ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE
DECISION

OC: 07/16/23

Claimant: Appellant (1)

Iowa Code § 96.5-1 – Voluntary Quit

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

Claimant filed an appeal from a decision of a representative dated August 10, 2023, (reference 01) which held claimant ineligible for unemployment insurance benefits. After due notice, an in person hearing was scheduled for and held on September 12, 2023. Claimant participated. Employer participated by Richard Jean-Charles.

ISSUE:

The issue in this matter is whether claimant quit for good cause attributable to employer.

FINDINGS OF FACT:

The administrative law judge, having heard the testimony and considered all of the evidence in the record, finds: Claimant last worked for employer on , 202 . Claimant stated that she voluntarily quit her job as a picker / scanner because she believed that she might have had her eye injured by a scanner, and she felt that her supervisor Allie treated people harshly by speeding up a conveyor belt and having too many large packages.

Claimant indicated that her eye was injured at work as a result of a coworker accidentally pointing a scanner into her eye. Claimant stated that she was 15-30 feet from the person who might have hit her with a scanner if on the conveyor and potentially closer when she and other pickers were out picking and scanning. Claimant stated that she went to an eye doctor, although no medical documentation was forwarded to the administrative law judge. Claimant did not say what part of her eye was injured.

Claimant also stated that she was asked to move items that were too large and too heavy. Her job description indicated that workers needed to be able to lift or move 49.5 pounds. Claimant stated that often boxes bigger than that came down her line. Employer stated that large boxes are marked “heavy” and team members are asked to contact another associate for a team lift of those boxes.

Claimant additionally stated that her supervisor Allie would speed up the conveyor belt containing boxes. Employer's representative stated that the control of the speed of the belt is determined off site and not by a supervisor.

Claimant was an employee in good standing at the time of her quit. She stated that she was quitting for family reasons / to move when she alerted employer of her quit.

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

Iowa Code section 96.5(1) provides:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits, regardless of the source of the individual's wage credits:

1. Voluntary quitting. If the individual has left work voluntarily without good cause attributable to the individual's employer, if so found by the department.

The administrative law judge holds that the evidence has failed to establish that claimant voluntarily quit for good cause attributable to employer when claimant terminated the employment relationship because she stated her eye was damaged by a scanner, she was asked to move boxes that were too large, and she had a manager that sped up the conveyor belt that she used to sort boxes. Employer stated claimant never provided any information concerning the alleged eye damage after an initial report. All employees are asked to seek assistance for large boxes. Additionally, claimant's supervisor had not control over the speed of the conveyor belt.

Ordinarily "good cause" is derived from the facts of each case keeping in mind the public policy stated in Iowa Code Section 96.2. O'Brien v. EAB 494 N.W.2d 660, 662 (Iowa 1993) (citing Wiese v. IA Dept. of Job Serv., 389 N.W.2d 676, 680 (Iowa 1986)). "The term encompasses real circumstances, adequate excuses that will bear the test of reason, just grounds for the action, and always the test of good faith." Wiese v. IA Dept. of Job Serv., 389 N.W.2d 676, 680 (Iowa 1986). "Common sense and prudence must be exercised in evaluating all of the circumstances that led to an employee's quit in order to attribute the cause for the termination." Id. All of the circumstances leading to claimant's quit do not amount to 'good cause reasons attributable to employer.' As such, claimant is denied unemployment benefits.

DECISION:

The decision of the representative dated August 10, 2023, (reference 01) is affirmed. Unemployment insurance benefits shall be withheld until claimant has worked in and been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times claimant's weekly benefit amount, provided claimant is otherwise eligible.
