ADMINISTRATIVE HEARINGS DIVISION, UI APPEALS BUREAU

ANGELA J MORTENSON
Claimant

APPEAL 22A-UI-10284-SN-T

ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE
DECISION

CASEY'S MARKETING COMPANY
Employer

OC: 03/13/22
Claimant: Respondent (1)

Iowa Code § 96.5(2)a – Discharge for Misconduct
Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.32(1)a – Discharge for Misconduct
Iowa Code § 96.3(7) – Recovery of Benefit Overpayment
Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.10 – Recovery of Benefit Overpayment

STATEMENT OF THE CASE:

The employer, Casey's Marketing Company, filed an appeal from the April 14, 2022, (reference 02) unemployment insurance decision that granted benefits based upon the conclusion she was discharged for poor performance, which is not misconduct. The parties were properly notified of the hearing. A telephone hearing was held on June 7, 2022. The claimant, Angela J Mortenson, participated. The employer participated through Marideliz Ortiv, unemployment hearings representative. Official notice was taken of the agency records.

ISSUES:

Whether the claimant's separation was disqualifying?

Whether the claimant was overpaid benefits? Whether the claimant is excused from repaying benefits due to the employer's non-participation at factfinding?

FINDINGS OF FACT:

Having reviewed all of the evidence in the record, the administrative law judge finds:

The claimant was employed full-time as an assistant manager from July 20, 2019, until this employment ended on March 16, 2022, when she was terminated. The claimant's immediate supervisor was General Manager Christine Bates.

On March 12, 2022, the claimant was working on a food order sent in by a customer. The claimant forgot to make one of the pizzas on the order, which resulted in the customer having to wait for that food item. The claimant thought she would be able to get all of the items ready for the customer, while also performing various duties in the store. The claimant gave the customer a free pizza and free breadstick card that night. This is something the employer encourages to do to prevent customer complaints. Nevertheless, the customer complained about the incident.

On March 16, 2022, Ms. Bates terminated the claimant for the incident that occurred on March 12, 2022. The claimant was shocked because she did not know her job was in jeopardy.

The following section gives the findings of fact necessary to resolve the participation issue:

The employer's protest gives the following information, "The claimant was discharged due to unsatisfactory performance. The claimant's actions were within his [sic] control to avoid." No final incident of poor performance was even provided. The employer stated there were no previous incidents. Amaris Ojeda was listed as the employer's representative for factfinding.

On April 4, 2022, Iowa Workforce Development sent a notice of fact finding informing the parties of a factfinding interview occurring on April 11, 2022 at 1:50 p.m. The claimant was on the call. The employer called Ms. Ojeda. Ms. Ojeda did not answer her phone.

REASONING AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW:

For the reasons that follow, the administrative law judge concludes claimant was discharged from employment for no disqualifying reason. The overpayment issue is moot because the claimant was entitled to the benefits she received.

Iowa Code section 96.5(2)a provides:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits:

2. Discharge for misconduct. If the department finds that the individual has been discharged for misconduct in connection with the individual's employment:

a. The individual shall be disqualified for benefits until the individual has worked in and has been paid wages for insured work equal to ten times the individual's weekly benefit amount, provided the individual is otherwise eligible.

871 IAC 24.32(1)a provides:

Discharge for misconduct.

(1) Definition.

a. "Misconduct" is defined as a deliberate act or omission by a worker which constitutes a material breach of the duties and obligations arising out of such worker's contract of employment. Misconduct as the term is used in the disqualification provision as being limited to conduct evincing such willful or wanton disregard of an employer's interest as is found in deliberate violation or disregard of standards of behavior which the employer has the right to expect of employees, or in carelessness or negligence of such degree of recurrence as to manifest equal culpability, wrongful intent or evil design, or to show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interests or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer. On the other hand mere inefficiency, unsatisfactory conduct, failure in good performance as the result of inability or incapacity, inadvertencies or ordinary negligence in isolated instances, or good faith errors in judgment or discretion are not to be deemed misconduct within the meaning of the statute.

This definition has been accepted by the Iowa Supreme Court as accurately reflecting the intent of the legislature. Huntoon v. Iowa Department of Job Service, 275 N.W.2d 445, 448 (Iowa 1979).

The employer has the burden of proof in establishing disqualifying job misconduct. Cosper v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 321 N.W.2d 6 (Iowa 1982). The issue is not whether the employer made a correct decision in separating claimant, but whether the claimant is entitled to unemployment insurance benefits. Infante v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 364 N.W.2d 262 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984). Misconduct must be "substantial" to warrant a denial of job insurance benefits. Newman v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 351 N.W.2d 806 (Iowa Ct. App. 1984).

