ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE DECISION

OC: 03/03/24
Claimant: Appellant (2)

Iowa Code § 96.5(2)a – Discharge from Employment

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

On April 18, 2024, claimant Marc Romanik filed an appeal from the April 8, 2024 (reference 01) unemployment insurance decision that denied benefits, determining employer Harveys BR Management Company Inc. discharged him for failure to follow instructions. The Unemployment Insurance Appeals Bureau mailed notice of the hearing on April 22, 2024. Administrative Law Judge Elizabeth A. Johnson held a telephonic hearing at 8:00 a.m. on Monday, May 6, 2024. Claimant Marc Romanik personally participated. Employer Harveys BR Management Company Inc. did not appear and participate. No exhibits were offered or admitted.

ISSUE:

Whether claimant was discharged from employment for disqualifying, job-related misconduct.

FINDINGS OF FACT:

Having reviewed all of the evidence in the record, the administrative law judge finds: Claimant began employment with Harveys BR Management Company Inc. on October 20, 2008. He worked full-time-hours as a table games dealer. Claimant last reported to work on January 31, 2024. His employment ended on February 15, 2024, when the employer discharged him for accidentally falling asleep while performing his job.

On September 1, 2023, the employer changed claimant's schedule. Prior to that date, claimant had been working 10:00 am until 6:00pm. The employer changed the schedule so he had to work from 6:00 am until 2:00 pm. Claimant struggled in transitioning to his new schedule. He experienced significant fatigue, and during the first week of October 2023 he started falling asleep while working. The employer issued him a warning after that incident. Claimant received a second warning several weeks later for starting to fall asleep again while working. During that time, claimant was undergoing medical testing and learned he had an iron deficiency that was contributing to his fatigue. He began receiving iron infusions, and these infusions helped his fatigue improve and his energy level increase.

Later, around his birthday in mid-January 2024, claimant went to the doctor and received pain medication samples to assist with his back pain. Claimant did not realize it, but these samples were twice the strength of the medication his doctor had been prescribing him. He took the medicine before going to work to help his pain throughout the day. Claimant had taken the medicine before working for about a week when the employer caught him “nodding off” on the surveillance camera footage on January 31, 2024. The employer discharged him, as this was his third incident of sleeping at work. Claimant had not been advised to avoid taking this medicine in the morning or to avoid taking it before working. He was not aware the medication could lead to drowsiness or other adverse side effects.

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

For the reasons that follow, the administrative law judge concludes claimant was discharged from employment for no disqualifying reason. Benefits are allowed, provided he is otherwise eligible.

Iowa Code section 96.5(2)(a) and (d) provide:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits:

2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual’s employment:

a. The disqualification shall continue until the individual has worked in and has been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times the individual’s weekly benefit amount, provided the individual is otherwise eligible...

d. For the purposes of this subsection, “misconduct” means a deliberate act or omission by an employee that constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of the employee’s contract of employment. Misconduct is limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer’s interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or even design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer’s interests or of the employee’s duties and obligations to the employer. Misconduct by an individual includes but is not limited to all of the following:

- (1) Material falsification of the individual’s employment application.
- (2) Knowing violation of a reasonable and uniformly enforced rule of an employer.
- (3) Intentional damage of an employer’s property.
- (4) Consumption of alcohol, illegal or nonprescribed prescription drugs, or an impairing substance in a manner not directed by the manufacturer, or a combination of such substances, on the employer’s premises in violation of the employer’s employment policies.
- (5) Reporting to work under the influence of alcohol, illegal or nonprescribed prescription drugs, or an impairing substance in an off-label manner, or a combination of such substances, on the employer’s premises in violation of the employer's employment policies, unless the individual is compelled to work by the employer outside of scheduled or on-call working hours.

(6) Conduct that substantially and unjustifiably endangers the personal safety of coworkers or the general public.

(7) Incarceration for an act for which one could reasonably expect to be incarcerated that results in missing work.

(8) Incarceration as a result of a misdemeanor or felony conviction by a court of competent jurisdiction.

