Iowa Supreme Court as accurately reflecting the intent of the legislature. Huntoon v. Iowa Department of Job Service, 275 N.W.2d 445, 448 (Iowa 1979).

The claimant's violation of a known work rule regarding profanity and insubordination was a willful and material breach of the duties and obligations to the employer and a substantial disregard of the standards of behavior the employer had the right to expect of the claimant. Work-connected misconduct as defined by the unemployment insurance law has been established in this case.

The next issue in this case is whether the claimant was overpaid unemployment insurance benefits.

Iowa Code section 96.3-7 provides:

7. Recovery of overpayment of benefits. If an individual receives benefits for which the individual is subsequently determined to be ineligible, even though the individual acts in good faith and is not otherwise at fault, the benefits shall be recovered. The department in its discretion may recover the overpayment of benefits either by having a sum equal to the overpayment deducted from any future benefits payable to the individual or by having the individual pay to the department a sum equal to the overpayment.

As a result of this decision, the claimant is disqualified from receiving unemployment insurance benefits and was overpaid $1,896.00 in unemployment insurance benefits for the weeks between January 30 and April 9, 2005.

DECISION:

The unemployment insurance decision dated March 3, 2005, reference 01, is reversed. The claimant is disqualified from receiving unemployment insurance benefits until she has been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times her weekly benefit amount, provided she is otherwise eligible. The claimant was overpaid $1,896.00 in unemployment insurance benefits, which must be repaid.