Failure in job performance due to inability or incapacity is not considered misconduct because the actions were not volitional. Huntoon v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 275 N.W.2d 445, 448 (Iowa 1979). Where an individual is discharged due to a failure in job performance, proof of that individual's ability to do the job is required to justify disqualification, rather than accepting the employer's subjective view. To do so is to impermissibly shift the burden of proof to the claimant. Kelly v. Iowa Dep't of Job Serv., 386 N.W.2d 552 (Iowa Ct. App. 1986).

In this case, the claimant knew how to bake the pizza, but she merely forgot to do so. Given this record, the employer has failed to meet its burden to show the claimant engaged in misconduct.

Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.10 provides:

Employer and employer representative participation in fact-finding interviews.

(1) "Participate," as the term is used for employers in the context of the initial determination to award benefits pursuant to Iowa Code section 96.6, subsection 2, means submitting detailed factual information of the quantity and quality that if unrebutted would be sufficient to result in a decision favorable to the employer. The most effective means to participate is to provide live testimony at the interview from a witness with firsthand knowledge of the events leading to the separation. If no live testimony is provided, the employer must provide the name and telephone number of an employee with firsthand information who may be contacted, if necessary, for rebuttal. A party may also participate by providing detailed written statements or documents that provide detailed factual information of the events leading to separation. At a minimum, the information provided by the employer or the employer's representative must identify the dates and particular circumstances of the incident or incidents, including, in the case of discharge, the act or omissions of the claimant or, in the event of a voluntary separation, the stated reason for the quit. The specific rule or policy must be submitted if the claimant was discharged for violating such rule or policy. In the case of discharge for attendance violations, the information must include the circumstances of all incidents the employer or the employer's representative contends meet the definition of unexcused absences as set forth in 871—subrule 24.32\(7\). On the other hand, written or oral statements or general conclusions without supporting detailed factual information and information submitted after the fact-finding decision has been issued are not considered participation within the meaning of the statute.

(2) "A continuous pattern of nonparticipation in the initial determination to award benefits," pursuant to Iowa Code section 96.6, subsection 2, as the term is used for an entity representing employers, means on 25 or more occasions in a calendar quarter beginning with the first calendar quarter of 2009, the entity files appeals after failing to participate. Appeals filed but withdrawn before the day of the contested case hearing will not be considered in determining if a continuous pattern of nonparticipation exists. The division administrator shall notify the employer's representative in writing after each such appeal.

(3) If the division administrator finds that an entity representing employers as defined in Iowa Code section 96.6, subsection 2, has engaged in a continuous pattern of nonparticipation, the division administrator shall suspend said representative for a period of up to six months on the first occasion, up to one year on the second occasion and up to ten years on the third or subsequent occasion. Suspension by the division administrator constitutes final agency action and may be appealed pursuant to Iowa Code section 17A.19.

(4) "Fraud or willful misrepresentation by the individual," as the term is used for claimants in the context of the initial determination to award benefits pursuant to Iowa Code section 96.6, subsection 2, means providing knowingly false statements or knowingly false denials of material facts for the purpose of obtaining unemployment insurance benefits. Statements or denials may be either oral or written by the claimant. Inadvertent misstatements or mistakes made in good faith are not considered fraud or willful misrepresentation.

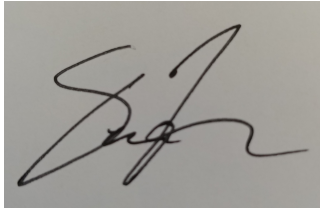

This rule is intended to implement Iowa Code section 96.3(7)"b" as amended by 2008 Iowa Acts, Senate File 2160.

As stated above, the overpayment issue is moot because the claimant was entitled to benefits. The administrative law judge wants to point out the employer's response was not sufficient to constitute participation as a matter of law. Iowa Admin. Code r. 871-24.10 clearly states, "At a minimum, the information provided by the employer or the employer's representative must identify the dates and particular circumstances of the incident or incidents, including, in the case of discharge, the act or omissions of the claimant or, in the event of a voluntary separation, the stated reason for the quit... On the other hand, written or oral statements or general conclusions without supporting detailed factual information and information submitted after the fact-finding decision has been issued are not considered participation within the meaning of the statute."

The employer provided no specific information in its response to the notice of claim. It must provide each instance of poor performance to constitute participation. Mere conclusory remarks about what led to the claimant's separation are insufficient. This is especially the case when the claimant's separation was due to something that generally will not be disqualifying like poor performance. Merely stating the claimant could do better does not make the employer's statement any less conclusory and vague. Benefits are granted, provided the claimant is otherwise eligible.

DECISION:

The April 14, 2022, (reference 02) unemployment insurance decision is affirmed. Claimant was discharged from employment for no disqualifying reason. Benefits are allowed, provided she is otherwise eligible. Any benefits claimed and withheld on this basis shall be paid. The overpayment issue is moot because the claimant is qualified for benefits.