(9) Excessive unexcused tardiness or absenteeism.

(10) Falsification of any work-related report, task, or job that could expose the employer or coworkers to legal liability or sanction for violation of health or safety laws.

(11) Failure to maintain any license, registration, or certification that is reasonably required by the employer or by law, or that is a functional requirement to perform the individual's regular job duties, unless the failure is not within the control of the individual.

(12) Conduct that is libelous or slanderous toward an employer or an employee of the employer if such conduct is not protected under state or federal law.

(13) Theft of an employer or coworker's funds or property.

(14) Intentional misrepresentation of time worked or work carried out that results in the individual receiving unearned wages or unearned benefits.

The employer has the burden of proof in establishing disqualifying job misconduct. Cosper v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 321 N.W.2d 6 (Iowa 1982). Misconduct serious enough to warrant discharge is not necessarily serious enough to warrant a denial of job insurance benefits. Such misconduct must be "substantial." Newman v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 351 N.W.2d 806 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984). The focus is on deliberate, intentional, or culpable acts by the employee.

Generally, continued refusal to follow reasonable instructions constitutes misconduct. Gilliam v. Atlantic Bottling Co., 453 N.W.2d 230 (Iowa Ct. App. 1990). When based on carelessness, the carelessness must actually indicate a "wrongful intent" to be disqualifying in nature. Id. Negligence does not constitute misconduct unless recurrent in nature; a single act is not disqualifying unless indicative of a deliberate disregard of the employer's interests. Henry v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 391 N.W.2d 731 (Iowa Ct. App. 1986). Poor work performance is not misconduct in the absence of evidence of intent. Miller v. Emp't Appeal Bd., 423 N.W.2d 211 (Iowa Ct. App. 1988).

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(4) provides:

(4) Report required. The claimant's statement and the employer's statement must give detailed facts as to the specific reason for the claimant's discharge. Allegations of misconduct or dishonesty without additional evidence shall not be sufficient to result in disqualification. If the employer is unwilling to furnish available evidence to corroborate the allegation, misconduct cannot be established. In cases where a suspension or disciplinary layoff exists, the claimant is considered as discharged, and the issue of misconduct shall be resolved.

A determination as to whether an employee's act is misconduct does not rest solely on the interpretation or application of the employer's policy or rule. A violation is not necessarily disqualifying misconduct even if the employer was fully within its rights to impose discipline up to or including discharge for the incident under its policy. The issue is not whether the employer made a correct decision in separating claimant, but whether the claimant is entitled to unemployment insurance benefits. Infante v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 364 N.W.2d 262 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984). What constitutes misconduct justifying termination of an employee and what misconduct warrants denial of unemployment insurance benefits are two separate decisions. Pierce v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 425 N.W.2d 679 (Iowa Ct. App. 1988).

Here, the employer did not participate in the appeal hearing or submit any evidence to be considered in lieu of live testimony. While claimant did fall asleep while working on three occasions, the final incident was not similar to the first two incidents. After the first two incidents in the fall of 2023, claimant took steps to seek medical treatment and remedy the issues he was experiencing. He adapted to the new schedule the employer gave him and received iron infusions to bolster his energy level and minimize his fatigue. Claimant had no further issues of this nature. However, he then went onto a new medication dosage in late January 2024 and was not given proper information about that dosage. Had claimant been warned by a medical provider that the medication caused dizziness and drowsiness that may lead to falling asleep while working, he could have taken a leave of absence while transitioning onto the new dosage. Additionally, claimant had been on the dosage for a week and he had not experienced any issues to his knowledge. He did not know the medication was putting him at risk of falling asleep. The evidence in the record does not establish that claimant committed any willful or deliberate misconduct. Benefits are allowed.

DECISION:

The April 8, 2024 (reference 01) unemployment insurance decision is reversed. The employer discharged claimant from employment for no disqualifying reason. Benefits are allowed, provided he is otherwise eligible. Any benefits claimed and withheld on this basis shall be paid.
