Iowa Code § 96.5(2)a – Discharge for Misconduct
Iowa Code § 96.3(7) – Recovery of Benefit Overpayment
Iowa Admin. Code r. 871—24.10 – Employer/Representative Participation Fact-finding Interview

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

On March 9, 2023, the employer filed an appeal from the March 1, 2023, (reference 01) unemployment insurance decision that allowed benefits based upon the determination that claimant was discharged without a showing of disqualifying misconduct. The parties were properly notified of the hearing. A telephone hearing was held on March 28, 2023. The claimant, Joel R. Farley, did not participate. The employer, Fareway Stores, Inc., participated through Senior HR Generalist Bret Grimes. Employer's Exhibits 1 through 3 were admitted. The administrative law judge took official notice of the administrative record.

ISSUES:

Was the claimant discharged for disqualifying job-related misconduct?
Has the claimant been overpaid unemployment insurance benefits, and if so, can the repayment of those benefits to the agency be waived?
Can charges to the employer's account be waived?

FINDINGS OF FACT:

Having reviewed all of the evidence in the record, the administrative law judge finds: Claimant was employed full time as an order picker in the loading dock from October 20, 2009, until this employment ended on December 8, 2022, when he was discharged.

On December 2, 2022, a store notified the employer that a jar of product had been broken in the trailer when it was delivered. Specifically, it appeared that the jar of product had been thrown against the back wall of the trailer, near the roof. The jar had not been cleaned up, and there was glass and product in the trailer. Because the rest of the pallet of product was intact, the employer determined the jar had been broken by an employee, likely intentionally. Claimant had loaded the trailer the night before.

On December 8, 2022, Grimes and his supervisor, Wes Bass, approached claimant about the issue. Claimant ultimately told them that he had thrown the jar against the back of the trailer.

He expressed no remorse and said he would do so again. Claimant also lost his temper during this meeting. Though Grimes and Bass were prepared to issue claimant a suspension, because he expressed no remorse and lost his temper, they discharged claimant.

The employer has an expectation that employees will act professionally and that they will not intentionally destroy products. Other employees have been discharged for similar conduct in the past. Claimant knew about the employer's policy and expectation because it appears in the employee handbook, and because he received training specific to his position on the loading dock.

The employer acknowledged that claimant was usually a good employee. However, he had issues with his temper throughout his employment. He had received warnings as the result of losing his temper in the past. The most recent was issued on September 3, 2020, when he yelled at a trainer who was attempting to guide claimant to meet his quota.

The administrative record indicates that claimant filed a claim for unemployment benefits with an effective date of February 5, 2023. Since that time, he has received no unemployment benefits. The administrative record indicates that the employer did not participate in the fact-finding interview.

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

For the reasons that follow, the administrative law judge concludes the claimant was discharged from employment due to job-related misconduct.

Iowa Code section 96.5(2)(a) and (d) provide:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits:

2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:

a. The disqualification shall continue until the individual has worked in and has been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times the individual's weekly benefit amount, provided the individual is otherwise eligible.

d. For the purposes of this subsection, "misconduct" means a deliberate act or omission by an employee that constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of the employee's contract of employment. Misconduct is limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or even design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer. Misconduct by an individual includes but is not limited to all of the following:

(1) Material falsification of the individual's employment application.

- (2) Knowing violation of a reasonable and uniformly enforced rule of an employer.
- (3) Intentional damage of an employer's property.
- (4) Consumption of alcohol, illegal or nonprescribed prescription drugs, or an impairing substance in a manner not directed by the manufacturer, or a combination of such substances, on the employer's premises in violation of the employer's employment policies.
- (5) Reporting to work under the influence of alcohol, illegal or nonprescribed prescription drugs, or an impairing substance in an off-label manner, or a combination of such substances, on the employer's premises in violation of the employer's employment policies, unless the individual is compelled to work by the employer outside of scheduled or on-call working hours.
- (6) Conduct that substantially and unjustifiably endangers the personal safety of coworkers or the general public.
- (7) Incarceration for an act for which one could reasonably expect to be incarcerated that results in missing work.
- (8) Incarceration as a result of a misdemeanor or felony conviction by a court of competent jurisdiction.
- (9) Excessive unexcused tardiness or absenteeism.
- (10) Falsification of any work-related report, task, or job that could expose the employer or coworkers to legal liability or sanction for violation of health or safety laws.
- (11) Failure to maintain any license, registration, or certification that is reasonably required by the employer or by law, or that is a functional requirement to perform the individual's regular job duties, unless the failure is not within the control of the individual.
- (12) Conduct that is libelous or slanderous toward an employer or an employee of the employer if such conduct is not protected under state or federal law.
- (13) Theft of an employer or coworker's funds or property.
- (14) Intentional misrepresentation of time worked or work carried out that results in the individual receiving unearned wages or unearned benefits.

The employer has the burden of proof in establishing disqualifying job misconduct. Cosper v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 321 N.W.2d 6 (Iowa 1982).

A determination as to whether an employee's act is misconduct does not rest solely on the interpretation or application of the employer's policy or rule. A violation is not necessarily disqualifying misconduct even if the employer was fully within its rights to impose discipline up to or including discharge for the incident under its policy. The issue is not whether the employer made a correct decision in separating claimant, but whether the claimant is entitled to unemployment insurance benefits. Infante v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 364 N.W.2d 262 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984). What constitutes misconduct justifying termination of an employee and what misconduct warrants denial of unemployment insurance benefits are two separate decisions. Pierce v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 425 N.W.2d 679 (Iowa Ct. App. 1988). Misconduct serious enough to warrant discharge is not necessarily serious enough to warrant a denial of job insurance benefits. Such misconduct must be "substantial." Newman v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 351 N.W.2d 806 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984). The focus is on deliberate, intentional, or culpable acts by the employee.

Claimant intentionally damaged the employer's property and knowingly violated a uniformly enforced rule. He admitted to throwing the product against the trailer such that it broke, did not clean up the broken glass or spilled product, and stated he would do it again when confronted. The employer has taken similar disciplinary action against other employees for similar conduct. Furthermore, claimant was aware that his temper was causing his employment to be jeopardized, but he continued to engage in conduct based in anger, including, presumably, during the final incident. Claimant engaged job-related misconduct. Benefits are denied.

Because the claimant has received no unemployment benefits since this separation, the issues of overpayment, repayment, and participation are moot.

DECISION:

The March 1, 2023, (reference 01) unemployment insurance decision is REVERSED. The claimant was discharged from employment due to job-related misconduct. Benefits are withheld until such time as he has worked in and been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times his weekly benefit amount, provided he is otherwise eligible. The issues of overpayment, repayment, and participation are moot.
