(Decision Dated & Mailed)

Iowa Code § 96.5(1) – Voluntary Leaving

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

Claimant filed a timely appeal from the June 26, 2006, reference 01, decision that denied benefits. After due notice was issued, a hearing was held on July 24, 2006. Claimant participated. Employer participated through Craig Bradke, Administrator and Shirley Spoden, Administrative Services Coordinator. The issue is whether claimant quit the employment without good cause attributable to the employer. Claimant's Exhibit A was received.

FINDINGS OF FACT:

Having reviewed all of the evidence in the record, the administrative law judge finds: Claimant was employed as a full-time custodian from July 2004 through June 2, 2006 when she quit. She was injured at work on October 26, 2005 and had surgery on February 20, 2006. On March 22, claimant's physician released her to return to work with a one-pound lifting restriction but employer had no work to fit that restriction. The restriction was increased to two pounds on April 12 and employer provided work within that restriction effective April 18. She was also required to wear a sling and at the point where the lifting restriction was raised to five pounds, use the sling as needed. While employer initially wanted claimant to wear a sling at all times in case she were to fall (although ironically it seems her balance would be compromised by having her arm in a sling), it did comply with the doctor's instructions. She was given work duties with which she was familiar and which met her medical restrictions. After claimant complained to union representative Tom Anthony in May about Spoden harassing her, Spoden decreased the questioning, but claimant still tendered her resignation after employer asked her about an advertisement in the local paper about setting up a daycare business. She did not raise a concern about her accumulated vacation or sick leave time before quitting.

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

For the reasons that follow, the administrative law judge concludes the claimant voluntarily left the employment without good cause attributable to the employer.

Iowa Code § 96.5-1 provides:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits:

1. Voluntary quitting. If the individual has left work voluntarily without good cause attributable to the individual's employer, if so found by the department.

871 IAC 24.26(6)b provides:

Voluntary quit with good cause attributable to the employer and separations not considered to be voluntary quits. The following are reasons for a claimant leaving employment with good cause attributable to the employer:

(6) Separation because of illness, injury or pregnancy.

b. Employment related separation. The claimant was compelled to leave employment because of an illness, injury, or allergy condition that was attributable to the employment. Factors and circumstances directly connected with employment which caused or aggravated the illness, injury, allergy, or disease to the employee which made it impossible for the employee to continue in employment because of serious danger to the employee's health may be held to be an involuntary termination of employment and constitute good cause attributable to the employer. The claimant will be eligible for benefits if compelled to leave employment as a result of an injury suffered on the job.

In order to be eligible under this paragraph "b" an individual must present competent evidence showing adequate health reasons to justify termination; before quitting have informed the employer of the work-related health problem and inform the employer that the individual intends to quit unless the problem is corrected or the individual is reasonably accommodated. Reasonable accommodation includes other comparable work which is not injurious to the claimant's health and for which the claimant must remain available.

871 IAC 24.25(21) and (22) provides:

Voluntary quit without good cause. In general, a voluntary quit means discontinuing the employment because the employee no longer desires to remain in the relationship of an employee with the employer from whom the employee has separated. The employer has the burden of proving that the claimant is disqualified for benefits pursuant to Iowa Code § 96.5. However, the claimant has the initial burden to produce evidence that the claimant is not disqualified for benefits in cases involving Iowa Code § 96.5, subsection (1), paragraphs "a" through "i," and subsection 10. The following reasons for a voluntary quit shall be presumed to be without good cause attributable to the employer:

(21) The claimant left because of dissatisfaction with the work environment.

(22) The claimant left because of a personality conflict with the supervisor.

The claimant has the burden of proving that the voluntary leaving was for good cause attributable to the employer. Iowa Code § 96.6(2). An individual who voluntarily leaves their employment must first give notice to the employer of the reasons for quitting in order to give the employer an opportunity to address or resolve the complaint. Cobb v. Employment Appeal Bd., 506 N.W.2d 445 (Iowa 1993). Claimant was not required to give notice of his intention to quit due to an intolerable, detrimental or unsafe working environment if employer had or should have had reasonable knowledge of the condition. Hy-Vee, Inc. v. Employment Appeal Bd., 710 N.W.2d 1 (Iowa 2005).

An individual who voluntarily leaves their employment due to an alleged work-related illness or injury must first give notice to the employer of the anticipated reasons for quitting in order to give the employer an opportunity to remedy the situation or offer an accommodation. Suluki v. Employment Appeal Board, 503 N.W.2d 402 (Iowa 1993). An employee who receives a reasonable expectation of assistance from the employer after complaining about working conditions must complain further if conditions persist in order to preserve eligibility for benefits. Polley v. Gopher Bearing Company, 478 N.W.2d 775 (Minn. App. 1991).

Employer is entitled to inquire as to an employee's medical status as it affects work and certainly as it pertains to a work injury. Inasmuch as the employer met all medical restrictions and claimant did not give the employer an opportunity to resolve any additional complaints prior to leaving employment, the separation was without good cause attributable to the employer. Benefits are denied.

DECISION:

The June 26, 2006, reference 01, decision is affirmed. The claimant voluntarily left her employment without good cause attributable to the employer. Benefits are withheld until such time as she has worked in and been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times her weekly benefit amount, provided she is otherwise eligible.
